V's, Russians Both Confident

KREFELD, Germany (UP)—George Rogulsky, Soviet all-union sports committee vice-president, said today the Russian team was fit and confident of victory in the deciding game with Canada Sunday for the World Amateur Hockey Championship.

By SID GODBER, Editor, Penticton Herald

DUESSELDORF (UP)—In the early hours of this morning playing coach Grant Warwick of the Penticton V's gave me a slow, deliberate wink.

That wink is significant—I've seen it before, always when the chips were down, often when the odds against the Penticton V's seemed overwhelming.

That wink tells me that Warwick is confident that the V's will win the world hockey crown with goals to spare.

If the Canadians don't win it then about 75 per cent of the world's sports news and radio men are out on the limb.

After Friday night's game with Sweden the press gallery boomed confidence in the V's, although the foreign press is still somewhat bewildered. The "rough, dirty Canadians" have crossed them up. In two games the V's have won decisively while wearing halos.

"You know as well as I know that this deal isn't for Penticton alone, it's for Canada," Grant said. "It's for those people in Berlin and those people behind the Iron Curtain who want to see the Russian myth of we can beat the world at anything exploded.

"This is a big deal, bigger than I thought it was before I got over here."

The dynamic little playing coach chewed thoughtfully on a fig. "I guess I'm the one in the hot seat."

"Seems a guy can't win." Then Warwick grinned, looked me straight in the eye and winked. Slowly and deliberately he winked.

I left him then, knowing that all's well for everybody but the Russians.

WIRE BRIEFS

Reds Agree to Cut

TOKYO (UP) — Red China has agreed to a reduction in the neutral nations supervisory commission in Korea but flatly rejected any idea of abolishing the commission, Radio Peiping said today.

Bar Finn Tanker

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain will refuse fuelling facilities at her Far Eastern ports to the Finnish tanker Aruba, now understood to be bound for Communist China with a cargo of kerosene, a foreign office spokesman said Friday.

Smythe Shuttle Champ

MONTREAL (BUP)—Don Smythe, 31-year-old Toronto paint salesman, defeated his fellow townsman Bev Westcott 15-11, 15-9 today to become the first Canadian to win the national badminton championship four years in a row. Jean Warring, 17, of Calgary, won the girls' title by defeating Audrey Rhodes of Stratford, 11-0, 11-7.

Cyclone Builds Up

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—A new threat to flood-ravaged districts in New South Wales is developing as a 100 m.p.h. cyclone, centred 500 miles northeast of Brisbane, moves southwest at about 10 knots. It is due to hit Sunday.

Bulganin's 'See Me' Starts Envoy Parade

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Rolf Suhlman, Swedish ambassador and dean of the Moscow diplomatic corps, called today on the new Russian premier, Marshal Nikloai Bulganin, following a "wholesale" invitation to foreign envoys issued by the premier Friday night.

Bulganin took the unusual course—for Moscow—of expressing willingness to receive foreign envoys, in order of seniority, who wished to call on him personally.

RCMP Nab Boy Fleeing in Snow

WILLIAMS LAKE, B.C. (CP)—Two boys are dead and another is in custody here following a double shooting near Ochiltree, 22 miles east of here, and a snowshoe chase through the bush by RCMP.

Police said one of the dead was the brother of the boy in custody. No charges have been laid.

First reports said four boys were playing with a rifle Friday on a farm two miles in the bush from Ochiltree.

The dead boys were aged 13 and 12. Age of the fourth was not divulged.

HORSEBACK CHASE

After the shooting, police said, one boy fled the scene on snowshoes while the other ran to Ochiltree where a call was placed to the RCMP.

Constable J. Groves motored to Ochiltree from Williams Lake and then went after the boy on horseback, catching up with him two miles from the shooting scene.

It was believed that one boy lived on the farm and the other three were staying overnight with him. The farmer and his wife were in Williams Lake shopping when the shooting occurred.

Williams Lake is in the Cariboo, 300 miles from Vancouver.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 20-year-old former Canadian amateur boxing champion, never knocked out in the ring, died today following a street brawl.

Police are investigating the death of Robert Wilson (Buddy) Pearson, who died in a car following a fracas between six youths outside a dance hall.

Pearson, apparently unharmed after the fight, walked back to his companions but collapsed later in the back seat of their car. Six persons were questioned by police but no arrests have been made. Actual cause of death has not been determined.

Wolves Win To Bolster Soccer Lead

LONDON (Reuters)—Wolverhampton Wanderers, favorites to win the Football Association Cup, today trounced lowly Leicester, 5-0, to improve their position at the head of Division I of the English Soccer League.

The victory on a muddy field lifted Wolverhampton's points tally to 40 from 31 games, two more than its nearest rival, Sunderland—held to a 1-1 draw at home by Cardiff.

Third-place Chelsea lost ground at Aston Villa where it was beaten, 3-2, and Portsmouth, with a 3-1 home win over Newcastle United, moved up to tie two points behind Sunderland. (See results page 3.)

Big Three Parley To Follow French Arms Ratification

PARIS (UP)—French official sources said today a meeting of the western Big Three foreign ministers appears certain after final ratification by France of the German rearmament treaties.

French sources said the meeting had not been set definitely but that it was under discussion.

The Conservative morning newspaper Figaro added weight to the information in a Washington dispatch that the Big Three probably would meet there in April.

'TOO MANY BABIES' SAYS BROCK CHISHOLM

If you as a Canadian want a large family, don't try to produce all the children yourselves, but adopt some from the over-populated countries.

UN Wives Flee Jew-Arab Area

Situation 'Critical' After New Clashes

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)—Jordanian military sources charged today that five Arabs were killed by Israeli troops after a raid across the Jordan border. They said that 20 Israeli soldiers kidnapped the Jordanians and killed them after carrying them into Israeli territory.

GAZA, Egypt (AP)—Sixteen wives and children of United Nations truce observers were evacuated today from Gaza as tension mounted in the refugee-filled Arab area, scene of fighting last Monday by Israeli and Arab troops.

Firing getween Egyptian and Israeli outposts for 10 minutes was reported Friday night at the border area of Dier el Ballah. The evacuation of six women and 10 children to Jerusalem was ordered by the UN commander, who said "The situation is becoming very difficult because of the agitation of thousands of refugees in Gaza."

PROTECTIVE GUARD

About 20 other wives and children of UN Workers and Relief Agency (UNWRA) officials still remain in Gaza under a protective guard of the Egyptian army.

Maj.-Gen. Abdullah Rifaat, governor of Gaza, said today that Israelis opened fire on the Egyptian post of Dier el Ballah Friday night. He said no Egyptians were wounded.

In Cairo, a military spokesman said Egyptian forces are "ready for anything" but denied a report that troops have been moved up to the border.

Egyptian Premier Gamel Abdel Nasser, in a speech Thursday, threatened "retaliation by force" in case of further Israeli attacks.

JERUSALEM (AP) — Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canadian chief of the United Nations truce supervision organization in Palestine, may leave Jerusalem for New York early next week to report to the Security Council of the Gaza incident, a UN spokesman said today.

The Egypt-Israel mixed armistice commission holds an emergency session Sunday into the Gaza fighting.

NANAIMO MAN ACQUITTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

NANAIMO (CP)—An assize court jury Friday acquitted Arthur Stewart Royale of Nanaimo, on a charge of manslaughter arising from the Nov. 10 traffic death of Mrs. Mary MacMillan.

Evidence showed Mrs. MacMillan was walking on the wrong side of the road at night and that blinding headlights from an approaching car made it impossible for Royale to see her.

Warmer Wave 8 Hours Late —But Welcome

A warm cloud blanket — eight hours late but nonetheless welcome—today covered Victoria and raised its temperature to 34 degrees for the first time in a week.

The cloud will continue to thicken, according to weatherman William Mackie, and although the temperature will drop to about 28 degrees tonight, it will reach from 38 to 40 degrees Sunday.

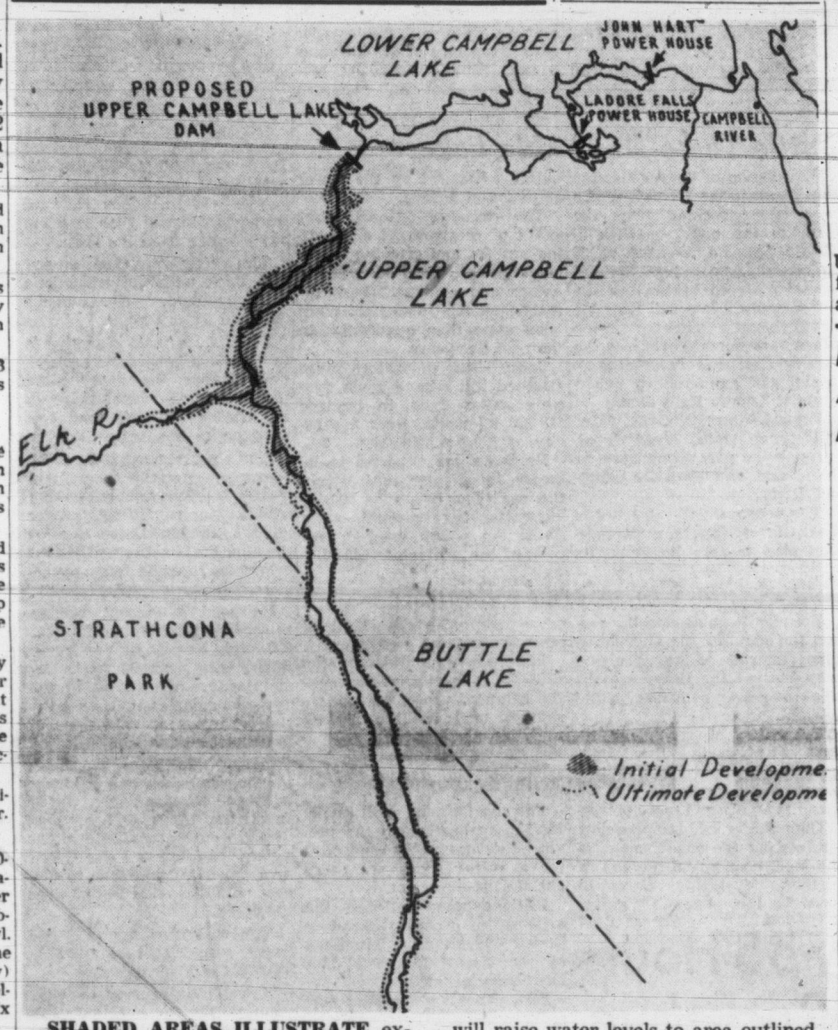
He expects some light rain Sunday, and snow at upper levels.

Overnight temperature dropped to a low of 22 degrees at Gonzales Observatory, but residents in sheltered areas reported temperatures down to 17 degrees overnight.

RECORD LOW

The unusual aspect of the past cold spell is well illustrated in temperature figures for Friday. Maximum temperature for the day was 28.8 degrees, and the all-time record low for March 4 in all previous years was 29.4 degrees.

Most of British Columbia enjoyed higher temperatures today. Coldest spot overnight was Kimberley, where the mercury dipped to 17 below, but Cape St. James on the Queen Charlotte Islands recorded 33 above for an overnight maximum.



SHADED AREAS ILLUSTRATE extent of flooding to be caused by new B.C. Power Commission dam on Upper Campbell Lake, in first stage of $19,000,000 development. Second stage will raise water levels to area outlined by dotted lines, raising level of Buttle Lake 15 feet above high water. Also marked are BCPC dams at Ladore Falls and John Hart.

CONSERVATIONISTS COMMENT

Upper Campbell Hydro Plan Given Modified Approval

The B.C. Power Commission's decision to dam Upper Campbell Lake for hydro purposes instead of Buttle Lake drew modified approval today from conservationists on Vancouver Island, but they expressed hopes the final stage of the $19,000,000 scheme that will raise Buttle Lake waters by 15 feet might prove unnecessary.

The big hydro plan to meet the Island's growing power need was announced Friday afternoon by Premier W. A. C. Bennett. (See story on page 2.)

Conservationists, spear-headed by California oil man Will Reid, who owns a home on Buttle, and Roderick Haig-Brown, Campbell River magistrate and noted author, have conducted a four-year campaign against the damming of Buttle Lake, which they claim would ruin a wonderful natural asset.

Mr. Haig-Brown said: "The first stage is fine, and we have no quarrel with that at all. It is the second stage that will do most of the damage (to Buttle Lake) that we are trying to get away from."

Buttle Lake lies two-thirds within the borders of Strathcona Park, and Mr. Haig-Brown said "we are still against the principle of violating the sanctity of a park—that is a very dangerous principle."

He said the new plan "is a big advance. It might well be that by the time work is to start on the second stage, the situation might be reassessed. Someone in the government might have the guts to put a real value on park land, and balance one against the other."

CLOSE WORK

Mr. Haig-Brown said that if the second stage is carried out on schedule, close co-operation will be required between commission engineers and parks and recreation branch officials.

He said the proposal will give more time for planning of the recreational aspects.

"If it is properly handled, it will be a tremendous recreational asset," he said.

Mr. Volrich said he now is considering an appeal to Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Times Will Sponsor Heart Disease Forum

A public medical forum on the all-important question of heart disease will be held at the Central Junior High School auditorium, on April 14, it was announced today.

The forum is jointly sponsored by the Victoria Times and the Victoria Medical Society, a branch of the B.C. Division, Canadian Medical Association.

Five Victoria doctors, all expert on heart ailments, will compose the panel to discuss the various phases of the disease.

Heading it will be Dr. T. F. Rose as moderator. The other panelists are Doctors P. A. C. Cousland, R. A. Hunter, Stuart G. Kenning and Peter Banks.

Admission will be free to the general public by tickets which will be issued later. Arrangements for obtaining tickets will be announced next week.

Plans are also being made to invite questions from the public, to be answered by the panel. Further announcements will be made on how the questions are to be submitted.

Vast Educational Facilities At UBC on View at Open House

By AB KENT, Times Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER—The biggest display of educational facilities in the province opened today at University of British Columbia at a cost of only $5,000.

Every one of the university's 145 buildings is open to public inspection, most with some kind of display prepared specially for the triennial Open House.

Student organizations, the administration and student government are putting on their greatest co-operative program and are donating a large measure of time and services, accounting for the small cost.

The project—so vast it can only be attempted every three years—is designed to "illustrate to and familiarize the public with the range of higher educational opportunities as provided by the university for the development of the province and the country," said the president's deputy, Dean Geoffrey C. Andrew.

He said Open House is also a gesture of appreciation to the public for the support given UBC.

Present for the occasion are members of the Legislature and Premier W. A. C. Bennett. Minister of Education Ray Williston opened proceedings at 11 a.m. in the campus field house where visitors are seeing continuous exhibitions of organized student activities.

Citizens are being shown everything from a model 20th century stock exchange to a mock-up 18th century apothecary shop.

Students demonstrate the uses of a lie detector, used in the psychology department; a helium liquifier which produces temperatures of 450 degrees below zero for the physics department; a device dreamed up by metalurgists to melt metal in mid-air; the university library book bindery and microfilming department; agricultural stock; home economics; the 26-bed infirmary; legislative systems and court procedure.

Visitors see how the university is administered, how its heat and power are supplied, where students live, study and eat and a myriad other things.

University authorities hope the public will see how vital a university is to British Columbia, and how urgently UBC needs funds to provide for a wider educational field than it now has, and new buildings in which to put lecturers, laboratories and students.

President Norman A. MacKenzie believes UBC has before it "one of the most exciting, interesting and promising futures in the world."

Higher Over-All Income For Burned-Out Vets Rejected by Lapointe

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

Opposition proposals that burned-out veterans receiving government allowances be permitted higher over-all annual incomes were rejected Friday by Veterans Minister Lapointe.

Owen L. Jones (CCF Okanagan Boundary) urged removal of a section of the Pension Act which prevents payment of pensions to some widows of war veterans. The section applies to veterans with fewer than 10 years of service who are killed off duty.

Mr. Jones also proposed that all servicemen be covered with a $20,000 life and illness insurance policy.

Elmore Philpott (L-Vancouver South) said no member should suggest that the changes are the ultimate in benefits which will be paid to burned-out veterans. The whole history of veterans' legislation was that it was improved nearly every year.

He turned down the suggestions during debate on a government bill to boost payments to indigent war veterans and allow them to earn increased on-the-side income.

The measure would increase the maximum monthly payment to single veterans to $60 from $50. For married veterans, the increase would be to $108 from $90. Permissible ceilings on over-all income go to $840 from $720 for single veterans and to $1,440 from $1,200 for married men.

Opposition members have proposed the ceilings be $1,200 for single men and $2,000 for married veterans. They also urged the allowance for married veterans be $120 a month.

Mr. Lapointe, a lieutenant-colonel in the Second World War, said the opposition's proposed ceilings—in line with Canadian Legion requests—would increase the number of veterans receiving allowances to 56,250 from 41,500.

The government's proposed increases were expected to cost an additional $9,250,000 to $9,500,000, whereas the opposition proposals would increase these figures by a further $13,000,000.

New Deal Soon for Harbors Board

Earnest consideration will be given Opposition demands for establishment of local advisory councils to help the National Harbors Board operate Canada's eight national harbors.

Transport Minister Marler issued this assurance Friday shortly before final approval to a government bill increasing the number of board members to four from three. The legislation now goes to the Senate.

The boost in membership is being made to enable the board to keep in closer touch with problems and development of the national ports of Vancouver, Churchill, Man., Montreal, Quebec City, Chicoutimi, Que., Halifax and Saint John, N.B. It is intended that board members make more frequent visits to these ports.

The board now consists only of two members following the recent retirement of R. K. Smith, former chairman.

Angus MacInnis (CCF-Vancouver Kingsway and Howard Green (PC-Vancouver-Quadra) said one of the new board members should be from Vancouver. In a few years Vancouver would be Canada's greatest port.

★ ★ ★

Corporation income tax matters are of public concern, Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg) said Friday as he spoke on his own bill which he said is aimed at lifting "the veil of secrecy" surrounding these matters.

The bill would make it mandatory for hearings before the income tax appeal board to be held in public in cases where the appellant is a corporation.

It also would permit the government to provide, especially on the request of parliament, information on income taxes of corporations.

★ ★ ★

A CCF member has accused the government of making a "very, very shady and suspicious deal" with four Canadian companies involving income tax remission.

Fred Zaplitny, Dauphin, who made the accusation, named the four companies as the Aluminum Co. of Canada, Gatineau Power Co., Saguenay Power Ltd. and Bell Telephone Co.

He said that in 1953 they were allowed, by order-in-council, deductions for income tax purposes amounting to almost $2,000,000.

The charge was made during debate on a private member's bill to amend the Income Tax Act. The debate was adjourned before any government member could reply. Neither Revenue Minister McCann nor Finance Minister Harris was in the House at the time.

Hydro Project To Raise Buttle

Start Ordered on $19 Million 2-Stage Upper Campbell Dam

Construction will start this spring on a two-stage, $19,000,000 hydro-electric project on the Campbell River system involving damming of Upper Campbell Lake, which Premier Bennett announced in the Legislature Friday.

The project will boost the Island's power supply by 70,000 horsepower, and "firm up" power from downstream turbines.

Plans for damming Buttle Lake have been scrapped, but the new proposal will raise the level of Buttle 15 feet above normal high water mark.

Initial stage of the development will see construction of a $9,000,000 dam two miles below Upper Campbell Lake, to provide water storage for generating plants at John Hart and Ladore Falls.

The huge dam will stretch one-third of a mile across the river. It will be more than 1,000 feet thick at the base. Construction will be rock and earth fill, with concrete apron and spillways.

The dam will raise the level of Upper Campbell Lake 79 feet, backing water up almost to the outlet of Buttle Lake, and into the Elk River Valley.

Initial Dam Ready by 1957

Men and equipment will move into the damsite area within a few weeks, to take full advantage of this year's construction season.

Specifications are being finalized by a crew of power commission engineers, preparatory to calling of construction tenders.

Premier Bennett said the dam is expected to be sufficiently advanced by November, 1956, to provide limited storage. It will be fully completed by the spring of 1957.

In 1958, if predictions of load requirements prove to be correct, the Upper Campbell dam will be raised, forcing water behind the dam back into Buttle Lake.

The second stage will raise the level of Upper Campbell Lake another 30 feet, for a total of 109 feet. Enlarging the dam will raise the level of Buttle six feet over its extreme high level, and 15 feet over normal high water mark.

Concurrent with enlarging of the Upper Campbell dam, generating units will be installed with a capacity of 70,000 horsepower. The entire 1958 program will cost an estimated $10,000,000.

Buttle To Be in 30-Mile Lake

Completion of the second step will result in the formation of a vast lake, reaching from the dam to the upper reaches of Buttle Lake, a distance of 30 miles.

Water stored behind the Upper Campbell dam will turn the development's power generators, flow downstream into the Lower Campbell Lake storage basin, and again churn generators at Ladore Falls dam.

From Ladore Falls, the water will drop into Irene Pool, through the generating units at John Hart, and down the Campbell River.

The proposal will raise Buttle Lake 12 feet less than the original plan to dam Buttle at its outlet, advocated by the power commission in 1951.

The decision followed four years of controversy, engineering studies, and growing power demands of Vancouver Island homes and industry. Peak demands on the John Hart plant have more than quadrupled in the past five years.

John Hart generators were strained this winter when they were called upon to produce 119,800 kilowatts, from a capacity of 120,000 kilowatts.

Demands are expected to increase by 67 per cent within the next four years to 200,000 kilowatts. This represents seven times the power used at the peak of the winter of 1949-50.

Recreation Considered—Bennett

Premier Bennett said the reason for adopting the alternative plan, instead of going ahead with Buttle Lake, is the acceleration of power demands on the Island.

Expansion of secondary industry, primarily the rapid growth of pulp mills and plywood plants, produced the demand for more and more power.

The premier said the plan now outlined by the commission "is the most economical method of further developing Campbell River," the Island's major power source in the "light of present costs and conditions."

"The power commission," he said, "is following its policy of the balanced use of natural resources, and in this regard, fisheries and recreational features have been given due consideration in the Campbell River scheme."

The commission will make formal application to the provincial water rights comptroller for a water license to carry out the development.

In the estimates of costs, the expense of clearing standing timber which will be inundated by the Upper Campbell dam have been included.

Five thousand acres surrounding Upper Campbell Lake and 1,500 acres on Buttle Lake will be flooded, including a five-mile spread of the Campbell River basin between the two lakes.

Generating units are now being installed at Ladore Falls.

In addition, the new Puntledge generating station shortly is due for completion. The Courtenay plant will provide another boost to the Island's dwindling power supplies, and is expected to ease the threat of a brown-out next winter.

Tax Rental Objective Stays Says Harris

BY VICTOR MACKIE

OTTAWA — The federal government has no intention of abandoning the objective of the tax rental agreements, Hon. Walter Harris, minister of finance, said Friday in an address over the Trans-Canada Network of the CBC.

"That objective is to make it financially possible for all the provinces, whatever their tax base, to perform their constitutional functions themselves and to provide a reasonable Canadian level of provincial services with an abnormal burden of taxation," he said.

He said that Prime Minister L. S. St. Laurent has stated that the federal government was not "wedded to the principle of tax rental agreements to the exclusion of any better alternative arrangement" if one could be found.

But he prime minister had made it clear that his government had no intention of abandoning the objective of the tax rental agreements, said the finance minister.

Vancouver's Bill Orr Declares New Bridge $30 Million Millstone

Alderman Plans One-Man Crusade Against Oak St. Span; Will Interview Gaglardi

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—A one-man crusade by Alderman Bill Orr begins in Victoria next week against the new Oak Street bridge which Orr criticized as a "potential $30,000,000 millstone around the city's neck."

Orr said he would seek a meeting with Works Minister P. A. Gaglardi to discuss the problem of how Vancouver will handle a tremendous flow of traffic which will rush into the city's centre from the span.

"I'm going over there on my own hook without instructions from the mayor or city council," Orr said Friday night.

He said his main objective is to persuade provincial authorities to give Vancouver more than "token financial help" in construction of any road connections to the bridge system.

"I'm not concerned about where or how the Oak Street traffic is dispersed, but rather who is going to pay for it. After all, we shouldn't have to play the bountiful host to traffic that originates outside our boundaries."

He said a recent survey showed that more than $50,000,000 might be paid by Vancouver during the next 20 years for maintenance of roads within the city's boundaries that are arterial highways or extensions of provincial roads.

During his term as acting mayor, the alderman said the problem of dispersing traffic from the city's end of Oak Street would necessitate either a new span across False Creek or a cloverleaf approach to connect with Granville Bridge over the creek.

A new bridge across False Creek would cost about $30,000,000, the alderman said.

"I won't be a party to what seems to me the eventual placing of a $30,000,000 millstone around the city's neck," he said.

He was supported by Ald. Anna Sprott, who said Vancouver could be "jockeyed into a position we can't get out of."

Meanwhile, Mayor Fred Hume said he will study the route of the proposed Oak Street Bridge with city engineer John Oliver and will concentrate on potential traffic problems from the north end of Oak Street across False Creek.

Males Make Like Granny 55 Hours Go Z-Z-Z But Still Not Rockabye

ROBERVAL, Que. (CP) — Four hardy males in this Saguenay district centre are making grandma look like an amateur at her own game.

They are the remaining entrans in a rockerthon who swayed merrily by the 55-hour mark in their rocking chairs, aiming at some sort of endurance record.

The latest to drop out of the contest was Raymond Dufour, who fell asleep Friday night after 55 hours, 38 minutes and 20 seconds of continuous rocking.

Still going are Aurelien Perron, Marcellin Voisine, Claude Fortin and Lionel Marchand. They hope to continue their stunt well into today.

Twelve men started the rockerthon at 2 p.m., Wednesday. One was disqualified Thursday for allowing the forward-backward motion to stop for just a second. Six fell by the wayside Friday.

KNITS AS ROCKS

The contestants do all sorts of things to keep their spirits up and fight sleep. Aurelien Perron, for instance, believes in rocking in the true grandma tradition by knitting a scarf. He is halfway through a handsome white and red arrangement.

The contestants, who range in age from 18 to 30 and sponsored by local merchants, are aiming at a mark of 67 hours, 3 minutes, 3 seconds, set recently by Daniel Lessard of nearby Jonquiere.

TLC-CCL UNITY TALKS SCHEDULED WEDNESDAY

OTTAWA (CP)—First firm negotiations for amalgamation of Canada's two largest labor groups—TLC and CCL—will be made here Wednesday.

They will come, informants said Friday, at a meeting of the "unity" committee of top officers of the two congresses, which up to now has been engaged solely in working out a truce on membership raiding between the organizations.

WROTE 'HENRY ALDRICH' SERIES

Alberta Woman's Play To Open on Broadway

NEW YORK (CP) — A play by Patricia Joudry, born in Spirit River in northern Alberta, will be presented at the Theatre de Lys here April 6.

Miss Joudry is a radio and TV author. "Teach Me Not to Cry" represents her first full-length play. It is set in the 1920s in a small town somewhere in North America. Robert Hartung will direct the off-Broadway production.

Miss Joudry, who began her writing career in Montreal to ensure herself good roles as an actress — her first ambition — wrote the highly popular "Henry Aldrich," radio series for 3½ years for a U.S. network. It was one of the top-rated shows in the post-war years when radio was at its peak of popularity and when the expression, "Henry, Henry Aldrich," and its answer, "coming mother," was popular in teen-age slang.

Helicopter Lands Atop 13,500-Foot Peak

INTERLAKEN, Switzerland (CP)—A French helicopter landed Friday on the summit of 13,500-foot Moench Mountain, believed to be a record height for a helicopter landing. The pilot of the Djinn helicopter was a Frenchman, Jean Dabos. Only two days before a Swiss helicopter landed on the nearby Mount Jungfrau at an altitude of 11,200 feet.

Canada doesn't forget her veterans

DO YOU REMEMBER V-E DAY? Church bells pealed triumphant. Factory whistles blew till there was no more steam. Shops closed. Men and women danced and wept in the streets with joy.

And . . . when our boys came marching home . . . ah! They were our heroes then! Remember?

Part of your Red Cross donation says "I do remember!"

In Veterans' Hospitals across Canada your Red Cross works constantly to lighten the long and tedious days of hospital life. Red Cross Lodges at large D.V.A. hospitals provide entertainment, instruction, and a home-like atmosphere for receiving relatives and friends.

In a hundred different ways, your Red Cross donation lets the veteran know he is not, and will not be forgotten.

How Many Kilowatts Equal a Cutthroat?

By TONY DICKASON

Not long ago Premier W. A. C. Bennett confided to a friend that he was always amazed at the wild scramble in the press gallery when he made an announcement . . . speed to get out the news, y'know.

It happened again Friday when he said in the House that the B.C. Power Commission has been authorized to build a dam below the outlet of Upper Campbell Lake in two stages to cost approximately $19,000,000!

Second raising of the Upper Campbell Lake will cause flooding of Buttle Lake and the two, in effect, will become one large lake about 30 miles long.

This is expected to renew the wild scramble among the numerous Vancouver Island and mainland conservationists in efforts to get at the government.

They want the erea, and Buttle Lake, left as it is. They ask: How many kilowatts equal a cutthroat trout, or a shady nook, or a fine beach?

Buttle Lake is situated in Strathcona Park, named after Lord Strathcona; is 725 feet above sea level, 18½ miles long and a mile wide, in the deep narrow valley of the Campbell River.

Around the lake rise mountains to a height of 5,000 feet, their northern sides capped with snow the year-round. It was named after John Buttle, an island resident of colonial days with a yen for exploration, and he told of the lake in writings in 1865. Sir Richard McBride set aside the area in which Buttle Lake rests as a park in 1911.

'Greatest Single Tourist Asset'

The premier believes that rapidly increasing needs for power on Vancouver Island demand further hydro development of the area. But on the other hand, in the words of author and conservationist Roderick Haigh-Brown of Campbell River, "wise development of Strathcona Park must inevitably make it by far the greatest single tourist asset on the Island."

Buttle Lake and area have been describd by early explorers and numerous visitors since as one of the most beautiful scenic portions of the world.

It seems inevitable that with increased hydro there, trees must come down with resulting scars to the lovely country; that fishing may suffer, and the nearly untouched glory of the pretty lake suffer a severe set-back.

Which do we think we can attract most of? "Tourists," say the conservationists; "industry," says the government.

Tourism Could Suffer Setback

It seems a bit paradoxical that, according to the premier's statement, it was increased power demands from major expansion of secondary forest industries which call for increased generating and storage capacity.

The trees and the water which delight sportsmen and visitors are the very trees and the water which must support a business dependent on trees and water! Around and around we go.

Engineers see little reason why the natural beauty cannot be maintained. But few sportsmen consider engineering creations things of wonder to behold. It's a complete difference of outlook on the situation at Buttle.

Undoubtedly the government has balanced the benefits of leaving the area as it is, with the rewards to be gained by the new development. On this basis, the outlook for tourism on Vancouver Island could suffer a considerable setback.

However, again, it could open up the whole area which is now hard to get at, with increasing benefits to tourism regardless of any spoilage which might result in the immediate Buttle area. Time will explain.

It was a historic twist that clerk of the House E. K. De Beck was present when Mr. Bennett's announcement was read. It was his late cousin, Norman De Beck, who went into the area in 1910 and sold the government of that day on preserving the area as a park.

'Screech' Spree PO Is Demoted

(From BUP and CP Dispatches)

HALIFAX—Petty Officer Maynard V. Johnson, of Victoria, was reduced one rank Friday for taking part in a "screech" drinking spree aboard the aircraft carrier Magnificent. He will not appeal.

A five-man navy court dropped Johnson's rating from first to second class after finding him guilty of drinking an intoxicant aboard the warship here last Jan. 21. He will have to have a clean record for two years before becoming eligible for his old rank again.

CUTS PAY $21

The demotion costs Johnson $21 per month in basic pay. He also loses the first-class PO's right to wear officer-type uniform, and reverts to "round rig."

Johnson, tried by court martial, pleaded innocent to all charges.

The navy said two more sailors also faced court martial, the first case to be heard next Wednesday, but their names weren't revealed.

On Monday Able Seaman John L. MacDonald of Beaverton, Ont., was sentenced to two years less one day in jail for instigating the binge. He also was dismissed from the service. He stole two cans of duplicating machine fluid containing deadly methyl alcohol which was used to spike drinks consumed by 47 sailors, all of whom required hospital treatment for, in some instances, "severe illness."

All have since recovered. The 43 not slated for court martial have been disciplined by their commanding officers.

In his testimony, MacDonald called the duplicating fluid concoction "screech." Actually "screech" is a cheap rum popular in Newfoundland.

CHARGE QUASHED

A second charge against Johnson that he "furnished" a crew member with a beverage containing the duplicating fluid was quashed by the court after 45 minutes of deliberation. Earlier the court threw out a charge he saw sailors drinking but failed to report them to his superiors.

A panel of four commanders and a captain tried Johnson.

Capt. J. P. Dewis, the judge advocate, spent an hour summing up when the court convened after a Friday afternoon adjournment. The five judges deliberated 45 minutes before returning the guilty verdict and 1½ hours before deciding on the penalty.

Johnson admitted Friday while testifying in his own defense that he drank poisonous duplicating fluid the day of the party. He said he thought it was surgical alcohol.

A BOARDING SCHOOL in the country for boys with a separate Junior School for boys under fourteen.

ENTRANCE SCHOLARSHIPS

New Entrance Scholarships are being offered again this year, given by Old Boys and Friends who have contributed to a Sustaining Fund. These Scholarships, with the Memorial Scholarships, will make it possible for a number of boys to be materially assisted during their years at the School. The examinations for these Scholarships will be written on April 28th and 29th; candidates should make application before April 15th.

BURSARIES

Over twenty endowed bursaries are awarded annually, in addition to the clergy bursaries and brothers' bursaries.

ENROLMENT AND CLASSES

The enrolment in the Senior School is limited to 175 boys and in the Junior School to 75 boys. Numbers in the classes are from ten to twenty boys; there is one master for every ten boys in the school. Places are usually taken well in advance.

EQUIPMENT AND SITE

In addition to the usual school facilities, there is a new Memorial Chapel, a large new Library with reference and study rooms, a rink with a sheet of artificial ice 200 by 85 feet, a swimming pool, etc. The School is situated in over a hundred acres of land on a hill overlooking Lake Ontario.

HONOURS

Over one hundred and forty-five University Scholarships have been won by T.C.S. boys in twenty years, including six Rhodes Scholarships in six years.

Further information will be gladly given on request to the Headmaster

UBC Offers Myriad Courses; You Can Learn by Mail Too

(This is University Week in British Columbia. It closes today with an "open house" at the big, sprawling campus on Point Grey outside Vancouver. Because of the importance in our provincial life of the university, with which Victoria College is allied, the Times sent reporter Ab Kent to Vancouver to do a series telling what it means to us. Kent is himself a UBC graduate. His fourth article today tells what UBC teaches.

By AB KENT, Times Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER—Want to be a blacksmith, biochemist, ballet dancer, bachelor of laws, butcher, biologist or virtually anything which requires a specialized education?

Come to UBC, or if you can't make it in person, learn by mail via University Extension.

The University of British Columbia today offers students and citizenry in general one of the most complete courses of study of any Canadian university. Although its bosses dislike comparisons, they modestly agree that UBC rates with the high-ranking places of learning in North America.

Today there are few courses the university does not provide, but each year sees another subject added, a new department established or an additional faculty formed.

MANY DEGREES

Since 1945, when it was possible to obtain only three different degrees, the university has grown by leaps until today a student may get 15 academic degrees from seven distinct faculties, plus an additional seven degrees in post-graduate work from the eighth faculty, graduate studies.

All this is available to the full-time student, and much of it to part-time students during winter and summer sessions. Besides that, summer sessions offer a variety of fine arts courses through the department of extension.

For a nominal fee, any citizen anywhere in the province may take courses of a specialized nature in either academic or practical subjects. Each winter UBC offers an eight-week youth training program, where students who either couldn't make university or do not require higher education, may learn things of a practical nature such as farming techniques and dressmaking.

Of significant importance is the faculty of graduate studies where researchers and students working on master's degrees or doctorates churn out information which may one day change the pattern of life or provide new methods of waging war on man or mosquitoes.

NEW DISCOVERIES

Take for example the young faculty of medicine, which last year turned out its first graduating class. Both in the faculty itself and in B.C. Medical Research Institute, where doctor-lecturers work, new discoveries are being made with regard to cancer, heart ailments, hypertension, liver and kidney diseases, pharmacology and the effects of radiation on bone.

Defense Research Board has asked for information about the latter in connection with nuclear explosions.

Dr. H. Rocke Robertson, acting dean of medicine in the absence of Dr. Myron M. Weaver, says: "It is unfair to compare our faculty with other universities, but at least we have got a good start.

NEED BUILDING

"We feel very genuinely the need of a building to provide for the future of the medical faculty, but there is no reason to think that in a few years we will not have a very fine faculty here in B.C.

"Personally, I am very proud to be working here."

Dr. Robertson, who was born in Victoria and received his early education there, says UBC faculty of medicine has obtained "good men who knew there is a bright future ahead."

President Norman A. M. Mac Kenzie says there is research being carried on in theoretical and nuclear physics, biochemistry, bacteriology, zoology, wildlife conservation, fisheries, anthropology, sociology, native Indians, Doukhobors, mathematics, mining, metalurgy, agriculture, electronics, oceanography and varied additional lines.

He says the federal departments of fisheries, agriculture and forestry have asked the university to hold land for them for proposed construction of research laboratories where new information may be learned in connection with the university.

EXPANSION

Expansion of UBC slated for the next few years includes a department of Far Eastern studies to begin teaching this fall; reorganization of the teacher-training program, giving UBC the responsibility of training all prospective elementary and secondary school teachers in the province; a school of dentistry slated to open in 1957; a department of fine arts, school of music and broadening of existing departments as funds allow.

Getting back to research, Dr. G. M. Volkoff, professor of physics and expert in nuclear resonance, says in his department scientists are filling in the details on nuclear research which have been overlooked in part since practical work on the atom began in the early 1930s.

BRICK AT A TIME

"You don't have to be spectacular in research in order to be useful," he says. "Research is a co-operative and cumulative enterprise, built a brick at a time."

One of the machines used by physics researchers is the Van De Graaf generator, a two-story marvel developed at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and one of two in Canada.

While it does not actually "split the atom," it bombards nuclei with other particles, making possible photographic study of atomic structure.

Physicists are also studying extreme low temperatures and their effect on materials; biophysics; spectroscopy; physical electronics; geophysics and oceanography.

IN HAWAII

Lava Spouts 500 Feet

PAHOA, Hawaii (AP)—Two rivers of lava, fed by two half-mile-long fissures and lava fountains belching 500 feet in the air, moved closer to the sea today, leaving in their wake an estimated $2,000,000 damage.

Sugar cane fields, timber and at least nine homes have been buried in steaming lava. A village of 70 homes is a ghost town, virtually isolated by the molten rivers.

This sparsely settled district of eastern Hawaii for five days has rocked and cracked under the strains of volcanic eruptions and earthquakes. Four hundred of its residents are homeless.

The lava streams have cut a two-mile-wide swath across the rich cane land for four miles.

Twenty square miles of the district is forbidden to all except civil defence officials and a few property owners. The area is studded with large earth cracks.

Fair Isle, most southerly in the Shetland Isles, has long been famous for its hand-knitted hosiery.

Dispersal Best H-Bomb Defense Says Shrum

UBC Atomic Expert Suggests Industries Be Established in Rural Areas

VANCOUVER (CP)—One of Canada's top experts on atomics says dispersal is the answer to the problems of the new era of the hydrogen bomb.

Dr. Gordon Shrum, in an interview, expressed belief that a national plan should be started immediately to spread industrial population and defense industries into rural areas.

Dr. Shrum, who heads the physic department of University of British Columbia, said effective evacuation of large cities is impossible in the face of limited facilities and the wide radioactive "fall-out of the nydrogen bomb.

He said his plan does not involve moving any industries now located, but requires that new industries be set up in rural areas.

Even without a war, he said, dispersal would benefit society, moving activity into say 10 centres of 50,000 population each, instead of increasing present cities by a half million within the next 20 years.

Citing Vancouver as an example, Dr. Shrum said one H-bomb would be enough to knock out B.C.'s defenses and industry if the city continued to grow purely on the metropolitan scale.

Can You Inherit Tuberculosis?

No, this false belief stems from the high incidence of the disease among the children of tuberculous parents. Pulmonary tuberculosis, the most prevalent reinfection type, seldom occurs in children under ten years of age; beyond that age its incidence rises sharply.
It is much easier to prevent than to cure many infectious diseases. See your doctor regularly. He knows what must be done to insure protection. Depend upon us to fill your prescriptions promptly.

Reprieve for Buttle Lake

PREMIER BENNETT'S ANnouncement of plans for the early development of Upper Campbell Lake hydro power contains one feature highly gratifying to conservationists.

No immediate damming of Buttle Lake is in prospect and the destruction by flooding of that Strathcona Park jewel is avoided for some time to come.

The B.C. Power Commission's present program calls for the construction of a $9 million dam two miles below the outlet of Upper Campbell to raise the lake level 79 feet. This, by current estimates, will ease the water storage problem by 1956.

Not until 1958 will Buttle be affected—and then only when and if the Upper Campbell dam is raised still more to back water up into Strathcona Park.

The three year reprieve for Buttle is significant. Much can occur in that time. For instance, when discussing the needs which the present program is aimed to meet, Mr. Bennett did not mention increased power supplies from Puntledge and Ladore, which will come in shortly. He also ignored the B.C. Electric cable which will bring power from the mainland at the end of 1956.

Despite the skill with which engineers compute their estimates, it cannot be certain at this time that Buttle Lake damming will be needed Alternative power source may be available before 1958.

The program as it appears now is far different from that contemplated by the former commission when the almost immediate damming of Buttle Lake appeared a certainty.

The campaign to save the park lake has entered a new phase. Delay, it is reasonable to assume, works to the advantage of those who believe that the Island's last remaining "wilderness area" is beyond price as a recreational asset.

Election in Britain

THE NEXT FEW MONTHS, OR at least the autumn, probably will produce an election in Britain. The Churchill Government has been expected to seek a new mandate this year in any case but recent events have suddenly impelled it to move fast.

There can be no doubt, from the latest figures, that the British economy began to deteriorate marginally last autumn for a variety of reasons. The "terms of trade"—that is, the relative price of imports and exports—have turned against Britain. It has to pay more for imports without any compensating gain in the price of its exports. Secondly, the volume of exports has failed to rise exactly as expected. Still more important, Britain has felt the first pressures of a new inflation as it has increased its own appetite for goods of all sorts which must be paid for in exports.

The net result is a worsening in the nation's foreign exchange position and, as the reliable London Economist observes, the shadows of several postwar crises have been raised again. That is why the Government has suddenly increased the bank rate in an attempt to make money tighter and to cut down consumption at home.

This situation, as The Economist says, may grow worse before the year ends. If that is the prospect, the Government may well desire to seek re-election in the spring while conditions remain relatively good and the electorate favorable. Besides, a dying Parliament is not likely to take the strong fiscal measures which probably will be needed to prevent a small marginal decline from becoming serious. If Britain faces renewed exchange trouble it will need a government clearly supported by the people, a government with an undoubted public mandate.

Recent events therefore suggest an election rather sooner than later and to the outside world the most interesting question thus arising is whether Sir Winston Churchill will attempt another and final campaign. That, so far, is his secret but it cannot be kept much longer.

Who Raised Taxes?

MR. BENNETT SAYS THE FEDeral Government's taxes, especially its sales taxes, are too high, are causing unemployment and should be reduced.

Where does this advice come from? It comes from a British Columbia Government which has raised taxes to the highest level ever known in any Canadian province, from a Government which raised the sales tax from 3 to 5 per cent and which, dissatisfied with its large bite into the taxpayer's purse, is demanding more money from Ottawa.

If Mr. Bennett thinks taxes are too high why doesn't he begin cutting them at home, as the Federal Government has systematically reduced its taxes since the war?

UBC—Pride of the Province

TODAY THOUSANDS OF VISItors are thronging through the University of British Columbia—seeing at first hand the physical amenities which this province provides for higher education.

They will be impressed by many things. They will note some excellent buildings and some that are inadequate makeshifts. They should understand the importance of the University of B.C. in the general scheme of Canadian education and the high standards for which it is recognized.

They are inspecting an institution of immense vitality and broad promise.

In our news columns during the week have appeared several stories drawing attention to features of outstanding interest at the University and indicating the important connection between the centre at Point Grey and the Greater Victoria community.

These have been offered to our readers in the conviction that the University of British Columbia is an object of pride and admiration to them—a pride which will continue to grow as they are better informed on the significant work the university is doing for the nation and the province among the young minds which are British Columbia's most valuable asset.

As Our Readers See It

WRONG STALL?

Your heading "Exalted Company" to the letter written in your paper by my highly respected aunt, Mrs. Bessie Hope, is certainly an apt one.

The likening of Premier Bennett to Sir Winston Churchill, and Mr. Gunderson to Lord Beaverbrook, would seem a little rich for their blood.

Although fully in support of this government, I consider Mr. Bennett a business-like and hard-working leader of the Social Credit members in the Legislature; while Mr. Gunderson, though inexperienced in European life and new to politics, is a likeable family man who has tried hard in the jobs he has had to do, and faced much criticism and bad luck.

But in all sincerity I would say that for their own good and that of the party they represent, let us keep these gentlemen in their own bracket and not compare point-to-point horses with Grand National winners!

BEYOND PERSONAL KNOWLEDGE

When I referred recently to Mrs Sherman's use of the word create, I had in mind its primary sense, as we speak of "The Creator." From her second letter I understand that she used the word in one of its secondary meanings and of course I agree that in a secondary sense and in the popular use of the word man is able to create.

Another word in her last letter, which might easily be misunderstood is "scientific." My Oxford dictionary gives the meaning, systematic and formulated knowledge. However, Mrs. Sherman seems to use it in a special sense as being the viewpoint of those who believe nothing that cannot be experienced by the physical senses.

I return then to the main point of my first letter which is the question, how does Mrs. Sherman know that there are no beings in the universe outside the range of her knowledge?

As far back as the record of scientific thinking goes, thousands of years, there have been those who thought as Mrs. Sherman appears to think, that they had reached finality in their scheme of things. But it may be that 500 years hence some of today's thinking will be as outmoded as that of 500 years ago is today.

The desire for free discussion, intellectual honesty, and so on is commendable. But surely we are entitled to ask for a reasonable and logical background or foundation; that things will not be put forward as established truth for which there is no proof.

FARM REVENUES

I was impressed, but not much pleased, with that market page item intimating that the 1954 income of Canada's farmers is officially estimated to be down $400,000,000 compared with 1953 revenues. If my memory serves accurately, the latter year's figures were themslves "down" several hundred million dollars from the 1951-52 peak?

The above trend gets accented in this reader's mind by the following few lines from the monthly letter of one of the banks which pinpoint the link between agriculture's buying power and labor schedules in the nation's factories, mills, stores and offices: 'Meanwhile, largely as a result of the contraction in prairie farm income, the demand for agricultural machinery and for trucks has shown a further decline after the marked reduction of the previous year. Employment at farm machinery plants in the first nine months of 1954 averaged 20 per cent less than a year earlier and 34 per cent less than in the comparable period in 1952 . . ." (Bank of N.S.)

Even in the mighty industrial economy of the United States, where agriculture has only about one-third the weighted ratio to the over-all economy enjoyed by its opposite number in Canada, farm purchasing power is generally accepted as a "must," as a base for busy factories and prosperity. So I'm thinking Jack Canuck will be only prudent to keep his eye on the farmer's revenues!

News From Next Door

OH SAY, can you see by the dawn's early light, what so deeply we feared in the dark of the night? Can you see, in brief, what I see on the other side of the line fence? Probably not. You, no doubt, live in the city where such sights are rare and the fundamentals of life are glossed and sicklied o'er with the pale cast of civilization. But you can take it from me, if my aged eyes deceive me not, that there are three strange strangers next door.

Hutchison

For some time there has resided next door a little boy—not the boy who used to appear in this space some twenty years back, for he is now a man and has departed—but a newcomer, pink-cheeked, earnest in his discovery of the countryside, the eternal image of boyhood.

THIS boy next door has survived many adventures since his arrival here, but his latest, as I say, is beyond comprehension.

It was understandable, it was natural and inevitable, that he should first appear with a dog at his heels; equally inevitable that he should construct various fortifications and secret citadels among the oak trees and wild brush where he and his friends have been re-enacting, with bow and arrow, gun and scalping knife, the recurring saga of this continent.

Nor was one surprised, not long ago, to find him in possession of white rabbits, who grew in numbers quite rapidly, until a vast and proliferating hutch was constructed to hold them.

ALL this was to be expected in a Canadian boy. He wouldn't have been much of a boy if he hadn't found a dog and built a fort and conducted scalping parties and acquired rabbits. Yes, but this, it turns out, is not an ordinary boy. He is a boy of unusual imagination and profound cosmic sense.

That fact was borne in upon us last week-end when suddenly the rabbit hutch went up in smoke. We were aroused by the conflagration and many small boys from far and near assembled to witness what they supposed to be the cremation of the rabbits. Their fears were groundless. The rabbits had been safely removed in advance and, as we learned later, had been thriftily used in the immemorial commerce and barter of small boydom. Another great experiment had begun.

WE became aware of it last night when certain curious sounds emerged next door. The first sound seemed to come from some human being in the last paroxysm of death by strangulation. Someone, we supposed, was committing a particularly violent murder in the bush, but we took little notice of it, for anything is likely to happen around here. Then followed a sybilant, hissing sound, like the voice of an angry electorate or a Social Credit politician announcing that he has no quarrel with the private banks.

What could these sounds portend? This morning we found out.

LOOKING across the fence line behind the raspberry canes, we beneld a giant turkey, with scarred and scarlet cheeks, with magnificent white plumage and a violent temper. And behind him as he paced his new domain with hoarse and angry comment came two ancient geese, hissing disdainfully through their uptilted noses.

Such was the outcome of the small boy's latest business coup. He had traded his rabbits for three monstrous birds. Don't ask me why. The thought processes of small boys are a deeper mystery than the Kremlin.

No use asking why a small boy needs a turkey and two geese. No use even supposing that he has prepared his next Christmas dinner well in advance; for he will never allow the execution of his new friends.

NO, he has made up his mind, with the hard clarity of the young, that he wants these worthless creatures for his own secret purposes and what right have grown-up boys like you and me to question his judgment—we who spend our toil and money on things much more worthless, like automobiles, television sets and unwholesome beverages?

It is not for us to judge the small boy's peculiar intimations of immortality; for us to marvel only at the unchanging and unchangeable instincts of small boyishness from Huckleberry Finn to my young neighbor.

In him, his turkey and his two geese, a man grown weary with the world's lunacies can see the only solid fact of life—that the young never change, are the same today, next door, as in Eden, and in all the confusion of these times retain, as the old do not, their sure grasp of essentials.

WHAT, I ask you, is more essential than a turkey and two geese to a small boy? What more reassuring than the turkey's hoarse gobble at dawn and the hissing sibilants of the proud goose—an utterance of sanity in these mad times, a proof that boyhood keeps its balance in the scheme of things while the world lurches and explodes with atomic detonation and only pretends to know what it is doing?

The small boy alone knows for his knowledge is in his heart, not his head, and his heart tells him that turkeys and geese will be around a long time yet, after man and his queer toys have gone.

LOOKING BOTH EAST AND WEST

Japan Is Ready to Start the Bargaining

THE man who this week won the leadership of the Japanese Government has had a chequered career. Mr. Ichiro Hatoyama's victory at the polls—his Democratic Party took 186 seats, more than any other—brings a new stability to Japanese politics and may mark the beginning of a new era in the modern democratic Japan.

It is not the first time Mr. Hatoyama has found himself in this position. But this time he appears to have greater chances of success.

Shortly after the end of the war he won a parliamentary majority and prepared to form a government as head of the Liberal Party. But suddenly it was found that among his writings was some fulsome praise of Hitler and Mussolini and admiration for fascism.

The U.S. military occupation authorities purged him from public life, and it was not until eight years later, with the termination of the occupation, that he was able to re-enter the political field.

By that time Prime Minister Yoshida had become head of the Liberals—actually a conservative group—and he denied any knowledge of a gentleman's agreement that he would return the leadership to Mr. Hatoyama. The two former friends became bitter enemies—a rivalry that has not yet ended.

Mr. Yoshida continued in power, enjoying the support of the U.S. authorities. But unrest grew. Economic difficulties increased; there were charges of governmental corruption and extravagance. And the American favor which had initially been an asset for the Prime Minister gradually became a liability as the temper of the people changed and an anti-occupation trend set in.

Socialist Support

As 1954 ended, Prime Minister Yoshida's government fell and Mr. Hatoyama, with Socialist support, succeeded him. But he got the Socialist support only on the promise to hold a general election within three months.

Last Sunday he kept the promise, with the result that he won a controlling position in the Diet with 186 seats. Mr. Yoshida's Liberals took 116, left Socialists 89, right-Socialists 67, and Communists two. Other groups took ten seats.

Mr. Hatoyama must yet be voted into the Prime Ministership by the Diet, but he has already rejected any thought of coalition with the Liberals and has announced he will go it alone. As a minority government the Democrats will have to employ diplomacy, but the Liberals will be almost forced into supporting them in order to keep the Socialists out of power.

The new Government's problems will be more than political. There are serious economic difficulties to overcome. There is the vital question of rearmament to consider. But greater than any of these are the problems arising from Japan's strategic position in the great ideological struggle that divides the globe.

ICHIRO HATOYAMA

It is no exaggeration to say that Japan is the keystone in the Pacific defenses of the United States, and hence of the West. The lesser positions of Korea and Formosa are militarily important mainly insofar as they contribute to Japan's defense.

Hence the trend of Japanese international relations is of vital importance to Washington. And under Prime Minister Hatoyama there promises to be a widening of Japan's interests in both ideological worlds.

It is true that the new leader is pro-Western. But it is equally true that he is prepared to encourage overtures from Russia and Red China. For Japan without Asiatic markets and supplies is in an economic vacuum. The overcrowded island must trade eastward—particularly as the West seems disinclined to open its markets.

Canada two years ago concluded a trade pact with Japan which offered hope of increased traffic. But the United States, despite President Eisenhower's efforts against the American protectionists, has been unable to come to any workable arrangement. There are plans for a triangular trade tie-up, with Japanese exports going to south-east Asia, the latter's exports going to the U.S., and Japan buying from that country.

This, however, is still in a nebulous state. And meanwhile Mr. Molotov is offering to talk with Japan about trade and any other matters that seem likely topics for discussion.

Japanese Prestige

Important among the latter is the subject of Japanese prestige—particularly as it applies to United Nations membership. It was Russia that vetoed Japan's application to join the world organization; it is Russia that can reverse that veto and provide a seat for the island nation. Within the next few weeks talks will get under way in New York between the Japanese observer at the U.N. and the chief Soviet delegate, Arkady Sobolev. These could well lead to Soviet agreement to open the U.N. door for Japan—if Japan in turn would open trade and other doors for Russia.

The truth of the matter is that Mr. Hatoyama stands in an excellent position to bargain with both East and West, and he seems to be astute enough to take full advantage of the situation. For this reason we may expect Japan to play a much more active part in world affairs in the coming months, with a consequent review by Western governments of their policies toward that nation.—B. A. Wet Eyes on the 'United States of Sahara'

BOTH in Ottawa and the B.C. Legislature there were disturbing discussions 25 years ago this week on amending the act to stop the export of liquor to the United States of Sahara as the U.S.A. was whimsically known during prohibition days. This was irritating talk in Victoria as quite a few of our best citizens were unashamedly in the profitable business of playing good neighbor to millions of Americans who refused to suffer for what by this time had become the will of a small majority.

Merriman

Among other organizations which have since bowed out of the picture, the League for Medical Liberty was formed at this time. It sprang out of legislation confining the title "Doctor" to medical men.

Alderman Eugene S. Woodward was a top figure and led a group of drugless healer supporters to the Parliament Buildings to fight their cause.

Woodward had been grudingly accepted in the already crowded press gallery on the strength of a part time writing job. Working reporters speedily took the opportunity to invite him out when he appeared in the role of lobbyist. Some time later he moved to Vancouver, ran a radio program for a monetary reform plan with an invitation to subscribe to the cause and was last listed as a writer.

Danny Mahan, a nationally known welter-weight, who once fought in Victoria, met a tragic ending in San Francisco. Deaf since he was eight, he parachuted 3,500 feet from a plane hoping that it would restore his hearing. The 'chute didn't open.

B. C. Electric was being rapped for poor street car service to Oak Bay and Cy Sangster was being complimented for establishing the Haultain Bus Line service. B.C.E. officials at that time talked about decisions being held up because trackless trolleys were under consideration. Sangster's Blue Line service was bought up, for $1,000,000 I think it was, when the busses replaced street cars. Sangster moved to Nanaimo to operate a bus line there.

Oak Bay at this time was referred to as the "bedroom of Victoria."

ENCOURAGED STUDY

Fred McGregor, elected literary secretary of the Canadian Club was a staunch advocate of continuing the policy of giving prizes to students to study Canadian history. Since then Fred has retired as manager of Mutual Life after selling insurance for years with the zeal of an evangelist. Now Fred is relieved of office detail he's taking life easy. "I only work now from 9 to 5," he told me; selling insurance for Mutual Life of course. Elected on the executive were A. D. Macfarlane, now Mr. Justice Macfarlane, and Byron Johnson who at this time was not very interested in the suggestion that he enter politics.

Adelaide Marshall, whose letters appear regularly in the Times today was writing them then too with the same journalistic directness. "No better League" she said, "could have been formed at this time than the Medical Liberty League." That was one of many letters on the subject. L. M. Rosevear who is still in the real estate business as he was then had over a column in small type on the same subject. He was for it too.

HISTORY REPEATS

Newspapers could really save stories and type for 25 years and run them over again. For instance a quarter of a century ago this item ran,—"A move is under way to have Ripple Rock blown out on the grounds it is a danger to navigation." It was in a notice issued by George I. Warren calling a Chamber of Commerce directors meeting.

Resourceful ex-Quartermaster Sergeant Jack Cassidy saved promoters of the 103rd infantry re-union from a financial problem after they had spent too much on the rum ration. He raffled a couple of bottles of Scotch and boxes of cigars to raise money to get them out of the red. Retired, after long service with Hudson's Bay, David Spencer's and Eaton's, Jack and his charming wife now run their own store on Cook Street.

The short-lived White Canada Association wanted an exclusion policy against the Chinese with the plea don't let British Columbia become Chinese Columbia. The organization made a few headlines for a few months then died from lack of interest.

ALL THINGS CONSIDERED — By STUART KEATE

The Seagram Collection

THE touring Seagram art collection, which has attracted record crowds to the Crystal Garden this week, underlines once again this country's really shining inferiority complex on matters of culture.

Keate

Most frequently heard comment, in two visits to the show, has been the halting and tentative: "I don't know anything about art, but . . ."

Which raises the question: why do people feel they have to "know" anything about art? Is it not enough that they can look, and then accept or reject on the basis of their own personal enjoyment?

Have we not courage enough to arrive at answers to these simple questions:

Does this picture please me?

Does it convey anything of the mood of the city I know—i.e., is it valid?

What technical skills does the artist possess?

★ ★ ★

The avant-garde artists—the abstractionists, impressionists, and "autonomistes"—have been highly critical in their comments of the Seagram show.

The nub of their argument is that these are not paintings, works of art, but "picture postcards" or photographs in color.

In this respect, they misinterpret the underlying purpose of the exhibit.

When Merle Schneckenburger, the personable vice-president of the company, was here for a press party a month ago, he made his point quite plain. "We don't pretend to be art critics," he said. "All we wanted to do was show the other countries where we trade what Canada looked like, and give them some idea of the growth of our industrial power."

On that basis, the show is incontestably a success.

It is unfortunate, from our point of view, that perhaps the worst offender in the "picture postcard" category is the representation of the city of Victoria. This led one of our prominent citizens to whisper to me, as he surveyed the purple haze, "Ordered your Christmas cards yet?"

I will argue, nevertheless, that there are at least two genuine works of art in the collection. My own nominees would be the painting of Saskatoon by Gooderidge Roberts (which did not even rate the main salon in the local show, but was consigned to the swimming pool promenade) and of St. John's, Nfld., by A. Y. Jackson.

In the bare trees, the snow, and the ice of the Saskatchewan River artist Roberts managed to convey some of the wintry mood of the city, without the obvious insertion of a grain elevator or a prairie freight car. Mr. Jackson (one of the original Group of Seven), painting from Signal Hill, conveyed just the right note on St. John's. He has captured the salty atmosphere of the ancient port, where the young Cabot stood over 450 years ago, and set it against a bleak and rugged background which conveys the true character of the country.

These, I hasten to add, where not the most popular paintings in the show. In an informal chat, Mr. Schneckenburger revealed that Franklin Arbuckle's representation of the big trees in Stanley Park was the most widely acclaimed painting abroad.

It is reliably reported that the Seagram company spent $2 millions to organize this exhibit and send it around the world.

Seagram's, a most progressive company, deserve full marks for the effort. If nothing else, Mr. Sam Bronfman has got his fellow Canadians to look at their country in a new light; to talk about art; and thus to stimulate an appreciation of cultural values in this widely beautiful and "paintable" land.

LONDON LETTER — By WALLACE C. REYBURN

Worrying About Scotland

LONDON—In European terms of growth and social progress, modern Scotland is a second-class country which may soon, unless something is done about it, dwindle to a third-class country. That's the opinion of Basil Davidson, writing in the Daily Herald after taking a searching look at the state of the nation north of the border.

He says that since for so long Scotland has been exporting vigorous bodies and qualified brains to people other nations all over the world, the quantity and quality at home has sadly diminished. He cites numerous examples of how Scotland is falling far behind her neighbors.

Reyburn

Unemployment is twice as high in Scotland as in England. One Scottish family in five lives in what are officially called "overcrowded conditions," compared to one English family in 30. The TB rate is 15 per cent above England's. Between 1911 and 1951 the population of England and Wales increased by 21 per cent, while Scotland's increased by a mere 7 per cent. The infant mortality rate is almost four per 1,000 higher than England's.

"The Scots, it can be safely affirmed, are the salt of the earth," says the writer, "But while the Scots are busy salting the earth—all the way from London to the backwoods of British Columbia—the supply at home may be running short and running stale. Behind the skirling of the pipes and the twirling of the kilts and the whole romantic panache which Scotland sports for its own amusement and the betterment of the underprivileged foreigner, Scotland and the Scots—at home—have reason to be worried."

SANDY WILSON, who is only 30, has had a huge success with his musical satire of the 20s, "The Boy Friend." It has been running for over a year here in London and I understand the New York version is going great guns, even though he was so furious at the way the U.S. producers revamped the show that he had to be kept away from rehearsals by force. Film rights have just been sold. It is bringing in for him now around $3,000 a week. It is the biggest success by a playwright at first attempt since Terence Rattigan leapt to fame and fortune with "French Without Tears" in the 30s.

So . . . the theatrical business being what it is, the vultures are waiting for him to come a cropper with his next one. It will be produced at the end of the coming summer. It's called "Oh, Henry," a musical version of Korda's highly successful 1933 movie, "The Private Lives Of Henry VIII.

Wilson, still using his Hampstead basement flat as living and working quarters despite his new affluence, is happy with the new show. So is Korda. The public will have the chance of making up its mind in the fall.

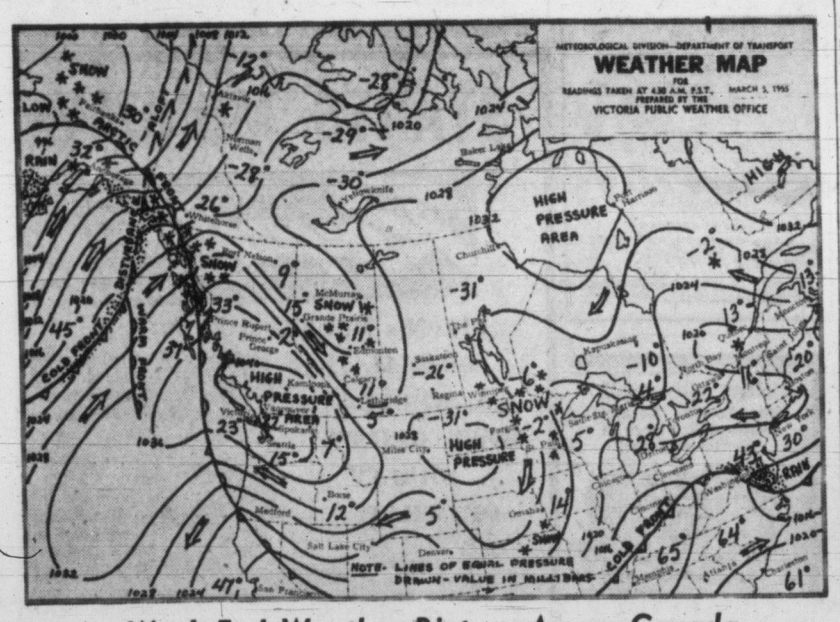
FROM WHAT I HEAR, personal atom shelters are quite a thing in the U.S. But no one here seems to give a great deal of thought to assuring himself of his own private place to go if and when atomic bombs start dropping. However, Geary Gardner of Chislehurst, Kent, thinks that people might be convinced they should invest in their future safety. He owns the Chislehurst Caves, which 15,000 local citizens used during air raids in the last war. Gardner plans to let out 10 ft. by 8 ft. spaces to 1,000 families at $2.80 per year.



Week-End Weather Picture Across Canada

SYNOPSIS—Coldest spot in the province overnight was in Kimberley—17 degrees below zero. Cloud cover accounted for rising temperatures throughout B.C. Snow showers accompanied the cloud at a number of interior and north coast points. It will continue warmer during the next 48 hours as cloud thickens and spreads southward. Some precipitation will again occur over the north coast and throughout the interior, but little is in sight for the south coast.

The Unseen Audience — A WEBSTER CLASSIC

What's Your Opinion?

By TONY DICKASON and IRVING STRICKLAND

Question: Do you think the Penticton V's—or any other team in future years—accomplish anything by competing in world hockey tournaments?

R. M. Beatty, car salesman, 2296 Dunlevy Street: "I could not care less one way or another. Sports are fine for the guys in 'em, but they aren't for me any more. But it's not a waste of money if anybody wants to send a hockey team over there."

Paul Zannet, store owner, 1234 Acton Street: "All nations should be friendly. They hold games over here, like the BEG, so it seems reasonable we should play over there too. If this really got going we'd have real top players there, and their players would improve also."

Malcolm Macphail, bus driver, 1023 Bank Street: "Possibly if the V's lost to the Ruskies courteously it might establish good sports relations, though we hope to beat them, of course. Nations other than the Russians should stiffen competition. Are they putting their best men up over there?"

A. Anderson, plumber, 4062 Altamount Ave.: "I think it's crazy to send a team over. They are playing different kinds of hockey, and we take all sorts of abuse. If they can't play and referee decently, let them keep their brand of hockey."

Mrs. D. E. Bolin, bookkeeper, 1220 Hampshire Road: "I think it is a good idea to send a team to compete in Europe. They get a look at each other that way, in sports and otherwise. I'm a hockey fan but won't attempt to guess the outcome of the game with Russia."

Marilyn Monroe May Play Role Of Mary Pickford

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When the Mary Pickford life story hits the screen, it could well have Marilyn Monroe playing "America's sweetheart."

Miss Pickford herself hinted on Friday that Miss Monroe would be more than acceptable in the role.

"I think she could do it better than most actresses in town," said Miss Pickford in reply to a question at a press conference.

She added, however, that perhaps an unknown might be even better suited. It's a firm movie project, now that her autobiography has been printed in a woman's magazine and is coming out shortly in book form.

Iron Ore Lack Blocks Steel Mill—Sommers

Lands and Forests Minister R. E. Sommers told the Legislature Friday, B.C. does not have sufficient proven iron ore reserves to warrant establishment of a steel mill.

Mr. Sommers made the statement during debate on a bill which would see registration of all iron ore bodies discovered in the province.

He said the government would not lift its reserve on iron ore, because it would then come under terms of the Mineral Act, and would be free for export.

William Moore (CCF-Comox) asked whether the provincial government would petition the federal government, asking for a halt to export of ore from the Argonaught mine, near Campbell River.

"We have asked them," answered Premier Bennett, "and they turned us down flat."

Pat Bate Heads New Uplands Socred Group

H. K. Bate was named president Friday of a new Uplands group of the Oak Bay Social Credit Association.

First meeting was held at Mr. Bate's home, Valdez Place.

The meeting passed a motion opposing abolition of the Oak Bay provincial constituency in any redrawing of electoral boundaries.

Increased representation for the Peace River and the Gulf Islands was recommended.

Mrs. Einar Gunderson showed films of the tour she took with her husband, who was acting as a special trade commissioner to the United Kingdom and Europe.

Translated Dutch Lyrics

Lyrical Holland is a modest anthology which contains translations of Dutch lyrics into Enlish, French and German, made available to reviewers in this country through courtesy of the Netherlands Embassy at Ottawa.

The too few English selections are extraordinarily enjoyable. Almost all have strong overtones of pagan poetry, or at least emphasis on the strong clamourings of the soul, unfulfilled.

There is death there also, and decay, all in a sort of idealized frustration such as the plea of a man to share his wife's couch again.

Not being in a position to know if the poems suffer by translation, it is still apparent this poetry is good.

AUDREY SAYS

Group of Seven Art Enthrals Students

Sponsored Tours to Gallery Inspire Absorbing Appreciation

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

No experience could have been more rewarding, from all points of view, than the school student tours sponsored by the Greater Victoria Arts Centre Women's Committee in conjunction with the recent showing at the Moss Street galleries, of paintings by the Group of Seven.

Conclusions to be drawn from these tours are many and, in the main, satisfactory, serving as they do to underline the important educational aspects of the Arts Centre, and the relatively broad interest among younger citizens, in the fine arts.

Audrey

During the time the Symphony Society was able to make available to students their Sunday dress rehearsals, similar evidence was provided that Victoria students do not lag behind those in other cities in such appreciation.

FULL CO-OPERATION

When members of the women's committee approached the school board for permission to write to principals of junior and senior high schools offering to arrange group tours of the important Canadian show, they were met with full co-operation, even to the extent of bus transportation being provided when necessary.

A majority of the schools approached responded eagerly to the invitation, including several private schools in the area. Altogether an approximate total of 1,400 students made the tours, each group being accompanied by a teacher and being met—in most cases—by a member of the committee, who guided them through the galleries.

HELPFUL GUIDES

Those who acted in the latter capacity, giving information concerning the artists, techniques, color harmonies and so forth, were Mrs. R. L. V. Jermain, Mrs. B. G. Alley, Mrs. A. J. Burns, Mrs. R. C. Anderson, Mrs. A. M. J. Johnston, Mrs. P. L. Underwood and Mrs. R. S. Conn. The guides set out to make the young people feel welcome and at home, and extended warm invitations to "come again, any time—the gallery is free to you."

Some students carried sketch pads and, for a number of others, the exhibition has formed the subject for essays. Complete quiet reigned frequently as students studied pictures and listened to the remarks of guides, and during the whole series of tours the general attitude was one of absorbed interest and attention with no undisciplined incident to mar the proceedings.

AWAY FROM TV

At least one teacher records that conversation the next morning, among students who had made the tour, for once veered away from TV shows while favorite paintings were discussed and analyzed.

From the Arts Centre it is reported that a large number of Group of Seven postcard prints for sale in conjunction with the exhibition, were practically cleaned out by the student groups.

This is a single example of an Art Centre service and what it means to the seeking mind of youth with its desire for fresh fields of exploration and new horizons. How then is it possible to deny the value and significance of such an organization, or its right to recognition on an official basis?

Courage Wasted Actress Found

There's really not much percentage in bravely doing risky scenes instead of having stunt personnel handle them, because audiences still will think someone else did them.

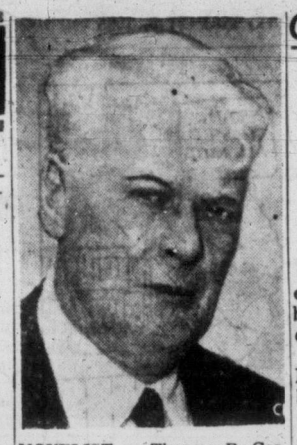
At least this is the impression of Marie Windsor. Miss Windsor, who learned to ride as a child in Utah, insisted on doing a hazardous bit of riding which included changing horses while they were going at a fast gallop.

Later she went to see the picture and heard someone in the audience comment about the scene.

"I suppose they expect people to believe the actress is doing all that riding herself, the man said."

For Drive-Ins

The U.S. Motion Picture Research Council reports development of a new all-aluminum screen for drive-in theatres that is three times as bright as the usual white painted screen. The council believes the new screen will permit increased seating capabilities and has turned the device over to a maunfacturer.



NOVELIST — Thomas B. Costain, Brantford-born novelist, wasn't present when the film based on his best-selling novel, "The Silver Chalice," had its Canadian premiere in Brantford. He was holidaying at Bermuda. Born 69 years ago in the Western Ontario city, he worked for a time on the Brantford Expositor. He put his hometown into a book, "Son of the Hundred Kings." A success as a magazine editor and historian Mr. Costain took up novel-writing at 55, years after he was a reporter on The Expositor. He has written such books as "For My Great Folly," "Ride With Me," "The Black Rose," "The Moneyman," "High Towers" and "The Conquerors."—CP photo.

STAMP CORNER

By REG NAIRNE

With the exception of a couple of booklets, there are no stamps of the George VI series left in stock at Ottawa. The Elizabeth 4c coil stamp of 1953 has followed the 3c, both being now off sale.

Of the 1954 Elizabeth set only the 1c, 2c and 4c are expected soon. Evidently the little used 3c and 6c are not to be used on official mail. One wonders if the former value will even be continued as a regular issue, its use being negligible. The 6c, of course, has a definite purpose, being the rate for foreign letters.

Ottawa has resumed issuing a list of stamped stationery, but there seems to be nothing included that cannot be bought at the local wickets. The scarce provisionals with typographed surcharges, which came out as the result of the raise in rates last November, are not obtainable. Anyone inquiring for these is told that the philatelic department has no information regarding them.

★ ★ ★

The four top values of the present British set will show famous biuldings—one each to be chosen from England, Scotland, North Ireland and Wales.

★ ★ ★

A year ago or so someone in the U.S. government had the bright idea that a new source of revenue could be tapped by selling stamps clipped off incoming mail addressed to government offices to dealers and collectors. Some sales were made at $6 or so a pound (about 2,000 stamps), but apparently it was realized that the time involved made the idea impracticable, for a letter just received from the Administration at Washington by Gerry Winters, local collector, states that the stamps are now being turned over to the Veteran's Administration for the use of shut-in patients.

Hollywords not in the script:

Maria Riva, about Marlene Dietrich inspiring her as an actress:

"I would insult my mother by saying that her inspiration had been in the category of such a negligible profession as acting."

GRUBER CONDUCTS

Guest-Conductor Helpful to Leader

Provide Opportunity to Study Symphony Orchestra Performance Objectively

Having had nothing whatever to do with last weekend's pair of subscription symphony concerts, they having been entirely Mr. Evans' responsibility, I could, if I so chose, turn myself into a music critic for this one week.

This is not really my intention, but it is possible that I may sound like one by the time I finish this piece; this by way of apology to this journal's regular music critic, whose place I do not wish to usurp.

This has been, all told, the fourth time, during my sojourn in Victoria, that I have been able to hear our orchestra with, I think, dispassionate and objective ears, as one of the audience. The first time was when Mr. Evens conducted one of the subscription concerts almost exactly two years ago. Eight months ago, Sir Ernest gave me a second such opportunity. Last November, it was Geoffrey Waddington; and last weekend, again Mr. Evens.

Gruber

BENEFITS OF GUEST CONDUCTORS

These four instances cause me to reflect on the enormous benefits I derive from being able to hear the orchestra from the only place whence I can really tell what it all sounds like—from the auditorium; and these instances make me wish that the scope of our season were big enough to enable me to share my work with guest-conductors more frequently than it is as yet possible.

It is by no means that I now advocate that orchestras should have guest-conductors only.

Such a modus operandi can lead to unbelievably rapid disintegration of the finest of orchestras, and would certainly be irrevocably disastrous to younger orchestras still in the building and developing stage. But, given a resident musical director with over-all responsibility and essentially centralized musical direction, I have now the best of reason to believe that the benefits of carefully-chosen guest-conductors from time to time, are very real.

ADAPTABILITY

Adaptability is an essential virtue an orchestra must acquire in the course of its development, and such training is only afforded by being confronted every so often with a new beat, new ideas, a new approach.

The resident conductor is given the opportunity of hearing "his" orchestra under circumstances which frees his faculties for critical listening to an incomparably greater degree than when he himself is in the thick of it.

In the specific case of our orchestra, the benefits to us went far beyond those obvious ones I just spoke of.

Both Sir Ernest and Mr. Waddington took, as it happened, a far more than professional interest in their work here; they both brought a good deal of personal involvement to bear on their work here, so as to make me feel free to consult them very extensively on innumerable musical, or technical, matters concerning our orchestra, and their opinions were, to me, incalculably valuable for having been given freely and openly, and for having been based on their own first-hand acquaintance with this orchestra.

Quite apart from the fact that they are men of vast experience compared to which mine is as nothing, it is not possible, I think, for a resident conductor to do without the expert views of fresh ears, because it is inevitable that his own can no longer, sometimes, "hear" the forest for the trees.

I will continue this subject next week.

Italy Steps to Fore In Film Production

ROME (UP)—Europe's moviemakers are setting up a united Europe with more movie fans in it than Hollywood could ever hope to find in the United States.

The project, designed to share film costs as well as stars, is a European film community. It will have a whopping box-office potential of 280,000,000 cinemagoers, more than double the United States potential of 130,000,000.

"The result is going to be more films at a cheaper cost to everyone," said Eitel Monaco, spokesman for Italian producers whose current film output is second only to that of America on the world market.

First CinemaScope Produced in France

PARIS (UP)—France's first CinemaScope movie is about ready, and according to its star, Dany Robin, it's going to make Hollywood take notice.

The French wouldn't have been true to their name had they selected anything but "Frou Frou," a "slightly naughty movie," she explained, glorifying the Paris of the cabarets and gay bistros.

Mexican Beauty at Odeon

Sarita Montiel, who makes her movie debut here in "Vera Cruz," Technicolor-Superscope production opening Tuesday at the Odeon Theatre, pleads with Gary Cooper to join the rebels in the Mexican revolution of 1866.

Film Made of Hitler's End

A grim-faced group of men wearing Nazi SS uniforms carried two blanketed humans to a shallow grave near Vienna's Schwechat Airport a few days ago and doused them with the contents of gasoline cans.

As one of the troopers knelt to strike a match, a bawling voice ordered:

"Stop! Stop! We're going to do it all over again."

The "Nazis" relaxed and lit cigarettes. The "bodies" rolled out of the blankets and stretched. Helpers refilled the gasoline cans with water.

Then G. W. Pabst, the director, gave final instructions for shooting the most dramatic sequence in a new film called "The Last Act," a re-enactment of the last 10 days of Adolf Hitler and his mistress, Eva Braun. The film's climax depicts the burning of their bodies outside Hitler's Berlin bunker in April, 1945.

Erich Maria Remarque, who wrote "All Quiet on the Western Front," has scripted the new film from the book, "Ten Days to Die" in which Judge Michael Musmanno of Pittsburgh, Pa., reconstructed the violent series of events that led Hitler and Eva to suicide and ashes.

Original blueprints used in the construction of Hitler's underground bunker were used to build a replica in suburban Vienna. Most of the film is being shot inside the bunker. Furniture, carpeting and wall pictures duplicate the real thing as closely as possible.

Hitler's privaate secretary, Mrs. Traudl Junge, who escaped from the bunker, came here to act as technical adviser.

Book on British Politics Stirs Nation-Wide Comment

BRITISH POLITICAL PARTIES by R. T. McKenzie

"British Political Parties" by R. T. (Bob) McKenzie of Vancouver, a book examining distribution of power within the Conservative and Labor organizations, has evoked wide newspaper comment throughout Britain.

All praise his work. Most agree with his findings. Some critics have reservations about the range of his survey, contained in 600 pages and more that 1,000 footnotes.

McKenzie, a 37-year-old lecturer in political science at the London School of Economics, has two main general conclusions: That the Tory leader is by no means the all-powerful figure advertised, and that, conversely, the Labor party rank-and-file often fails to exert on the parliamentary group the power it is generally believed to wield.

PARTY SIMILARITY

In short, both parties are "overwhelmingly similar" in the distribution of power despite sharply contrasting origins—the Conservatives having added a mass organization and Labor having evolved from one.

"CLEARLY A CLASSIC"

The Economist, independent weekly journal, describes the book as "clearly a classic."

The Observer says it is "thoughtful, scholarly, perceptive and a 'must' for every serious student."

Randolph Churchill, the prime minister's son who reviewed the book for The Evening Standard, calls McKenzie a "brilliant political observer."

PRAISED AND CHIDED

Kingsley Martin, editor of the left-wing weekly New Statesman and Nation, says McKenzie deserves all the credit he is getting for quarrying out his elaborate book from mountains of material.

But Martin chides the University of British Columbia graduate for passing lightly over party finance, and the "fundamental question" of Labor party relations between politicians and union leaders.

McKenzie went to Britain with the Canadian Army during the Second World War. He took post-graduate studies at the London School of Economics and returned to England as a lecturer several years ago. C. P.

VINCENT PRICE, well-known movie actor, will open the members' preview of the American Painting Exhibition at the Vancouver Art Gallery next Monday at 8.15. Mr. Price studied art history at the universities of London and Vienna. He lectures on art at many universities in the United States and he has an extensive art collection of his own.

The preview is open to members of the art gallery and their friends. The exhibition will be open to the public on March 8.

Gallery hours have been extended: Tuesday through Friday 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday 2 to 5.

ART in REVIEW

By COLIN GRAHAM

One of the cheerful signs of increasing activity in the visual arts hereabouts confronts me every time I sit down to write this column. There are always far more topics than I have space to deal with.

The recent show of Slavic Folk Arts held at the Crystal Garden is a case in point. Pure folk art is a timeless phenomenon that has gone on largely unaffected by changes of political government imposed on nations from their urban centres. Whether the peasant can survive as such in the world of 20th-century technics, however, is a moot question.

BRINGING CULTURAL HERITAGE

At this particular show, with its many pieces of quality, there was encouraging evidence that the age of mass communications has not yet swamped the instinctive design sense of the Slav farmer and villager. From the Canadian point of view, however, the most important moral of the show resided surely in its reminder to us all of the extraordinarily rich cultural heritage being brought to this country by European immigrants of all sorts.

SEAGRAM COLLECTION

I have just returned from the preview of a second, and this time purely Canadian, showing at the Crystal Garden. I refer, of course, to the Seagram collection of paintings of Canadian cities. The principal underlying this large-scale project is one which many European governments have fully grasped. It was put vividly recently when a prominent Englishman pointed out Britain's post-war discovery that whereas the Grand Fleet used to be her most potent propaganda weapon, that function had now developed on the Sadlers Wells Ballet.

PROPAGANDA THROUGH ART

There is room for debate as to whether the highly placed Canadian art officials chosen by the show's sponsor to select the participating artists have discharged their task wisely; but one can certainly congratulate the sponsors on having understood the propaganda potency of the arts well ahead of most of the rest of the country.

Incidentally, a number of people have asked why the show was not hung at the Arts Centre. The answer constitutes another potent argument for the projected building of a new wing. When the matter was discussed with Seagram officials a few months ago it was found that the gallery was simply not large enough for the show.

HOARE OUTSPOKEN

Praises Chamberlain Criticizes Churchill

NINE TROUBLED YEARS, by Viscount Templewood, Sir Samuel Hoare. Collins, Toronto, 448 pages, $5.

(Reviewed by Tom Gould)

Men whose lives shaped the destinies of millions race through the pages of Viscount Templewood's narrative of "Nine Troubled Years" from 1931 to 1940.

Men like Ghandi, the prophetic Indian leader, Churchill, King George V, Baldwin and Neville Chamberlain.

Most of all, this is the story of Chamberlain, and the events leading to Munich.

Viscount Templewood emerges as a champion of the much-maligned British prime minister.

"Appeasement," he writes, "was not Chamberlain's personal policy. Not only was it supported by his colleagues, but it expressed the general desire of the British people."

OUTSPOKEN

Unlike other famous men, who through such books allow readers to peek behind the doors of high office, Viscount Templewood is not afraid to deal with controversy. He pulls no punches.

His dislike of Churchill during this hectic mid-war period is obvious. Templewood spent years working on the Government of India Act, which Churchill blocked almost single-handed.

"Brilliant and ruthless" is the way he describes Churchill's "furious attach" on the India bill, which in 1935 proposed an All-India federation. India did not receive independence, was split, perhaps for all time, by delay attributed to Churchill.

Viscount Templewood deals with the abdication crisis, the Anglo-German Naval Treaty, the Hoare-Laval Pact, and in detail with Munich.

His writing is lucid, and the book a valuable addition to the history of our generation. It paints an utterly new picture of Chamberlain that in itself is fascinating.

SENSELESS REBELLION

REVOLT OF THE SINNERS, by Ugo Zatterin, Appleton-Century-Crofts.

This is a first novel about senseless rebellion, animal passion and disillusion in the Communist-ridden suburbs of Rome. Author Ugo Zatterin, a lawyer by education and a journalist by choice, tells his story with the terse economy of the newspaper report that inspired it.

Brightly Told Experiences Of Stewardess

RING TWICE FOR THE STEWARDESS, by Maida Nixson, McGraw-Hill Co. of Canada Ltd., $3.00, 216 pages.

Because there was "salt in her blood" Maida Nixson decided the career for her was on the sea. Fond of travel, but blessed with, little of this world's goods, she concluded a job as a ship's stewardess was an ideal existence.

In relating her experiences as a "Tabby" (the crew's name for a stewardess) she describes with a light, humorous touch the amusing yet strenuous life on the ocean.

Amid calm and storm, drunken skippers, amorous stewards, and clamoring passengers, life aboard ship was never dull.

Clad in a crisply starched uniform she answered countless bells, rung — once for the steward, twice for the stewardess—by demanding passengers of every race, creed and color.

From early morning to late evening a multitude of duties kept her busy . . . waiting on seasick women . . . looking after lively youngsters . . . serving meals in cabins . . . dusting . . . making beds . . . yet she enjoyed it all.

Possessed with a happy faculty of finding the best in everything the author kept her sense of humor even under the most trying circumstances.

Her story is told in a human, engaging manner of the complex life behind the scenes aboard ship . . . of congenial companions . . . amusing experiences and interesting descriptions of distant lands. It is a fascinating book that will have a wide appeal to a large circle of readers. —M. L.

U.S. Curator of Japanese Prints

THE FLOATING WORLD, by James Michener, Random House, Toronto.

The finest collections of Japanese prints are to be found in America rather than in Japan, James A. Michener declares in "The Floating World."

Michener, who previously has restricted his writings about Japan and the Far East to fiction, presents in the book, subtitled "The Story of Japanese Prints," an account of the art, and the artists who made the prints during the period from approximately 1660 to 1860.

The collections of Japanese prints in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and in The Art Institute of Chicago "are incomparable," Michener states. "While the smaller collection in The Metropolitan Museum of Arts in New York compares favorably with all the greatest Japanese collections." Thus, "America is the curator of one of the world's liveliest arts."

WAR OVER GOLD

THE HIGH PASSES, by John Reese, Little, Brown.

A fast, exciting Western about a range war in the "Mother Lode" country of the high Sierra. Reese has taken more trouble with character and motive than is usual in books of this genre.

BOOK TALK

By JAMES SCOTT

In 1942, right at the time when global air activity was reaching an unprecedented peak, C. A. Robertson, who was then chief of the Air-Sea Rescue Equipment Office, realized that the war in the air was creating a curious and intimate bond between men of many nations.

It's an old story that any experience shared—no matter how unpleasant or bizarre—has a way of bringing men of divergent interests together. This is the basis of college reunions, writers' clubs and other similar social phenomena.

The people whom Mr. Robertson was meeting at that time had all participated in a kind of action which separated them from most other people. They were men who had known what it was to plummet into the sea from a disabled aircraft and who had survived to tell the tale.

Well you know as well as I that in this organization-conscious age it was inevitable that sooner or later someone was going to organize these chaps into a club. That's what Mr. Robertson did and the Goldfish Club was born.

With Membership of 10,000

Outside of the peculiar qualifications for membership, it developed much the same way as any other club. It has an insignia, and a code and an ultimate aim and a theme. The theme is carried in its name—"gold for the value of life; fish for the sea."

Well, 1942 is getting to be a long time ago. The club still flourishes and the membership has now reached 10,000 which is quite a lot of men ditched into the sea at that.

Of course it is impossible to suppress the urge to get perpetuated in print. As sure as tomorrow the Goldfish Club was going to have to publish something about itself and right now it is busy doing just that.

Coming along this spring will be a volume called "Down in the Drink," a collection of stories written by Flight-Lieutenant Ralph Barker about the club.

This ought to be good if properly handled. Since it deals with men facing the final extremity of death, it is the stuff from which heroic tales spring. I don't know anything about Ralph Barker, but no author was ever given more ready-made material and from now on in it's up to him.

Interpreting U.S. Class

Last week saw the publication in this country of Mr. John Marquand's tenth "serious" novel. By that I mean that his early books about Mr. Moto (which I still enjoy) do not count.

In these 10 thick books (they seem to be getting thicker or maybe I'm just slowing down) Mr. Marquand has undoubtedly become the most widely-read interpereter of the American upper middle class in the twentieth century.

The new book is called "Sincerely, Willis Wade." There is not too much which needs to be said about it. It is better than "Melville Goodwin, U.S.A.," but not quite so good as "The Late George Apley" or "H. M. Pulham, Esquire." It is shrewd, easy to read, excellent entertainment. I can see no reason why it won't be a best-seller and I can see no objections to it getting that kind of success.

The thing which interests me about Mr. Marquand, however, is what made him stop where he did? Here is a writer who has a great deal more technical skill than most of his contemporaries. Here, too, is a writer who has a sharpness of perception which ought to put him in the front rank of observers of the twentieth century human comedy. Mr. Marquand is a man who might have won a Nobel Prize, but if he does I'll go out into the woodshed and play Russian roulette.

The plain truth of the matter is that Marquand, with everything in his favor, seems to have reached a point where he has let his steam run down. "Sincerely, Willis Wade" is a lot better book than most you'll read this year. It is not a good enough book to put it into that rare company which sets it apart from the merely good and lays a claim to posterity.

I think Mr. Marquand could have written such a book once. It begins to look as if he never will now, and I am puzzled.

I remember Mr. Marquand saying once that after he left college he just sat down one day and wrote a story and put it in the mail and a little while later he got a cheque for it from the first magazine he tried. It has been going on that way for him ever since.

Could it be that there really is some truth in the old saw that it never does a man any good to get things too easily?

Daring Officer Writes Book On Escapes

"RETURN TICKET," by Lieut.-Col. Anthony Deane-Drummond, Lippincott.

Colonel Deane-Drummond turns author to add his bold adventures to the growing list of escape stories written about the Second World War.

Deane-Drummond was a paratroop officer who dropped into Italy to blow up a bridge. The plan called for the party to make its way to the coast to be picked up by a submarine. Instead the party was captured.

Deane-Drummond made his first escape from an Italian prison and reached the Swiss border only to be captured. The second time he escaped from a hospital, reached Switzerland and crossed then occupied France to the sea where he boarded a boat for England.

That was not the end of his adventures for he dropped in the ill-fated attack on Arnhem and again was captured. Though taken prisoner he hid for 13 days and nights in a cupboard within inches of the Germans and made another daring escape to his lines.

Courting Improved, Writer Contends

A HISTORY OF COURTING, by E. S. Turner, Dutton.

Making love to a heavily made-up beauty, in a day of imperfect cosmetics, was "like making love to an odorous, tacky puffball which was liable to dissolve in dust." This is a conclusion of E. S. Turner in "A History of Courting."

Another observation, some critics of courting couples should be guaranteed more privacy. However, Turner concludes that most are just as reluctant to court in designated places as children are reluctant to play in designated playgrounds.

Closed cars and moving pictures have changed courting patterns, he says.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

Shelter Cyclamen

By JACK BEASTALL

Q: Where is the best place to plant hardy cyclamen?

A: In the shelter of deciduous shrubs where they will recive water and shade during summer, and sunshine and shelter from the worst of the cold winds during winter.

★ ★ ★

Q: How soon can outside plantings of Tigridia bulbs be made in Victoria?

A: Tigridia pavonia is a native of Mexico and the bulbs are somewhat tender. We usually plant them in well-drained soil about the third week in May.

★ ★ ★

Q: Could you give me the name of an individual, or butter-head lettuce, seed of which is easily available.

A: Tom Thumb and Bibb are both listed in the majority of seed catalogues. Sow small amounts of seed frequently for a continuous supply during the season.

WEEK'S GARDEN WORK

Time to Tidy Lawn

By JACK BEASTALL

Rake lawn, if weather not freezing, to remove winter debris; this also assists in aeration.

Inspect newly-planted subjects, firming the soil after recent frosts.

If weather suitable, sow outside, onions, leeks, carrots, spinach broad beans.

Globe antichokes may be started from seed or from suckers planted now.

Sow indoors seed of perennial herbs: sage, thyme, rosemary, florence fennel.

Prune shrubs as advised during February, if still not done.

Prick out snaps, lobelia and other early sown annuals.

Sow indoors, annuals such as schizanthus, nemesia, nicotiana (daylight strain) shirley poppy and stock.

Cacti in large pots should receive first watering after winter-dormancy.

Epiphyllum cacti which are forming flower buds now on the "leaves" should receive a weak feeding of fertilizer, and be watered whenever the soil becomes dry.

U.S. Testing Rubber Roads

CHICAGO (UP)—The American Public Works Association says highway officials are awaiting with interest the outcome of tests of "rubber roads."

During the last five years experimental patches of surfacing containing rubber have been laid on selected stretches of roads throughout the country, the association said.

Connecticut, Louisiana, Nebraska, Ohio, Utah and Wisconsin are among states that have such experimental patches of road.

Proponents of "rubber roads" hope they will prove to be longer lasting, skid-proof and more resilient.

But a major disadvantage, the association said, has been the high cost. However, researchers hope they have this problem licked.

Originally, asphalt and rubber were mixed at a chemical plant, and shipped hot in insulated trucks or railroad tank cars to the construction sites. This limited the shipping range to a 24-hour trip from the plant.

But now, rubber pellets no larger than a pencil ereaser have been developed. They can be packed in bags, thus cutting shipping costs and eliminating restrictions on shipping distance.

A combination of tar and synthetic rubber has been tested in Connecticut. Near Milwaukee, Wis., experiments are under way on two half-mile strips of rubber bituminous concrete paving.

California Planning Man-Made River

SACRAMENTO (UP)—California is considering construction of a man-made river longer than the Rhine to carry more than a trillion gallons of water a year to water-hungry agriculture and industry.

Key to the vast $1,500,000,000 project would be the largest concrete dam in the world, flung across the scenic canyon of the Feather River, five miles above Oroville, Calif.

Larger Houses for Less Cost Forecast

CHICAGO (UP)—Home owners can look forward to bigger and more easily maintained houses for less money.

John M. Neil of the Illinois Institute of Technology predicted that within the next few years great progress will be made in improving structural units to reduce building costs. This will enable buyers to obtain more space for less money.

Neff said that future use of prefabricated brick walls and new lightweight materials would greatly reduce the cost of home building.

Amateur Gardeners Warned on Shrubs

All we need now is a little warm sunshine to cause the hibernating gardeners to venture forth and start cleaning up for spring.

The cleaning up process invariably leads to the use of secateurs or pruners, and with these in hand, the gardener becomes conscious of the straggly appearance of his shrubs.

Shrubs are a problem to the amateur, and unless the name of every shrub in the garden is known, gardening books just increase the mental confusion.

Because some shrubs must be pruned in the spring, others in summer, and some not pruned at any time, the home gardener usually leaves them to their fate, or, in a fit of desperation, cuts them all back regardless of their individual requirements.

Jack Beastall

Who can blame the gardener? The shrubs are leggy, they are growing out of bounds and their flowers are poor. Something has to be done.

When the names of the shrubs are known it is a fairly simple matter to obtain information from a professional, or from a book borrowed from the library or neighbor. But the gardener who needs the most help is the one whose shrubs are strangers.

Fortunately there is a guide by which the home gardener can do a reasonably accurate job. It can hardly be termed a rule, because it is not infallible and there are several exceptions, but it does help in making a decision.

We know that shrubs which flower early in the year bear their blossoms on stems which were made in a previous season. These are said to flower on old wood.

To remove any wood during winter would be to remove the next season's flowers. Therefore, these shrubs are pruned immediately after they have flowered, thus diverting the strength of the plants into the making of flower buds for the following year.

Shrubs which flower late in the season bear their blossoms on new wood which has grown, matured and set buds in the one growing season.

This type of shrub needs pruning before growth starts in the spring, so that new and vigorous shoots will be produced, and the shape of the shrub be pleasing and within bounds when in full leaf.

DIVIDING POINT GUIDE

Somewhere we have to draw a line to determine where early flowering ceases and late flowering commences, and for convenience we use mid-summer as the dividing point.

We can now reduce the whole matter to a few words. Shrubs which flower after mid-summer are pruned in March and April; those which flower before mid-summer are pruned immediately the flowers are over.

While this guide applies in general, there are several shrubs which should not be pruned at all, and it will pay the home gardener to determine if any in his garden fall into this class.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Light scratches on furniture usually can be concealed by rubbing them with equal parts of boiled linseed oil, turptntine and white vinegar.

The old-fashioned piano stool can be converted into a handy bedside table. Refinish it to suit the bedroom decorating scheme. It can be turned to bring articles within easy reach, and lowered or raised to fit bed height.

Primer Sealer Key To Plywood Finish

At this stage of the do-it-yourself boom it's safe to say that home mechanics are pretty well versed on the subject of fir plywood. For it is the best-known plywood and widely used.

Also, it's economical and easy to work with. But finishing it presents a small problem because of the characteristic "wild" grain of the face veneer. The solution lies in the use of a good primer or presealer.

For instance, best results are obtained with conventional wall and woodwork paints if the plywood is first sealed with a coating of white sealer or interior white undercoater. If the primer or sealer is not used, the first coat of paint increases grain contrast by penetrating the grain unevenly.

PRACTICALLY A MUST

Paint, hardware and lumber dealers sell special plywood sealers that are most effective for subduing grain contrast. These products are practically a must when stain is used on fir plywood. Without them the soft, darker portions of the grain act as a sponge and soak up more stain than the hard, lighter areas. Plywood sealers are available in flat white and clear.

Another type of finishing product that has been used with successful results in plywood is the one-coat, stain-wax finish in various colors. Stain-wax subdues grain contrast and is a finish in itself — no presealer needed.

It's under finishes that allow varying degrees of grain "show-through" that fir plywood can really be given a personality of its own. Not naturally endowed with great beauty, it actually blooms when married to some of these.

LIGHT NATURAL FINISH

For maximum grain show-through a light natural finish is suggested. First smooth the wood with No. 00 sandpaper, then apply clear sealer evenly. Sandpaper when dry and apply a dull or gloss varnish.

A simple blonde finish can be obtained in two steps, too. First thin an interior white undercoater or white sealer so that the grain shows through to your liking, and apply it. Sand lightly when dry and apply clear shellac (thinned 50-50 with shellac thinner) or varnish. Steel-wool the finish for best effect.

A variation on this finish can be had by tinting the white undercoater or sealer with colors-in-oil. Or it can be varied further by painting on white or tinted undercoater or sealer, letting it set a few minutes, then wiping it into the pores of the wood with a clean rag. Sand lightly when dry, then apply a thin coating of shellac followed when dry by one coat of varnish.

COLORS AND SHADES

Countless colors and shades can be obtained by varying the amount of tinting oils and turpentine (thinner) added to the color coat.

Conventional stains in many colors and shades broaden the field of natural finishes for fir plywood. Remember, however, always to apply clear plywood sealer first to subdue contrast. Unless, of course, grain contrast is not undesirable to you.

New Hospital Cost-Sharing Change Asked

Victoria city council may ask the provincial government to change the basis of cost-sharing for social welfare following a meeting Thursday of finance committee.

Unless some adjustment is agreed to, city welfare department budget faces a sharp boost due to recently increased bed space at the Gorge Road Hospital and due to its changed status from nursing home to hospital.

Where before it was taxable, it is now tax-free.

When the former nursing home, known as Victoria Nursing Home, moved into new 104-bed premises in December, costs of operation jumped by a potential of $50,000. There were just over 45 beds in the old building.

Some council members feel patients who formerly went to city acute hospitals for chronic disorders will now go to the Gorge Hospital. This relieves the province, which pays the full cost of the acute hospitals (with federal aid) and loads the city, which pays 20 per cent of the Gorge Hospital costs.

Taxation is lost to the city because the new premises include a minor surgery and status is changed from nursing home to hospital.

RATES UP

The hospital has also increased its rates to $115 for ward accommodation.

All of this will have a marked effect on the city budget unless the province agrees to altering the cost-sharing set-up. Now the province pays 80 per cent, the city pays 20 per cent.

The city will suggest the province share on a per capita basis rather than a percentage basis. This would mean all areas served by the hospital would pay part of the cost now met by the city.

It is estimated this would change the city share to 15 per cent.

Oak Bay, which has the smallest percentage of elderly people coming to the hospital, would pay equally with other municipalities, according to population.

Killer Has Hostage

KEMMERER, Wyo (AP)—A burglar suspect, armed with two guns, shot and killed one man, wounded two others, and later escaped into predawn darkness Friday with a kidnapped, 17-year-old youth as hostage.

TOUGH, MEAN

Moose Rule Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UP)—Hundreds of hungry moose, tough and mean enough to charge oncoming locomotives, roamed residential streets here today and citizens tried to stay indoors.

The half-starved animals, some weighing more than half a ton, took over residential areas of Anchorage and nearby Palmer yesterday and made plenty of trouble.

Among other things, the moose:

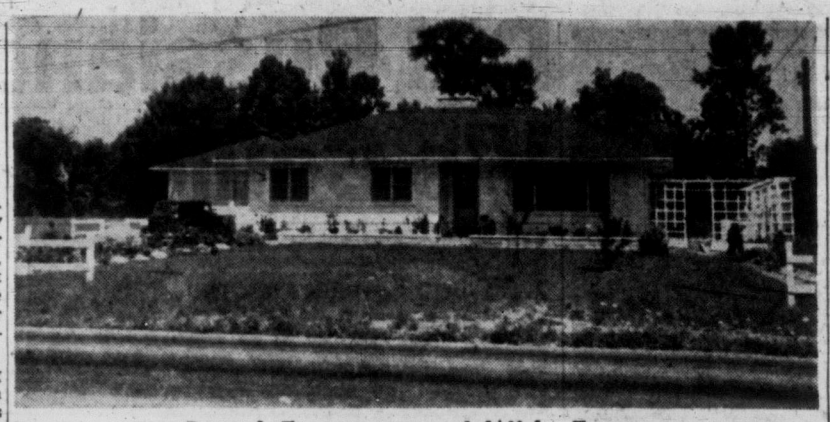
1. Held the Palmer police chief at bay in his home, then raced after his car when he made a getaway.

2. Poked curiously into a bar and gave patrons a disdainful once-over before leaving.

3. Chased one unidentified but indignant woman up to the front door of her home.

4. Charged a school boy on his way to school and tumbled him into a snow bank.

5. Butted an amateur photographer who stumbled into the snow while trying to take a picture of one of the animals.



Broad Frontage and Wide Eaves

Wide eaves are an important part of the charm of this broad frontage home and the low, stone planting area at the front seems to make the house cling to its attractive site.

A study of the room layout reveals a plan you'll find hard to beat in comfort and convenience. Sleeping and living areas are nicely separated, and open planning has given a feeling of real spaciousness to both living and dining rooms. Kitchen equipment includes washing machine and dish washer. French doors from dining room lead to wide patio and a barbeque at the rear.

If further information is desired on house No. 62-509, please write to Home Building Co., 2842 Bloor St. W., Toronto 18.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q: What is a back saw, and what purpose does it serve?

A: A back saw has a fine-toothed, rectangular blade about 12 inches long, with 14 points per inch. It is used for fine, accurate woodworking cuts—usually in conjunction with a mitre box.

Q: Is it all right to paint over worn linoleum floors?—C.D.

A: Yes, with floor enamel. But first remove all traces of wax and grease. Turpentine is a good wax solvent, and should be applied with fine steel wool. Allow linoleum to dry overnight before painting.

Did Russians Dog It? V's Couldn't Care Less

LYRICAL NURSES GIVE V's NEW BATTLE SONG

DUESSELDORF, Germany (CP)—A group of nurses in Penticton, B.C., has given Canada's World Hockey Championship candidates a lilting battle song for Sunday's climatic contest against Russia.

It goes like this:

"Red means stop,
"Green means go;
"Stop those Reds
"And go, Vees, go!"

The lyrics came in a telegram signed simply "Penticton Nurses." Penticton's team cheer is "go, Vees, go" and players wouldn't mind seeing the expanded version set to music.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

They're going to pay dues to a more-than-handy hockey player at Memorial Arena Wednesday night.

The glad hand will go out to the fellow the Cougars call "Punch."

Andrew Alex Hebenton, to be precise, will be the guest of honor of the hockey public.

A "night" like this is simply what the hockey fans wish to make it. Nothing more. There are no limitations. And that seems fair enough, especially in respect to Andy.

ANDY HEBENTON

For Andy's career, like any other player's, has been, and is, just what he wants to make of it. There are no limitations. And to Andy, in particular, there are no limitations — in his approach, his willingness, and his club spirit. And that's been fair enough, too. As a matter of fact it's been better than fair enough. To the limit of his ability, that's all.

Andy first became a Cougar in the championship year of 1950-51. He was an integral part of Roger Leger's club that season and scored 16 goals during the regular season and six in the playoffs.

He missed by one in doubling that output the next season, finishing with 31. In 1952-53 he contributed 27 goals to the cause, slipping slightly to 21 last season.

The Rest Glad of the Change

But this is the season he has really hit the jackpot, and reason enough for the jackpot party the Booster Club will throw for him next week.

Switched from right wing to left wing due to the absence of suitable virulent talent on the port flank, Andy suddenly blossomed into a prolific scorer.

Even now he is waging a stretch duel with Edmonton's Bronco Horvath for this Western Hockey League honor, while obviously being a more valued performer than was Eddie Mazur when the gangling left winger who went from here to the Montreal Canadiens, fired home a club record of 43 goals.

Andy's record constitutes a pretty fair four-year average, but an average that seems doomed to end this year. For Andy is due for better things. Lynn Patrick said so when he was here. Others have said so before Lynn.

It's simple to explain his play. He just puts everything he's got into every game. Nobody can ask more of Andy, because he hasn't got any more to give.

No Apologies, Please

Goalie Marcel Pelletier explains Andy's tremendous spirit and his deep feeling well.

The incident in question occurred in the game against Edmonton Wednesday, when the goal scored by Ed Stankiewicz of the Flyers actually was deflected into the net by Andy.

It wasn't Andy's fault—just one of the intangibles that occur from time to time.

But Andy was deeply disturbed.

He skated up to Marcel and said: "Gee, I'm sorry Marc; it won't happen again."

He didn't apologize only once, but again and again, until Marcel said: "Forget it; go and get it back."

And as Marcel commented:

"He almost did."

It is to be hoped apologies to Andy won't be necessary Wednesday.

Furgol, Barber Share Baton Rouge Golf Lead

BATON ROUGE, La. (UP) — Veteran pros Marty Furgol and Jerry Barber took a two-stroke lead into the last half of the $12,500 Baton Rouge Open today with 10-under-par 134's.

Paul McGuire, a relatively unknown from Wichita, Kan., was next at 136.

Barber put together a 35-32—67, the best round of the day Friday, to pull from a tie for fifth to the top.

All the pros were having trouble with a switch-wind that went from south to west, stalled shots or sent them spinning into the rough.

"That wind made the course two strokes worse," said Furgol, who hit four birdies on the back nine and came in with a 35-33—68.

Weather was mild, in the 80s, when the tournament started Thursday and the weatherman said there was a chance of rain today—and that it would be much colder for the finals tomorrow.

Barber had his best round on the back nine; a four-under par 32. The Los Angeles golfer could have taken a clear-cut lead, but missed two "gimme" putts, a two-footer and a three-footer. Furgol, of Lemont, Ill., didn't go over par on a single hole in the first 36. "My putting was pretty good," he said.

McGuire, who tied for second in the first round, shot two bogie on the front nine but came in with a 35-35—70 yesterday to stay closest to the top.

Shoemaker Near Mark

ARCADIA, Calif. (BUP) — With four more days of racing at Santa Anita, Wee Willie Shoemaker today appeared certain to break Ted Atkinson's record of riding 73 winners at a single meeting here.

Shoemaker brought home three winners yesterday, including Nell S. McCarthy's Movarullah in the $10,000 featured race, to run his total to 71.

FIGHT RESULTS

NEW YORK (AP)—Chico Vejar, 152, Stamford, Conn., outpointed Billy Graham, 148½, New York (10).

SAN DIEGO, Calif (AP)—Harry Willis, 204, Los Angeles, stopped Jimmy Ingram, 180, Los Angeles (2).

Keep It Under Your Hat, But . . .

Victoria Cougar goalie, Marcel Pelletier, who owns beaucoup chapeaux, will be looking for another lid tonight. Pelletier is given a hat by a local clothier for every shutout he registers. He has won six hats this year and is one shutout away from Bill Brennan's league record of seven. There is always room on top, says Marcel as he models that elusive No. 7 hat, and tonight may be the night. Pelletier will have the shutout bee in his bonnet when Cougars tangle with Vancouver Canucks. (Times Photo by Halkett.)

EVERYBODY 'NEUTRAL' FOR WORLD ICE FINAL

DUESSELDORF, Germany (UP)—Two Swiss referees, two other "neutral" goal coaches and possibly a fifth English-speaking "penalty watcher" will judge the deciding World Ice Hockey Championship match between Russia and Canada at Krefeld Sunday.

The executive committee of the International Hockey Federation today approved the assignment of two extra goal judges (not Canadian or Russian), and a possible "English-speaking" referee in the penalty box so that "there will be no misunderstanding."

The two main referees will be Karl Mueller and Kurt Hauser of Switzerland.

PLAY HERE TONIGHT

Cougars Tie With Canucks

Victoria 1, Vancouver 1

Victoria Cougars and Vancouver Canucks, having exhausted their best arguments Friday night in a bitter 1-1 deadlock in Vancouver, will review their notes tonight and start all over again. Only the scene will be changed.

The coast clubs, who meet three more times after tonight, before the dog-eat-dog Western Hockey League race is resolved, settled for a split in points Friday, but both will be looking for the glutton's share tonight when they meet at Memorial Arena at 8.30.

Vancouver needs the two points to boost themselves from their tied position for fourth place with New Westminster. Royals and Canucks are splitting rights to the last play-off berth with 61 points. Victoria needs the game to keep their second-place lead on Calgary.

VICTORIA 1, VANCOUVER 1

First period: No scoring. Penalties: Durham 43 and 12.59, Dick 9.21.

Second period: 1, Vancouver, Brown (Johnson) 19.36. Penalties: Davidson 10.41, Hebenton 16.30.

Third period: 2, Victoria, Hebenton (Durham, Macauley) 7.10. No penalties.

MATTER OF COURSE

The other coast game sees Edmonton at New Westminster. Royals' desire for the two points that go with a win have already been explored. Edmonton wants them just as a matter of course.

One match on the Prairies sees Saskatoon at Calgary. The Quakers still have a chance of making the play-offs, but only with the collapse of Canucks and Royals.

Fred Brown was the marksman Friday night, driving in the important goal in the dying seconds of the second period. Andy Hebenton drove in the equalizer for Victoria in the first half of the final. It was Hebenton's 43rd goal of the campaign, tying him with Ed Mazur for the all-time club scoring record.

GATHER AROUND NET

Nine of the 10 players on the ice were gathered around the Victoria net when Brown managed to get a stick on a kick-out pass from Earl Johnson and drive the puck past Marcel Pelletier at ankle-level.

The goal came a few minutes after Billy Dean was assisted from the ice, bleeding from a cut on the back of the head.

Hebenton caught a short pass from Pete Durham and fired through the screen of players for the tying goal.

Moscow Gets '57 Tourney

DUSSELDORF, Germany (AP)—The Congress of the International Ice Hockey Federation today chose Moscow as the site of the 1957 world championships.

The winner of the Olympic hockey tournament in Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy, next January will automatically be world's champion, making it unnecessary to play a separate world tournament.

Austria is the top contender for the site of the 1958 world championship but a vote will not be taken until next year when the congress meets again during the Olympic Games.

Skeet Trophies At Stake Sunday

Skeet trophies will be on the block Sunday in a shoot at the Victoria Gun Club's Albert Head grounds. Competition will be held on the first legs of all skeet trophies.

The shoot starts at 1 and visitors are welcome. Ammunition and refreshments will be available on the grounds.

Barons Near Lead

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Barons moved ahead with a three-goal burst in the first period Friday night and went on to beat Springfield Indians 7-4 in an American Hockey League game.

The victory moved Barons to within half a game of the league lead.

Championship Game Sunday In World Hockey Tourney

By ARCH MACKENZIE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

KREFELD, Germany (CP)—With the World Hockey Tournament hinging on the big game Sunday between Canada and Russia, the question is—have the Moscow Millionaires been playing under wraps?

The Red stars undoubtedly have been dogging it, some say. It's a debatable point, others hold.

The Canadians, who admit they have let up themselves against some of the weaker countries, say they couldn't care less. They get the nod from most observers here.

The capitalistic name "Millionaires" applied to the Russian team appears to be a gag among western sports writers at the tournament. The team is made up of players from the Moscow Dynamos a defense ministry outfit and another team called "Wings of the Soviet."

The Sunday match has taken on the flavor of a one-game, European Stanley Cup. Krefeld's indoor rink, Rheinland-Halle, has been sold out for months. It can hold about 9,000 persons.

With about 1,200 to 1,500 Canadian soldiers and air force personnel from nearby military establishments coming to the game, tickets now are a black-market affair. Several hundred fans paid the top regular price of 35 deutsche marks about $8 for the choice seats.

The game starts at 8 a.m. PST.

Scouting Report Favors V's

Clare Drake of Yorkton, Sask., who has scouted the Russians for playing coach Grant Warwick of Penticton Vs, said: "The Canadians are seven goals better if they play the hockey they are capable of."

German and Swedish sports writers and others call Canada by margins of one, two and three goals. Penalties are regarded as the big question mark.

The Canadians have calmed down considerably since the game with Czechoslovakia, when they drew 10 penalties.

The penalty-free style they showed for five periods against Finland and Switzerland has been a good omen. The V's collected only three against the Swedes Thursday night and had five Friday night as they brushed aside Germany 10-1.

In the seven games played, the Canadians spent a total of 60 minutes in the penalty box.

"Canada by two goals but it will be close," said U.S. manager Al Blatzheim.

Drake says the Russians' power lies in their ability to turn on a dime. Drake, who coaches a Duesseldorf team, has watched the Russians in five games.

"Also," he said, "the defense never starts a play.

"They always pass to the wingers.

"This guy Bobrov Vsevolod Bobrov, captain and star forward gets every pass when the first line is on the ice and he doesn't like to let the puck go once he gets it. But he's overrated in my books. The Yanks took the steam out of him with some stiff checks.

Reds Don't Like It Rough

"The Russians like to get out there and skate around but they don't go for the rough stuff. Bobrov makes quite a show of appealing to the referee every time he's checked."

He added: "A lot about Sunday's game depends on the referees."

Two officials from Switzerland will handle the game.

Blatzheim said:

"Bobrov didn't do anything against us. He stood between the red line and our blue line like a dummy. He doesn't circle around and we found we could cover him."

The Canadians and Russians are the only unbeaten teams in the nine-country tournament which began Feb. 25. Each has won seven straight games.

A mild outbreak of influenza and colds, striking among others, coach Warwick and Jack McIntyre, did not seem to hurt the Canadians in their easy victory over Germany at Cologne. Both Warwicks and McIntyre scored. Jack Macdonald and Mike Shabaga, the old pro, each scored a pair of goals while Bill Warwick, Jack Taggart, Jim Middleton and Doug Kilburn scored once.

The Russians defeated Switzerland 7-2 at Krefeld while the United States moved into third place with a 6-3 win over Poland. Sweden, Czechoslovakia and Finland were idle.

All Penticton's feelings are pointed toward Sunday's game.

"It's been a long week, gang," Bill Warwick told teammates at their hotel.

The Canadian attitude is one of waiting, with some fretting about playing so-called ham-and-egg teams.

The Russians are reported feeling the tension too. They called off a practice Tuesday, their free day, and went to a movie. The Russians have stopped other scheduled practices.

Russian Hockey Team One Big (Red) Party

KREFELD, Germany (CP)—Scuttlebutt among the Russian emigres in this West German city has it that the Moscow team which meets Canada Sunday for the world hockey title is made up of the best—and politically safest—players in Russia.

Russian refugees here—they belong to an organization of escapers some 80,000 strong—are mixed slyly with the Moscow players in their Krefeld hotel, seeking information under the guise of asking for autographs.

Copies of anti-Red newspaper called Pravda, an apparent duplicate of the Moscow Communist party organ except for the "fine print," are being passed to the players mixed in with the regular newspapers offered by the hotel.

The emigres say the Moscow players are interested in chatting with well-wishers in the hotel—but only warily because of the 17 political police included in the hockey party.

The team's top players are Red Army officers, say the emigres.

All are said to have families in Russia, lessening any escape threat despite any individual uncertain enthusiasm for, or standing in, the Communist party.

ON THE ALLEYS

By RON COULTER

Len, Andy Eye Pin Honors

The week in review, and the men to keep your eyes on tonight in the Victoria zone tenpin singles championship will be veterans Len Murrant and Andy Palmer.

Strong competitors and highly regarded at the alleys for the past several years, Murrant and Palmer will be battling for top spot as they shoot in the third of four rounds in the 24-game scratch pin-meet.

Going into action tonight at Strathcona Bowling Alleys, Murrant has the leading total of 2,323 for 12 games, as as against 2,302 for Palmer. George Brown holds down third spot with 2,161, 141 pins back of Palmer.

The 19 entrants in the event are scheduled to start shooting at 6.45. Final six games will be played at Gibson's Bowladrome next Saturday night.

Several tenpin trundlers chalked up lofty totals this week. Red Lawson setting the pace in Gibson's commercial tens when he clicked for games of 204, 231 and 200 in hitting for a 635 triple. Dave Williams posted singletons of 180, 265 and 170, concluding with a 615 total.

In the senior league, Bill Holness rapped out singles of 196, 157 and 258 for 611, and Ken Munn came in with a 608 series on games of 207, 200 and 201.

Other leading threes in the commercial section were rolled by Jack Hobby, 598; Roy Bridger, 592; Gordy Bamford, 589; Jack Fletcher, 578; Cliff Steele, 576; Hugh Bryan, 573; Dave Doolittle and Alex Quinn, 571, Ed Simmons, 569; R. Douglas, 564, and Len Hobbs at 561.

G. Baker, 234; Bryan, 225; Mayzes, 224; Douglas, 224; Hobbis, 223; Quinn, 221; C. Comerford, 220; Doolittle, 218; Bamford, 214; R. Proctor, 213; Cas Sapala, 212; Hobby, 211, 203, and Ed Simmons and Roy Bridger, 210, claimed notable singles.

Simmons, 596; Wilf Johnston, 592; George Motion, 567; Bill Norris, 560, and Doolittle, 555, were also high in the senior division. Johnston, 228; Simmons, 224, and Jim Nicol, 210, rolled leading singles.

★ ★ ★

In Strathcona tens, Williams, 587; Bob Bystedt, 566, and John Hyde, 556, had high threes. Williams, 234; Roy Begg, 226, and Ian McKeachie, 223, hit for top singletons.

Erma Stables paced the women with a 510 triple.

Grace Elves, 548; Jean Campbell, 543; Bernice Latham, 524, and Lorna Luney, 505, shot top totals in Gibson's major women's tens.

★ ★ ★

Sapala, 612; Munn, 570, led the men in mixed action. Duff Williams paced the women with a 496 total, and Lolly Hughes notched a 229 single.

★ ★ ★

In fivepin action Jerry Devine, 848; Blondie Robinson, 796; Sheldon Nipp, 763; T. Collins, 746; Harry Cool, 742; Peggy Taylor, 739; Fred Kade, 732; Jim Heselgrave, 731; Daryl Anderson, 724; Harry Plowman, 717, and Ron Cush, 704, set the pace at Gibson's.

★ ★ ★

Stan Jones, 827; Bill McKinnon, 761; Eric Ware, 759; Alex Lawrence, 753; Wilf Smith, 721; Harry Baines, 720; Cool and Jack Galbraith, 713; Darrell Baker, 712, and Peggy Jones at 705 fired leading threes at Capital City.

Big winners in a recent 10-game doubles tourney at Capital City were Marge Deslauriers and Robinson; Heselgrave and Robinson; Rod Davidson and Cool; Bob Elliott and Robinson, and Mary Chayko and Cool.

SERVING VICTORIA 83 YEARS

706 FORT STREET Just One Door Above Douglas

A Week's Work

By DENNY BOYD

There is a way to get Red McMillan to talk about this season's Shamrock lacrosse team, but it isn't an easy way.

Behind that freckle-speckled countenance, McMillan harbors a vindictive mind and his heart is full of revenge.

When the Shamrocks were in Peterborough last summer, they were billited in a lake-side hotel, 16 miles from the bright lights and night spots. Consequently, as it was too cold to swim and too much exertion to fish, the popular past-time was table tennis, or ping-pong, as it is called by the uninitiated.

Now, if ever there was a pitiful ping-ponger, it was Red McMillan in Peterborough. He wasn't just bad, he was hopeless. Everything he hit was a foul ball and he used to chip paint off the ceiling with his serves.

Everyone on the trip used to beat The Redhead and beat him decisively. The Redhead used to grin about the plasterings he was taking but behind that grin there fermented a terrible plan for revenge.

As soon as the Shamrocks came back to Victoria, The Redhead purchased a ping-pong table and the necessary accoutrements.

Night and day, The Redhead practised until it was time for him to put his awful plan into effect.

One by one, the Shamrock players who had beaten McMillan in Peterborough, were invited to the McMillan home. Then, they were led to the McMillan basement, where The Redhead extracted his vengeance by thumping them roundly at the game he had patiently mastered.

News Is Netted With Net Serves

This reporter's turn came this week during a visit that had been planned to talk about lacrosse. Upstairs, McMillan clammed up on the subject of lacrosse. Grim-faced, he led the reporter to the basement and stood him at the far end of a ping-pong table.

With a wicked, malevolent grin, McMillan said, "Play for serve and ask your questions."

When the sickening slaughter was over, the reporter had lost five straight games, one by a 21-3 score, but had picked up a smidgin of information about the Shamrocks.

An example of the conversation and the accompanying gestures, we have McMillan saying, "If Coley Hall (forhand smash) takes over the (ugh) Indians, the (backhand slice) league should be much stronger and that's 13-2, my serve."

Subtract the table tennis, and you have the following information from the Shamrock coach.

Jack Bionda suffered an extremely bad separation of the shoulder while playing hockey, so bad, in fact, that the shoulder had to be wired up. Chances are, his arm will be in a sling until the end of May. The lacrosse season starts in the first week of May and the question that plagues the Rocks is, will Bionda be in shape to play by the time his injury permits him to swing a stick.

They Will Shop But Won't Bargain

In addition, McMillan says Irish fans can bank on seeing at least two new faces this season. He adds further that if any of the players, imports included, think they can "hold out" on the club, they are dead wrong. "We aren't going to bargain with any players," said McMillan. "If the players we have in mind don't want to come to us, we will shop around for others.

If Archie Browning has changed his mind about retiring, the Shamrocks don't know about it. Nor are they certain if Norm Baker wants to play another year.

They know that Arnie Ferguson wants to watch the first half of the season from the stands before he plays any games and they are willing to go along with the Old Warhorse because they figure he has a lot of mileage left in those legs.

That's about all the news McMillan is disclosing at present. But what a way to get it!

Totems Gain Final

Meet Alberni For Island Title

The championship final of the annual Vancouver Island High School Basketball Tournament will be a familiar plot.

For the fourth time in five years, Victoria High School Totems and Alberni Chieftains will battle for the tournament crown. They will meet in the sudden-death final tonight at Courtenay High School gym to culminate the two-day tournament, in which the top eight prep teams are entered.

Totems and Chieftains were the only survivors with unbeaten records late Friday night after the eight teams completed quarter-final and semi-final qualifying games.

Totems beat Cumberland, 57-45, in their quarter-final match and then came out on top, 41-26, over Esquimalt in the semi-final round. Last year, Totems won the championship for the first time, beating Esquimalt in the final after Esquimalt had upset the defending Alberni squad in the semi-finals. Previously, Alberni had won three straight titles, each at the expense of the Totems.

On Friday, Alberni kept pace with Totems as both headed for the final. Chieftains downed Nanaimo, 46-41 in a tough quarter-final match and then scored an even closer 48-46 victory over a strong Courtenay entry in the semi-finals.

ESQUIMALT WINS

In other quarter-final matches, Courtenay downed Mount View, 47-28 and Esquimalt overwhelmed Ladysmith, 52-35.

In the consolation round, which matches quarter-final losers, Cumberland beat Ladysmith, 57-40 and Nanaimo edged Mount View, 36-35.

Several players established themselves as strong candidates for the Times Trophy, for the tournament's most valuable player, and for positions on the Times all-star team.

For Vic High, Bob Tomlinson scored eight points in the first game and then turned in a torrid second game, scoring 18 points, 14 of them in the first half to prevent Esquimalt from taking the lead.

Alberni's leading stars were Ray Gailloux, who hooped 14 points in the first game; Gary Panton, a 15-point scorer in the second game, and John Vikstrom, who hooped 14 points against Courtenay.

British Empire Games sprint star Terry Tobacco of Cumberland scored 14 points in his first game and then added 24 in the second game for the highest individual scoring total of the opening day.

Tonight's schedule has Esquimalt and Courtenay battling for third and fifth place; Cumberland and Nanaimo contesting fourth and sixth; Mount View and Ladysmith fighting it out for seventh and eighth and Alberni and Totems clashing in the feature game for the championship and the runner-up position.

Collegiate Basketball

Featuring a three-game Intercollegiate Basketball League card Pedagogs tangle with Normal School II tonight at the Oak Bay Junior High School.

Victoria College Vikings meet Normal School I in a senior boys' exhibition at 7.15.

HOCKEY TELEGRAM TO WISH V's WELL

VANCOUVER (CP)—A telegram from Vancouver well-wishers will be handed to the Penticton V's before they take the ice Sunday against Russia in the crucial game of the world hockey tournament.

The telegram, being compiled here by Canadian National Telegraphs at 25 cents a name, will be cabled to the Canadian team in Krefeld, Germany, late tonight.

The telegraph office exhibited a telegram in its window Friday night with an invitation to the public to add their names to the list of well-wishers.

Westcott Surprise Of Shuttle Tourney

By DICK BACON
British United Press Staff Correspondent

MONTREAL (BUP)—A Toronto lingerie salesman today hoped to stop defending champion Don Smythe from becoming the first player in history to capture four-straight Dominion badminton titles.

DAVE McTAGGART
. . . eliminated

Bev Westcott, the only unseeded player in the tournament to reach the semifinals, was gunning for his first shuttlecock crown as 1955 championships neared an end at the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association clubhouse.

However, there was a possibility that defending champions would repeat in every division of the badminton world series with one exception, the men's doubles. Smythe, a 31-year-old cross-town neighbor of Westcott, was still a strong favorite to capture the singles crown, as was the ladies champ, 27-year-old Marg Shedd, another Torontonian. The blond lefthander was never seriously threatened as she outdueled Mrs. Kae Grant of Montreal, 11-6, 11-2, to enter the finals. Only little Jean Waring of Calgary stood between Miss Shedd and her third straight title. The women's doubles title was expected to stay in Toronto with the Misses Shedd and Joan Hennessy.

Miss Waring, sentimental favorite among the galleryites, recovered from a second game letdown to defeat Quebec provincial champ Miss Jean Dunkeld of Montreal, 11-3, 4-11, 11-0, and enter the finals against Miss Shedd. The 17-year-old Calgary miss was in a position of becoming the first player, man or woman, to win both a junior and senior title in the same year. But she was faced with the task of playing both final rounds within two hours today.

Westcott followed up his upset victory over fourth ranked Gordon Simpson of Montreal in the quarter finals, with a convincing, 15-5, 15-11, win from second seeded Daryl Thompson of Vancouver Friday night. Smythe swept past young Dave McTaggart, another Vancouverite, 15-8, 15-9, to reach the championship round.

Lions May Bid For Pantages

VANCOUVER (BUP)—British Columbia Lions have trained their sights today on Edmonton Eskimo halfback Rod Pantages following Edmonton's approval to the Vancouver-born player to make a deal for himself within the WIFU.

Meanwhile the Lions received the signed contract of another halfback, 24-year-old Jim Garrett of Rutherford, N.J.

Garrett played five exhibition games with the Philadelphia Eagles last year before a leg injury put him off the team.

Dominion Curling Finals Most Colorful in History

BY WILF CHISLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

REGINA (CP) — The Canadian curling championship opening here Monday, officials say, will be the biggest and most colorful in the 26-year history of the event.

The main reason, of course is that Regina is considered here as the curling capital of the world, despite the Scots ancestry of the game. Secondly, Saskatchewan this year is celebrating its 50th anniversary and will start kicking up its heels at the major sports events slated for Regina and Saskatoon.

The first event and the biggest from the spectator point of view is the curling championship, opening Monday.

Officials Friday night in looking over the results of two years of preparation predicted that the 'spiel will draw a record crowd.

Advance sales of tickets total more than $15,000, five times as great as advance sales for any previous championship. There now is a guaranteed attendance of 30,000, just 3,000 off the record set in Edmonton last year.

Most of the advance sales have been made to residents from rural areas where a curling rink is almost as essential as a grain elevator. Every hotel room in Regina was booked weeks ago.

The championships climax seven solid weeks of curling, starting with Regina's 51st annual bonspiel which attracted 288 rinks. The season was undoubtedly the best in Regina's history.

WORLD'S LARGEST RINK

Saskatchewan Curling Association officials say there are at least 35,000 curlers in the province and there probably isn't one among them that wouldn't sell his most prized button to watch the championship rounds. There are at least 600 rinks in the province, ranging from one-sheet affairs to Regina's Caledonian rink, the largest in the world with 14 sheets of artificial ice under one roof.

Curlers today are guests of the city at a luncheon and tonight attend a reception and banquet. Sunday they will attend another luncheon and an evening church service. Practice matches will be held Monday morning with local players forming the opposition. The first draw is set for 3 p.m. CST, Monday, the second at 8 p.m.

Vejar Gets Split Vote

NEW YORK (AP)—Energetic young Chico Vejar Friday night hustled his way to a split 10-round decision over 32-year-old Billy Graham in a telecast bout at Madison Square Garden. Vejar weighed 152, Graham 148½.

Judges Jack Gordon, 5-4-1, and Bert Grant, 6-4, voted for the 23-year-old college clouter from Stamford, Conn. Referee Al Berl cast his ballot for Graham by 5-4-1.

It was the old story of the ring—youth must be served. Vejar just had too much scrap and fire for the old fire horse who missed wildly at times.

Nashua Tops List Of Derby Entrants

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—A total of 125 nominations, the smallest in six years, was annonuced today for the 81st and richest running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs, May 7, with $100,000 guaranteed to the winner.

The guaranteed figure should be easy to meet. The value of the blue-ribbon classic has been increased to $125,000 in added money and the total cost to start a horse raised from $1,050 to $1,600.

Thus with only 10 starters the Kentucky Derby for 1955 would be worth a total of $152,500 with a net purse of $108,400 going to the winner, topping the record of $102,050 earned by Andrew J. Crevolin's Determine a year ago. The second horse gets $25,000, the third $12,500 and the fourth $5,000 as these prizes also were increased.

The outstanding juveniles of the 1954 season and the winners of the major stakes for three-year-olds run to date this year were among the eligibles.

Heading the list was Nashua, Belair stud's champion who recently won the $100,000 added Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah Park along with Montpelier's Saratoga, the colt who trailed him home. The west coast had the $100,000 added Santa Anita Derby winner on the roster in Rex C. Elleworth's Swaps, as well as Jean's Joe and Blue Ruler, the Murcain stable colts who finished second and third behind him.

In addition, Paul Andolino's unbeaten Boston Dodge, winner of the Hibiscus and Bahamas Stakes, and Hasty House Farm's Prince Noor, winner of the Everglades at Hialeah Park, graced the star-studded list.

$132,500 TO GO ROUND

NHL Booty Worthwhile

MONTREAL (CP)—There's a National Hockey League pot of $132,500 awaiting claimants who may come a-knocking, with proper credentials and large-size wallets, within a few weeks. A few of the boys are virtually certain already of a nice chunk of the booty.

Most of the awards that come out of the NHL coffers are for $1,000 each. A couple of runner-up spots are worth $500 each. A top performer, if his team wins the post-season Stanley Cup final, can collect $5,000 or more.

The wildest scrambles for glory and gold among the invidual stars concern the scoring leadership and the best-goalie performance.

Three members of Montreal Canadiens—Maurice Richard, Jean Beliveau and Bernie Geoffrion—are staging a photo finish for scoring honors and $1,000. The runner-up gets $500.

Here is the break-down on individual money prizes:

Each of the six members voted to the first all-star team, $1,000; each member of the second team, $500. Total money for all-stars, $9,000.

Winner of the Hart Trophy, the player voted most valuable to his team, $1,000.

Winner of the Byng Trophy, the player combining ability and clean play, $1,000.

Winner of the Calder Trophy, the best rookie, $1,000.

Winner of the Norris Trophy, the best defenseman, $1,000.

Winner of the Vezina Trophy, the best goalie, $1,000.

Winner of the Ross Trophy, leading scorer on total points, $1,000; runner-up, $500.

Each member of the team finishing first in the regular schedule, approximately $1,000. Eighteen units of $1,000 each are allotted by the league. Total $18,000.

Each member of the second-place team, approximately $500. Total allotted $9,000.

Each member of the third-place team, approximately $350. Total allotted $6,300.

Each member of the fourth-place team, $150. Total allotted $2,700.

In the same 18-point allotment, each member of the winning teams in the Stanley Cup semi-finals gets approximately $1,000 and each member of the losing teams approximately $500. Total allotted $54,000.

Each member of the winning team in the Stanley Cup final, approximately $1,000; each member of the losing team, approximately $500.

DID YOU KNOW? by Heaney's

SINCE EARLY EGYPTIAN TIMES THE ATTEMPT TO TRANSFORM BASE METALS INTO GOLD HAS CAPTURED THE INTEREST AND IMAGINATION OF EVERY GENERATION. DURING THE MIDDLE AGES MANY MEN BELIEVED THEY MIGHT PRODUCE A METAL MORE PERFECT THAN GOLD WHICH WHEN MIXED WITH A MUCH MORE COMMON METAL IN THE RIGHT PROPORTION WOULD PRODUCE GOLD. GOLD DISSOLVED IN ACID WAS HAILED AS THE ELIXIR OF LIFE AND MANY STORIES OF ITS WONDERFUL BENEFIT WERE TOLD. CROOKS MADE THE MOST OF THE COMMON BELIEF THAT GOLD COULD BE MADE BY A SIMPLE MIXTURE AND WITH FAKE DEMONSTRATIONS THEY OBTAINED FUNDS FOR FURTHER WORK ON A LARGER SCALE. AT THE TIME OF EDWARD III IN ENGLAND WHEN PATENT RIGHTS WERE BEING GRANTED FOR INVENTIONS AND MONOPOLIES A PATENT WAS ISSUED TO TWO CHEMISTS FOR THE LONG SOUGHT INGREDIENT THAT WOULD TRANSFORM OTHER METALS TO GOLD. MANY YEARS LATER ANOTHER "INVENTOR" CLAIMED HE HAD THE SECRET FOR MAKING GOLD AND HE WAS INVITED TO DEMONSTRATE HIS METHOD TO THE ROYAL SOCIETY. BEFORE THE DEMONSTRATION HOWEVER THE INVENTOR COMMITTED SUICIDE.

IN THE LAST HALF CENTURY A PRODUCT SOMETIMES REFERRED TO AS "LIQUID GOLD" HAS BECOME FAR MORE IMPORTANT TO MAN'S PROGRESS AND COMFORT THAN THE PRECIOUS METAL. THAT PRODUCT OF COURSE IS OIL - THE MODERN FUEL SO APPRECIATED WHEN TEMPERATURES DROP. SANTEE RATES 'CLOCK'; TOUGHER THAN RIVALS

NEW YORK (UP)—The mystery of the Columbian Mile or "who will set the pace," will be solved tonight when Wes Santee races the clock and three rivals in the Madison Square Garden event.

The Columbian will feature the Knights of Columbus Games, and Santee says his main target will be the 4.03.6 indoor mile record held by Denmark's Gunnar Nielsen.

Santee apparently believes the clock will furnish more competition than the three men he will race—Lew Olive of Army, Lowell Zellers of Indiana and Joe Lapierre, a former Georgetown runner now stationed at Fort Lee, Va.

CLIPPERS HOST C & C

Ashbee Takes Island Hockey Scoring Title

The best scorer in the Vancouver Island Amateur Hockey League will be firing his bolts at the best goaltender in the circuit tonight when C & C Taxi take on Nanaimo Clippers at Nanaimo Civic Arena.

The principles in question are Don Ashbee of the Taximen and young Walt Davis of the Nanaimo club and they will be in the spotlight when the teams tangle in the third game of their best-of-seven final for the league playoff title, Clippers holding a 2-0 lead in games.

Should Nanaimo win tonight, the individual trophies will be presented at Monday's game at Memorial Arena.

Ashbee, the fiery scoring star of the C & C Taxi Club, won the individual scoring championship and Davis was the top goal-keeper over the season.

Because of the unbalanced schedule, the individual scoring statistics were worked out on a percentage basis of points per game. The Nanaimo team played 10 more games than the other clubs in the league.

Ashbee had an average of 2.33 points per game in the 18 games he played, scoring 21 goals and 21 assists for a 42-point total.

Big Mel Gordeau of the Nanaimo team was the leading scorer in points, with 31 goals and 34 assists for 65 points in 32 games but his average was 2.03.

In third place was C & C's Ron Brenner with a 1.82 average while Joe Zuback and Bud Dumont were tied with 1.72 averages.

HALL SECOND

Davis allowed 55 goals in the 16 games he played for a 3.43 goals-against average. George Hall of C & C played more games than any other goalie, allowing 89 goals in 21 games for a runner-up average of 4.09. Third was Navy's Fred Currah, 5.05 and fourth was Drake Hotel's 17-year-old goalie, Don Hamilton, who had a 5.26 mark.

WILSON TAKES MINOR ICE POINT TITLE

The Victoria Minor Hockey Association's midget division scoring championship has been won by Jack Wilson who notched a total of 35 points on 21 goals and 14 assists in 10 games for the second-place Capitals.

For the league-leading Royals, Wayne Pecknold led goal scoring with 22 and finished three points behind Wilson in scoring.

Bob Harris of the Royals came third with 28 points and Cary Liebel and George Brice totaled 26 points each for a fourth-place tie. Cubs' Dennis Bremner and Tony Little finished fifth and sixth with 20 and 18 points, respectively.

Future Grid Pact Predicted by Walker

By BILL FERGUSON
United Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA (UP)—Coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker of the Montreal Alouettes says Canadian and U.S. professional football teams will probably work out a no-raid agreement within a year and some day possibly arrange a "North American championship game."

Walker, who went to Canada after 15 years of coaching in the United States, said that leaders in the Canadian and the National Professional Leagues have learned that they will have to live together.

He said the two leagues will start getting together, probably some time this year, by going after the biggest problem—the stealing of players. He said he thinks both the Canadian and the U.S. leagues are ready for a "no raid" agreement.

However, Walker, who is spending the off-season at suburban Ben Hill here, believes that the raiding of National League draft selections by the Canadian clubs is the finest thing that ever happened to American football players.

"The Canadian league broke up a football monopoly and gave the player just out of college a chance to do a little bartering for his services. For a change they had a chance to play for somebody besides the team that drafted them, and that of course gave them better ground to stand on when it came to talking about a salary," Walker said.

"The draft as it used to be was pretty unfair. They could get a player for $3,000 or $4,000, and if he didn't want to take the offer he could give up football."

Wynn Will Take Trade, Wants 'To Live a Little'

By United Press

The World Series rivals of 1954 were under fire today with pitcher Early Wynn challenging the Cleveland Indians to trade him, and the Brooklyn Dodgers advising manager Leo Durocher to zip his lip.

Wynn, a 23-game winner for the Indians last season, said at Tucson, Ariz., that "it's all right with me" if general manager Hank Greenberg carries out a threat to trade him. Wynn is demanding $45,000 but Greenberg has made a "final offer" of $37,000.

Wynn, who wants the same salary as teammates Ralph Kiner and Bob Lemon, said he'd "prefer to stay in Cleveland" but wouldn't reduce his demand because of Greenberg's threat. He added he hoped "Kiner and Lemon make a million but I want to live a little too."

At Vero Beach, Fla., meanwhile, manager Walt Alston led a verbal assault on Durocher for stating recently that the Brooklyn Dodgers couldn't win the 1955 pennant if Roy Campanella, Jackie Robinson or Pee Wee Reese were injured.

Even such verbal fireworks couldn't drown out trade talk, however, as general manager Gabe Paul of the Cincinnati Redlegs revealed unsuccessful efforts to discuss a deal for slugger Frank Thomas of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Paul said he got nowhere in his talks with general manager Branch Rickey.

"We'll bid for Thomas if he's on the market," Paul said. "However, I don't expect Pittsburgh to trade him—at least until he's signed."

At Fort Myers, Fla., Branch Rickey, Jr., revealed that his father had personally taken over negotiations with Thomas, who is asking $25,000. The Pirates are believed ready to pay the .298-slugger about $18,000.

In other camps: Manager Casey Stengel named Whitey Ford, Bob Grim and Bob Turley as the New York Yankees' "big three," but said his fourth starting hurler has not been determined. Rookie outfielder Ted Tappe, who hit 27 homers for Tulsa in the Texas League last year, continued heavy hitting in the Chicago Cubs' Mesa, Ariz., camp.

Taylor Joins Bell In British Racing

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—If the snow ever stops and the deep freeze disappears, Britain's 1955 flat-racing season will get under way March 21. From a Canadian point of view, it promises to be a great year.

Probably for the first time in the history of the British turf, Canadian-owned two-year-olds will cut a conspicuous figure. It is even conceivable that a couple of "Canadian" juveniles may wind up jostling for the honor of winter-book favorite for the 1956 Epsom Derby.

E. P. Taylor of Toronto, owner of the fleet Canadian-bred filly Canadiana, steps into the picture with five two-year-olds now in training at Epsom, Surrey. Max Bell of Calgary, a consistent supporter of British racing in the last three years, is expected to produce several winners from a batch now in training in Ireland.

Bell's horses are at The Curragh, under the care of controversial P. J. (Paddy) Prendergast, Ireland's leading trainer for five of the last six years. Two of the most promising are D'Abernon, a son of the fleet Abernant out of Queenpot, winner of the One Thousand Guineas in 1948, and Calgary Court, one of the first stock of Supreme Court to go to the races. Supreme Court won the rich King George VI and Queen Elizabeth stakes at Ascott five years ago.

Taylor's decision to race in Britain, following the example set by Bell, was welcomed by an English bloodstock expert who said that at a time when the North American dollar is helping to support the game in the United Kingdom, "the powers that be ought to welcome them leaving their horses over here to race."

Quebec 'Pea Soupers' Carry Peas Into Brier

QUEBEC (CP)—If during the Canadian curling championships starting at Regina Monday Quebec's Olivier Samson occasionally fondles a couple of dried peas, it's no eccentricity.

It's to remind him his rink isn't trying to win the Canadian championship just for Quebec province, but also for the "pea soup sections"—the French-Canadian curlers.

The proud pea soupers, organized in Quebec City, all have to carry three or four peas with them and if they can't produce them when challenged by another member, they forfeit a dollar.

Samson's Quebec Jacques Cartier rink has one English-speaking member—third Bill MacDonald, 33, of Kirkland Lake, Ont.—but he's been made an honorary member of the pea soup section.

Samson's rink is only the second French-Canadian team in the 27-year history of the Canadian championships to represent Quebec. Gaston Amyot of Quebec Jacques Cartier won the Quebec championship in 1948.

Tag-Team Mat Bout Gets Added Entries

A blameless referee's wrong decision set off a regular Pier Six brawl in the main event wrestling match at the Victoria Ballroom Thursday night.

What started out as a peaceful Australian tag team contest in the featured match of the three-bout program ended in a wild free-swinging fracas with many spectators entering the battle.

Red Vagnone of the George Strickland-Vagnone team was the villain of the piece.

Starting on Danno McDonald, Vagnone pitched the heavy grappler out of the ring. Referee Dave Pye commenced to count McDonald out but was momentarily delayed by Jack Kiser who entered the ring without being tagged.

While forcing Kiser out of the fight McDonald attempted to get back on the apron but was given a cruel post smashing by Vagnone.

Coming back to the two fighters Pye noticed McDonald still wandering around on the floor. Counting him out the referee awarded the fall and the match to Vagnone and partner Strickland. The crowd booed in bitter disapproval.

Commissioner Doug Fletcher called Pye over and explained what had happened.

Quickly reversing his decision Pye awarded the fall to MacDonald.

Vagnone, feeling the first decision to be the true one, tore after MacDonald and Pye. Kiser and Strickland got into the fight. Uprighteous spectators started taking off their coats and entering the ring.

Finally, after the crowd and wrestlers were played out Pye restored order.

Kiser defeated Strickland in the first half of the double semi-main while Vagnone downed MacDonald in the second half.

Vagnone and MacDonald will meet again Thursday in a winner-take-all match that will probably have no time limit.

Richard May Lose Assist And Perhaps Even $1,000

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The National Hockey League may strip Maurice Richard of an assist because he apparently didn't do what some people thought he did. It could cost the Rocket $1,000.

Bill Graham, the man who takes care of statistics for NHL games in Toronto, said Friday he pulled a bit of a boner in awarding the ace rightwinger with Montreal Canadiens an assist on a goal last week.

He has written league president Clarence Campbell of Montreal, suggesting that the assist be struck from Richard's record and added to the point-total of Canadien defenseman Doug Harvey.

It's touchy business because Richard, if he losses the assist, could miss out in his bid for the individual scoring crown of 1954-55. A $1,000 prize goes to the scoring champion.

Graham brought the error to light after he looked at movies of Wednesday's game between the league-leading Canadiens and the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs. Montreal won, 3-2.

The disputed point came on the first of two second-period goals by Canadiens' Jackie Leclair. At first leftwinger Dickie Moore drew the only assist.

As the period ended, Moore told Graham that the Rocket had earned a point on the play. Graham asked referee Red Storey, who said he wasn't sure whether Maurice was in on it. Linesman George Hayes, however, said he thought Richard should have had an assist.

The movies showed that Richard was behind the net when Leclair scored. Graham said the Rocket didn't touch the puck.

The point, if taken from Maurice, would leave him two behind team-mate Jean Beliveau, the league's leading scorer. Beliveau has 35 goals and 35 assists for 70 points. Richard is second with 36 goals and 33 assists.

Canadiens play host to the last-place Chicago Black Hawks tonight. In other games, the fourth-place Boston Bruins take on the Leafs at Toronto and the fifth-place New York Rangers clash with the second-spot Red Wings at Detroit.

Sunday it's Toronto at Boston, Montreal at Chicago and Detroit at New York.

$250,000 Post Office Renovation To Commence 'Early This Summer'

Renovations to Victoria's old post office, estimated to cost $250,000, likely will begin "early this summer," according to federal district architect Lowell S. W. Wells.

He said in Vancouver today plans for a new customs and immigration building, which is slated for the site, are not yet complete. The Victoria firm of Whittaker and Wagg is architect.

The firm has been cautioned to say nothing about the plans until a call for tenders is issued.

Mr. Wells said only that alterations will be extensive.

Original plans for the project have been changed but condition of the aging stone in the section fronting on government street is such that experts here say demolition is inevitable. The stonework is crumbling.

Federal public works estimates, released Jan. 29, included an expenditure of $491,000 here. Of this, $241,000 was slated for erection of a new federal wharf for hydrographic survey vessels of the Department of Mines and Technical Survey. The hydrographic warehouse faces on the proposed site north of Johnson Street bridge in the Inner Harbor.

Immigration offices are now at 15 Ontario Street and customs department is using some sections of the old post office building at Humboldt and Government.

Original plans were for demolition of the whole section fronting on Government. A three-story rear section which fronts on Humboldt would remain standing but was also slated for renovation. A new five-story block was to be erected with a two-story section adjoining that.

A visit from an architect from Ottawa caused various changes and it is thought likely that the building will now be three stories at the tallest point.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

At this eventful moment in world history, with international relations hanging in precarious balance and Warwick crossing the blue line, it is nothing less than your patriotic duty to know All About Hockey.

Therefore, I shall TELL you All About Hockey.

Hockey is actually bandy, or was. Bandy was first played in the British Isles, when ice formed on the lakes and swamplands. The natives used the ice to play bandy on, there being no other use for ice in the British Isles, where they like their whisky and splash luke warm.

Bandy is a word menaing a club bent at the lower part for striking a ball at play. It also means to beat to and fro.

Thus it is easy to see why hockey is actually bandy, although in modern hockey the club is used only for striking the nearest opponent, and also beating him to and fro.

Note: In the days B.C. (Before Conn) the bent clubs, or sticks, were actually used to strike the ball, or puck. But Major Smythe pointed out the error of this indirect approach, thus leading to the famous saying: "Trust in Conn and keep your sticks high."

As for hockey, this is a game played by driving a ball or small object with sticks curved or hooked at the end. The derivation of the word, most scholars believe, is from "hook" or "hooked," meaning to sign a professional hockey contract.

Other scholars, however, assert that hockey comes from "hock," or "hough."

"Hock" is a wine of a slight yellowish color, so it is unlikely this has anything to do with hockey. Few players of this particular hue last long, if at all.

"Hough," however, has an undoubted connection with hockey, as fans are frequently heard to observe, "Boy, did HE get cooled out! Boy, oh, boy! And hough!"

I almost forgot. "Hock" also means the ham, so I guess it is a hockey term after all, such as: "Ooooh, didja see that ref? Watta ham!"

Well, now I have told you All About Hockey, except for who is going to win the Canada-Russia match Sunday.

The answer, of course, is easy. The score, three to two, for you-know-who.

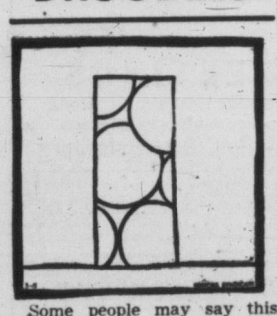
DROODLES



Some people may say this isn't a Droodle that children should see because it'll give them ideas. Well, I discussed it in advance with a psychologist and he told me the only idea it will give children is that they can do funnier droodles than I can. This psychologist is a trouble maker. What this droodle actually does is make people wonder about the problems bubble dancers have trying to earn an honest living. For instance, do they have to have new bubbles designed every year by Hattie Carnegie or Schiaparelli? Or Hart, Schaffner & Marx? Do they have their wardrobe cleaned? Or vulcanized? Do they have fur bubbles for cold theatres? What problems!

Small Acreage Farmers Seek Tax Relief

Saanich greenhouse operators Friday asked the Legislature's standing committee on municipal affairs to classify as "farmers" all people who earn their living off the land, regardless of the amount of land they own.

The committee will take the matter under consideration and make a recommendation to the House.

The operators' recommendation is aimed at obtaining tax relief for persons engaged in concentrated farming, such as greenhouse crops or poultry raising.

HIGHER TAXES

Under the present system, a grower owning less than five acres of land in organized territory, is not recognized as a farmer by the government. He has to pay higher taxes than a grower with more than five acres.

In Saanich, about 150 greenhouse operators own less than five acres.

Bert Saunders, spokesman for the greenhouse group, claimed the present tax system is "unfair" to the greenhouse industry and the small market gardener.

OTHER COUNTRIES

In other countries, such as in England, he pointed out, the government assisted the small land holder engaged in market gardening.

He said: "We contend that operating a greenhouse on a parcel of land of any size, whether it be half an acre or ten acres, is still agricultural or horticultural pursuit."

He did not understand why operators should be "penalized" for owning only a small amount of land.

The present issue is being watched with interest by hundreds of veterans in British Columbia who have settled under the Veterans' Land Act, and are engaged in full-time farming on their small holdings. The majority have less than five acres of land.

The greenhouse delegation included Ed Lum, Frank Creed, Len Simmons, Bill Ruby and Bob McCree.

Seagram Collection On Display Sunday

The Seagram art collection, "Cities of Canada," will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m. Sunday at the Crystal Garden, district representative Malcolm Gillespie said today.

Sunday's showing will mark the end of the Victoria run, which had attracted 5,600 spectators up to Friday.

His subject will be "Some Developments in U.S. Higher Education." An Oxford graduate, he was director of the Canadian Information Service from 1945 to 1947.

Police Dispute To Arbitration In Few Weeks

A wage dispute between city police commission and Victoria Federal Police Union (TLC) is expected to go to arbitration in late March or early April.

Arbitration proceedings were recommended following meetings by the two groups with a conciliation officer.

The union asked a 10 per cent wage increase, while the commission countered with a proposed 5 per cent pay reduction.

Other demands, including provision of a Rand formula, a $3,000 group insurance scheme and clarification of other contract terms, have been settled.

Rand formula would require payment of union dues by policemen whether union members or not.

Group insurance plan will provide benefits in event of death or permanent disability.

Saanich Planning Road, Sidewalk Work

Saanich is expected to approve the 1955 public works program next week, including improvement to roads and sidewalks in the municipality.

A list of projects to be undertaken this summer is now being prepared by municipal engineer H. D. Dawson, Clr. George Austin, chairman of the public works committee, said today.

He said the committee will meet next week to approve the list of projects.

Under consideration is a plan to widen Cadboro Bay Road, from Hibbens Close at the Oak Bay boundary, to the intersection of Telegraph Bay. The distance is about three quarters of a mile.

Road improvements to Wilkinson, between Colquitz store and Burnside Road, may also be undertaken this year, it was learned.

The program may also include the construction of a number of sidewalks near schools which parents have been urging council to carry out as a safeguard against accidents, but it was pointed out such projects will depend on the size of the budget approved by council.

Last year Saanich was unable to complete its public works program due to lack of funds.

Police, Firemen Settle Dispute With Esquimalt

Full agreement on wage negotiations between Esquimalt municipality and the combined police and fire department has been reached, it was announced today by Reeve A. C. Wurtele.

Police, who have been paid $20 a month in the past for assisting at fires, now have the $20 plus another $5 incorporated into their pay.

A stumbling block in the wage talks, rank and pay of two senior constables, has been overcome. They will be known as constables first class "A" and have accepted the new wage scale as satisfactory, the reeve said.

Red Cross Drive Aided by Forces

Donations by members of the army and navy were held responsible for boosting Red Cross campaign total to $6,000 at noon today. Officials pointed out that receipts are bigger and coming in faster than at the same date last year.

The month-long drive employs about 600 volunteer canvassers and seeks to raise $74,000 by the end of March.

Disabled Here Benefit From Pensions Bill

Totally and permanently disabled persons in B.C. will receive $40 a month pensions, and the same bonuses distributed to old age pensions under a bill given second reading in the Legislature Friday.

The federal and provincial governments will share the cost of the pension, while the B.C. government will extend bonuses, doctor bills, drug purchases and BCHIS co-insurance.

The amount of the bonus is based on a means test, with a maximum of $15. Health Minister Eric Martin said regulations governing award of the pensions are so strict practically every person eligible will receive the full bonus. He said "only a few hundred" B.C. disabled persons are qualified.

Blitz Blaze Destroys Island Mill

Spark From Torch Starts $60,000 Fire

A spark from an electric welding torch today started a fire at the Extension Lumber Co. Ltd. sawmill, six miles south of Nanaimo, that destroyed the $60,000 mill in a matter of minutes.

"It practically exploded right in our faces," Andrew Vanger, owner and operator, told the Times by telephone today.

Both Harewood and Chase River volunteer fire departments rushed to the scene, but were able to do nothing.

Mr. Vanger said the mill had been shut down all week, and a modernization program was just being finished today by himself and a six-man crew when the fire broke out.

"We would have been ready to start work Monday," he said.

Operator of the welder was his brother-in-law, Vincent Senini, a Nanaimo mechanic. The sparks ignited dry sawdust, and before the crew could take action the blaze was beyond control.

PARTLY INSURED

The mill was partly covered by insurance. Mr. Vanger was undecided today as to whether he would rebuild.

Mr. Vanger, for many years manager of the now-dissolved Frank Beban Lumber Company of Nanaimo, built the mill eight years ago. It employed 30 men, most of them from the village of Extension, and produced 50,000 board feet of lumber in an eight-hour shift.

The mill was the chief economic support of the former coal mining village of about 200 population, set some three miles west of the Trans-Canada Highway.

FEW VOTING IN ESQUIMALT BY-ELECTION

A light turnout of voters in Esquimalt's council by-election was reported by returning officer James G. Elrick at noon.

Only 75 out of 3,116 voters had appeared at the two polls up to that time.

Polls close at 8 tonight.

Candidates for office are Benjamin Caley, Arthur Fields and Ralph Meakes. The election was caused by resignation of Clr. G. R. Guillemaud, who was disqualified from holding office after he sold his Esquimalt home.

Goodwill Tour To Boost City

A positive move to build up the tourist trade for Vancouver Island will be undertaken in May by a Victoria Chamber of Commerce "goodwill" tour of Washington State.

A caravan of 20 cars, carrying from the Victoria C of C and up-island chambers will leave here May 16 for a tour unique in chamber history.

Goodwill tours have been held by the chamber the last five years, but this is the first time such an event has been projected into the United States.

Theme of the tour will be "from island empire to inland empire." Chamber secretary Cy Porter, with members Max Zabel and Dave Nairne have just returned from week-long "dry run" of the proposed route, which will include Mount Vernon, Wenatchee, Grand Coulee, Spokane, Walla Walla, Yakima, the state capital Olympia and Seattle.

The tour is timed to tie in with the Spokane "Lilac Festival," at which chamber members hope to obtain a tip on how to popularize a similar show in Victoria.

Last year the Victoria chamber held a widely-noted "daffodil tour" of western cities, at which daffodils were dropped from the skies via plane.

On the forthcoming tour, chamber members will meet with their counterparts in the cities visited, and make a strong attempt to "sell" the tourist potentials of this area to their next-door neighbors.

Condition Improves

Condition of a 50-year-old waterfront worker, whose skull was fractured in a fall Friday into icy water at Ogden Point today was reported as "fairly good."

Paul Miskuline, 566 Bay Street, was unloading scrap metal from a barge at a Wagner, Stein & Greene Co. wharf when he toppled into the water, striking his head on a bumper log.

Weather Sends Unemployment Figures Soaring

Snow and cold during the past week sent Victoria's unemployment figure—on the decrease since last month—soaring again, according to C. A. Mudge, manager of the National Employment office here.

The cold spell Mr. Mudge said brought a number of businesses to a standstill and slowed down work of some industries. A number of persons who were also expected to start work Monday were unable to do so due to weather conditions, he added.

The weather chiefly affected the logging and construction trades, he said.

Mr. Mudge said, however, the employment picture is expected to change forthe better as soon as normal, weather returns.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Will you please tell me when France is due for its next general election? G.C.

A.—In 1956. The last election was held in 1951. The term of a parliament in France is five years, being a fixed period, as is the term of four years of U.S. Congress. There is a proviso, however, which may bring an election sooner than the five years. This provides that if, after it has been in power eighteen months, a government suffers two votes of no confidence within a period of 18 months a general election comes on automatically. That position has not occurred since the creation of the present constitution (the Fourth Republic).

Q.—Is the Dead Sea below sea level? H.T.W.

A.—Yes, that lake in Palestine, whose seasonal surface variation is 10 to 15 feet, lies about 1,300 feet below the level of the Mediterranean and is the lowest sheet of water on the earth's crust.

City Electricians Warv Of Lighting Change-Over

Civic electrical workers are expected to protest any move by city council to turn street light maintenance over to a mainland firm.

The Times learned Friday such a move is under consideration.

According to members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (TLC), if men employed by the city are transferred to a private contracting firm, they will lose city benefits, including superannuation.

One electrician said the men doubted the change would save the city any money.

"A private contractor is in it for profit."

Charles Peck, business agent for the union, refused to comment on the matter. He said he had just returned from an out-of-town trip and is not familiar with the subject. It has not been decided whether the union will approach the city.

The firm dickering with the city reportedly promises to cut the annual $75,000 street lighting bill by as much as $15,000.

Transfer of the job would mean transfer of a majority of the city electrical crew to the private firm.

Franciscan Memorial For Nootka

$60,000 Stone Church to Honor Spanish Missionaries of 1790

The government of Spain is interested in a new project to establish a memorial Roman Catholic Church at Nootka, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, the Times learned today.

Spanish ambassador to Canada, Mariano de Yturralde, has informed his government of the intention of the Diocese of Victoria—which includes Vancouver Island—to make the proposed church a memorial to the early Spanish Franciscan missionaries who were there as early as 1790.

His Excellency has intimated his government is "deeply interested" and there is a possibility some Spanish art treasures may be donated to the church once it is completed.

TREASURED DOCUMENT

One of the most treasured documents which will be placed in the church is a rare parchment written personally by Saint Pius X—First World War pope recently canonized—dated April 23, 1908, in which he conveyed apostolic blessing to Indian chiefs and their families at Nootka.

The Franciscan friars, founded by the gentle St. Francis of Assiasi in the 1200s, came up here from California and were the first missionaries to bring Christianity to the Indians in B.C.

Among these missionaries was Father Magin Catala, the holy man of Santa Clara, who after his labors at Nootka returned to California where today his memory is venerated because of holiness of life and charity. Catala Sound on the west coast of Vancouver Island and a coastal steamer bear his name.

INDIANS LEFT TOO

Tradition has it that when the good father had to leave, the Indians of Nootka were so disappointed that many left with him for California.

The previous Roman Catholic Church at Nootka, St. Michael's, was destroyed by fire a little more than a year ago.

As plans for the new church are being finalized, funds for the memorial church are being collected through generosity of many interested in the project. To date $25,000 has been subscribed, including a generous grant from the Canadian Catholic Conference, a donation of $3,000 from the Catholic Church Extension Society, and a gift of $5,000 from Bishop John C. Cody of London, Ont., a former bishop of the Victoria diocese.

Estimated cost of the memorial church is $60,000. It will be of stone, as was the first church built more than a century and a half ago.

Canadian Evangelist Has Wide TV Audience

'Chuck' Templeton, Once Newspaperman, Reaches Unchurched Through New Medium

NEW YORK (CP)—The Bible-thumping, fire-and-brimstone kind of old-time evangelism holds little appeal for Charles Templeton.

Templeton, once a Toronto sports cartoonist, is director of evangelism for the Presbyterian Church in the United States, which has 3,500,000 members.

Instead of the urgent, repent-or-be-damned approach used by some of his evangelist colleagues, he preaches the easy blending of religion with everyday life.

"If it's not concerned with everyday life, it isn't Christianity," says the handsome 39-year-old Templeton. "It's just pious nonsense."

TEEN-AGE SHOW

Templeton has been carrying his message right into the family living room. Until this week he was on the Sunday morning TV show "Look Up and Live," a half-hour program for teenagers. The semi-religious show features hit songs, music and frequently guest personalities. Templeton's part was a 10-minute illustrated lecture.

The evangelist says he thinks this type of program has far more influence on non-churchgoers than the mere televising of religious services, which he feels have "little reach beyond those who already have religion."

"Our show was specifically designed for those who don't go to church," he explained in an interview. "And in the United States today 70,000,000 people of a population of 160,000,000 don't belong to any church. On any given Sunday between 135,000,000 and 140,000,000 do not attend services."

"Chuck," a hefty six-footer, recently turned out a volume called "Life Looks Up," a collection of 14 sermons whose title was inspired by the TV series.

CANADIAN RALLIES

Last year Templeton's rallies attracted more than 1,000,000 people, including 90,000 in a week at Edmonton and 80,000 in Vancouver.

In Sydney, N.S., a few years ago a bootlegger was so moved by Templeton's words that he left the meeting and pitched his entire stock of bootleg whisky into Sydney harbor.

Templeton has often been compared with his evangelist friend Billy Graham, with whom he made a 10-country European tour in 1945.

28-Year-Old AYPA Head To High Post

Ligterwood Heads Church Accounting

By W. S. HENDERSON

The General Synod of the Anglican Church in Canada soon will have a chief accountant who is only 28 years of age. John R. Lugterwood on April 1 will take over that important post, created by the church's supreme body at its last triennial session.

The establishment of the office is one step in a wide reorganization which is introducing new methods and fully modernizing the business affairs of a growing church which is spread over the 3,843,410 square miles of Canada and includes archdioceses, dioceses and mission fields stretching from the U.S. border and Newfoundland to north of the Arctic Circle.

The treasurer of the General Synod is elected by that body, and it is regarded as a post of high honor, which by custom is filled by a man of national prominence in the finance world of Canada.

HEADS YOUTH

In addition to his General Synod post, Mr. Ligterwood, a chartered accountant, has a distinction which makes him unique. He is national president of the Anglican Young People's Association, the organization in which some half century ago were merged the variously-named young men's and young women's societies scattered across the country. In its elections the Christ Church Cathedral branch here and the branches in all parish churches of Vancouver Island take their share.

Men's Guild to Hear Famous Traveler

Guest speaker at a meeting of St. Mary's, Oak Bay, Men's Guild Thursday at 8 p.m. will be Col. George Rickard, a world traveler. He will give an illustrated talk on Central Africa, of which country he is a recognized authority. The meeting will be held in the Parish Hall, Yale Street.

ON RELIGIOUS THEMES

United Church Young People Bid for B.C. Drama Award

Victoria United Church young people's groups will make a determined bid to carry off B.C. conference religious drama award honors late this month.

In a preliminary to the province-wide festival, a Victoria drama festival for YPU groups will be held at St. Aidan's United Church Hall March 14 and 15. Winner here will go to Vancouver for the B.C. festival on March 26.

Programs will start at 8 each night, and the adjudicator will be Mrs. J. Chadwick of the community programs branch of the education department.

On Monday, Metropolitan group will present "The Challenge of the Cross," and St. Aidan's will stage "The Man Who played Judas."

"Babousca," by Fairfield representatives, and "The Highway," by the Malahat Young People's Fellowship, will be on Tuesday's program.

David Mar will be vocalist each night.

In charge of arrangements are Jean Manly, Muriel Lee, Lorne Clerihue and Ferne Rath.

INTERDENOMINATIONAL YP COMMITTEE FORMED

Barbara Oliphant, of Fairfield United Church young people, has been elected chairman of a city interdemoninational young peoples' committee which will co-ordinate youth group work here.

Primary purpose of the committee will be liaison between churches and to assist in program planning, particularly where programming appears to warrant interdenominational participation.

Women of interest to

Team Work...at Union College

When a man goes to Union College of British Columbia to study for the ministry, his wife or sweetheart takes special classes too. That's because the wife's role "is possibly more important in the ministry than in any other profession," says Dr. W. S. Taylor, principal. The women don't actually go to school. They belong to the Co-Theo Club, so-called because their husbands or fiances are theologues, the term applied to student pastors. The purpose of the club is three-fold: To give the women fellowship, a close look at theology and to help them learn the duties they will face as ministers' wives.

On this page today is featured a group of Victoria men attending Union College. Three of them are married.

BILL CUNNINGHAM
Vancouver, B.C.

Victorians enrolled at Union College included, left to right, Grant Bracewell, third-year theology; Fred Anderson, second-year theology; Geoff Lester, third-year Arts; Art Anderson third-year Arts and in front, Bill Van Druten, second-year theology.

Mrs. Fred Anderson (Jean to her friends), knows that a minister's wife must be prepared to take a leading role in community activities and helping others with personal problems when her husband, at right, is called to his first church. At present she is a teacher at the Provincial Deaf and Blind School in Vancouver. Brother-in-law, Art Anderson, centre, is also going in for the ministry. Both young men are sons of Dr. and Mrs. J. Murray Anderson, 2786 Heron Street. Mrs. Anderson's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Paterson, Lincoln Road.

The 20 members of the Co-Theo Club also sit in on informal discussions of theology with their husbands and fiances and this, too, helps them to acquire the background necessary to their future careers.

But Dr. Taylor says the married couples should be able to live together at the college on the UBC campus.

"One of our big problems is to find enough time for the theologues to take part in informal discussions about their work and theology.

"This is a most important part of their training, but when a man's home is away from the college, it is hard to find enough time for this."

That's why the college is currently campaigning for funds. One of the objectives to be realized is quarters for married students.

All but one of the women in the club are married, five of them have families—two with three children each and three with two children each.

The husbands of the latter had successful careers in other lines before deciding to enter the ministry. As students, their income is drastically reduced, which poses additional problems for the women.

But Mrs. Taylor, wife of the principal, says they are "all very wonderful" about helping their husbands in their new life's work.

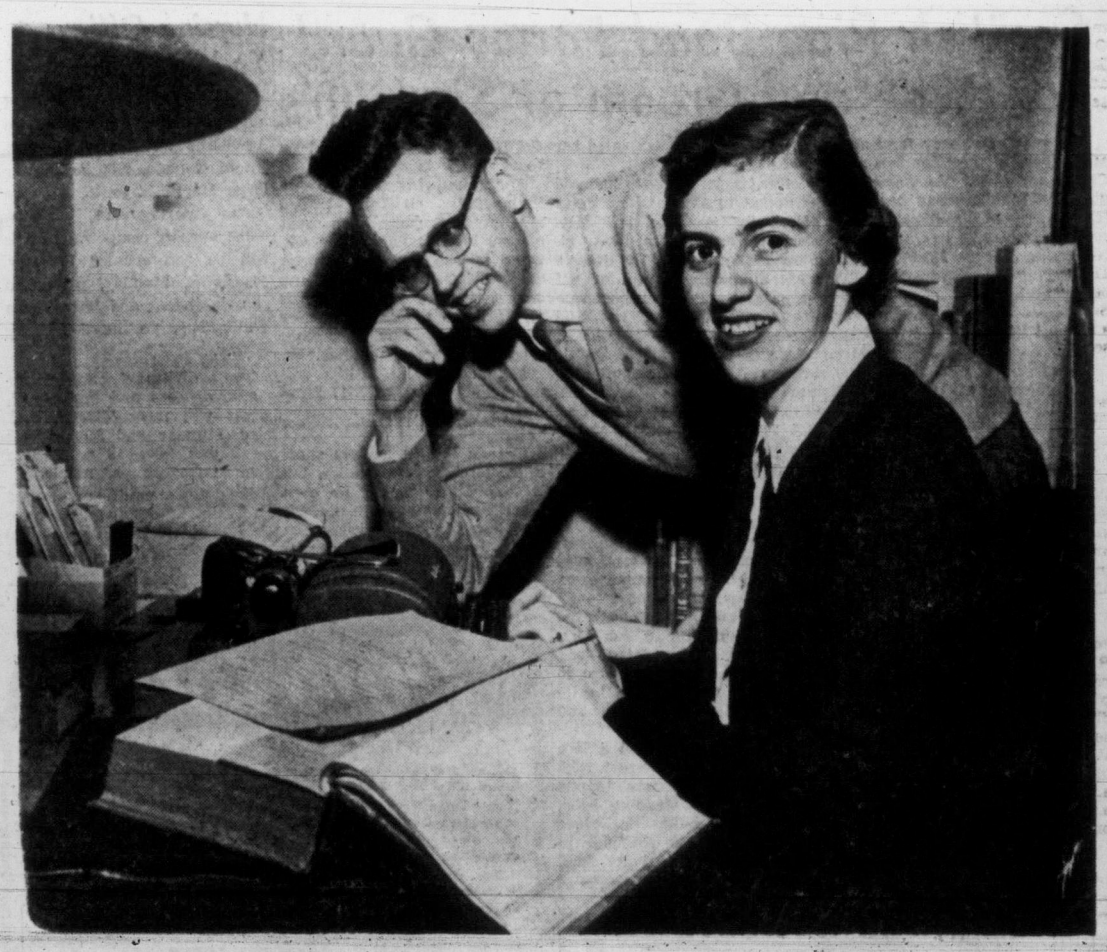
Mrs. Bill Van Druten (Lorna) is kept busy caring for the needs of her family yet she also finds time for Co-Theo Club meetings where she is preparing for the wide field of activity she will enter when he husband is ordained. Here, the whole family is doing homework. Left to right, Janet, 10; Father Bill; Gail, 13, and Mother Lorna. Mr. Van Druten is a son of Mrs. A. Van Druten, 857 McClure Street.



Attending Union College is definitely a fifty-fifty proposition with Mr. and Mrs. Grant Bracewell. He attends classes during the day while she works as a dietician at Vancouver General Hospital. At night they both work on his thesis. Mr. Bracewell's parents are Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Bracewell, 121 Howe Street.

SHOPPING GUIDE

New Belts Tie in With Spring Color Schemes

By PENNY SAVER

Snow or no snow, let's keep in mind our thoughts of Easter outfits. Only 36 days away . . . not really very long when you think about the little details to be finished in your new outfit. For instance, have you thought about a posh new belt to tie in with your favorite color scheme? You can't find one to match? Well, come along with me and I'll show you something to make you beam, fashion-wise.

Right through the door, and into a wonderful little shop that has a wealth of wonderful leather "finishing touches." Made-to-order belts and bags are yours for such reasonable prices that you'll hardly believe it.

How about matching your snake-skin shoes with a flattering pony-belt? These have twin buckles and are shaped to the contour of your own waist. They cost $6.50 each . . . and are durable and artistically made. The expert craftsmanship that goes into each article makes it worth far more than the price you pay.

Other pony-belts in colors to match your purses and shoes are also made especially for you for $3.75. Imagine a soft, pliable wedgewood blue belt to match the new spring shoes and bags . . . or perhaps that lovely sunny yellow or petal pink! The baby calf that goes into the belts is available in all the wonderful shoe colors, and you can have more than one color in a belt, to give your ensemble that "tailored just for you" look.

If you're curious (like I was) you can peek into the back room and see the rolls and rolls of leather in colors that tempt you to have dozens of things made.

* * *

Don't think, though, that only leathers are featured here, 'cause you should see the fascinating and tempting pieces of copperwork displayed on the walls and showcases! A pounded copper picture set measuring about 10 inches by 12 inches has a modern wood frame that will blend with the natural wood look so popular in Victoria homes. The set costs $6.50, and is made locally.

For something pleasingly different I think you'd really love the pounded copper wood basket I saw. For $14.95, you can have a wood basket that will be the focal point of the living room . . . no more eyesore messy boxes.

Even for "just browsing," this store is one of the "little wonders" of our city that so many people miss in their regular tours.

Coffee Frost. The shade of coffee with rich cream. Troylings tailored pump with one button and narrow white piping on the vamp emphasizing the longer, more-pointed effect. The bucket-type Madamoiselle handbag with its leather string straps is a perfect compliment to the pumps.

Foretells an April Wedding

The engagement is announced of Miss Lois "June" Blaus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blaus, 3680 Elliston Avenue, and Mr. Brian David Peddlesden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Peddlesden, 1048 Inverness Avenue. The wedding will take place on Saturday, April 9, in Centennial United Church. Miss Blaus has chosen her sister, Miss Fay Blaus, as maid of honor; Miss Colleen Bundock and Miss Cheryl Shea as bridesmaids, and Cheryl Patterson, flower girl. The groom-elect's brother, Mr. Michael Peddlesden, will be best man and the ushers, Mr. Lyle Blaus, brother of the bride-elect, and Mr. Lloyd McBratney. (Photos by HBC.)

Vows, Rings Exchanged At Evening Ceremony

At a ceremony Friday evening in St. Paul's Church, Esquimalt, Flora Charlene Fennell and Bryan Ivan Sweeney were married.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. E. A. Hunt, 732 Cormorant Street, and the late H. G. Fennell, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Sweeney, 951 Craigflower Road. The bridal couple exchanged vows and rings, with Rev. J. A. Roberts officiating. T. R. Myers played traditional wedding music. E. A. Hunt gave his step-daughter in marriage.

A delicate Honiton lace-over-satin gown, with a strapless bodice and full skirt extending into a slight train, was chosen by the charming bride. A jacket of matching lace featuring a Medici collar and long sleeves tapering delicately into lily points at the wrists was worn with the gown, while a French mist net shoulder veil was caught by a satin headdress. Red roses with white hyacinth made up the cascade bridal bouquet.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Frank Mitchell, chose a blue lace-over-taffeta gown with matching jacket and headdress. Yellow spring flowers were fashioned into her colonial bouquet. Bridesmaid, Miss Beverley Sweeney, sister of the groom, chose a similarly-styled gown in yellow and wore matching jacket and headdress. Her colonial bouquet was of blue spring flowers.

Best man was James Swindell, and Harold Robinson and Roger Windle acted as ushers.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at 802 Esquimalt Road, where Mrs. Hunt, in a navy taffeta and gray lace gown, with navy accessories and pink carnation corsage, and Mrs. Sweeney in a silver grey silk dress with black accessories and pink carnation corsage, assisted the bridal couple in receiving guests.

Tables were arranged in an arch with the bride's table covered with a pink and white crocheted tablecloth, made by the mother of the groom. A three-tier cake, flanked by white candles and spring flowers, centred the table. Major R. B. Mainprize, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast.

Travelling on honeymoon up-Island, the bride chose a navy and white brocaded dress with a short fur jacket and black accessories. She wore a white gardenia and feathered white carnation corsage. Upon return, Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney will live at 935 Craigflower Road.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Major and Mrs. R. B. Mainprize, Vedder Crossing, and Mrs. P. A. Fassbinder, Seattle, Wash.

In Step With Style

By NONA DAMASKE

One of the first harbingers of spring—even ahead of the robins and the daffodils—are new spring suits and leather shoes and handbags that go with them. Admittedly, this line of thought is somewhat difficult to accept when you are tramping around in overboots, but once inside the snugly warm shop and surrounded by smart new footwear, you'll be carried away with thoughts of fine days to come.

Nona

This year, co-ordination between spring suits and shoes will be a simple matter because of the scores of new leather colors that are showing up in shoes and handbags. Avocado green, for instance, was shown last spring in limited quantities, but this year it is very much in the foreground. I saw a smart closed toe and heel pump in this shade with cut leather tassle trim and white saddle stiching. Of course, there was a matching handbag.

There is a smattering of red and the always acceptable navy. Coffee Frost, Taffy, and the light tan shades will be followed just before Easter by a new pale Champagne tint that will be a really versatile shade with summer prints. The linens and shantugs will arrive in time for Easter, too.

There are one or two changes in style—the longer vamp silhouette is pointedly part of the longer, leaner spring look. There are a few new models with four-inch narrow heels, but we still have the wonderfully comfortable Louis heel, which is narrow and dressy but only 1½ to 2 inches in height.

Opera pumps versus sandals this spring? There is no argument. Both belong. The pump still stands as the perfect shoe for suits, for day, for town—but for late day, dinner, for later on when the weather warms up a bit, the sandal takes over.

Handbags range from a six-inch flat envelope to suitcase size squares, pouches and totes. Most of them carry no decoration—the glowing colors and textures of the calfs, smooth kids and patents are their own adornment. Leathers are lightweight and supple.

Regular polishing of your leather shoes will enhance their appearance and prolong their life. Look to your lifts; never let them become rundown. From the point of view of both appearance and comfort, it's unwise to use discarded and ill-fitting shoes for your morning chores. When you are working is the time that your feet need the best support you can give them.

I saw a delightful variety of all-leather walking shoes which were trim and smart. The word "walking shoe" tends to bring visions of ugly heavy styles, but that is no longer true.

When you are on a shoe shopping excursion be sure you have plenty of time, as a carefully fitted shoe can be the difference between joy and agony.

THE QUESTION BOX—Dear F.L.: I think a traveling iron is a wonderful gift for a bride. She can make use of it on her honeymoon and for many years to come when she and her husband enjoy their annual vacation. It is an item that many a person would like to have.

Dark-fire patent, the most talked about item for wear right now. Grenada of New York designed this low-cut shell pump in calf patent. A line which could have been harsh is softened by draping the patent to one side of the vamp. The handbag by Madamoiselle of New York is plastic patent and features the new elongated lean look.

They still say the hand is quicker than the eye, and decorating tricks prove the old axiom, according to experts of a sewing institute. The proper color and style can add a great deal to a room—even draperies correct faulty proportions of the windows. Narrow windows appear wider when drapes are attached to the side frames rather than over the windows. Or, if the window is too wide, use a vertically-striped fabric which will make the drape and the window look taller and narrower.

Skiing Honeymoon at Banff For Mr. and Mrs. R. Greiner

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Greiner left Victoria for a honeymoon skiing in the mountains at Banff, following their wedding last night at St. John's Anglican Church. The bride chose a heather green tweed topcoat over a winter white wool dress and green and white accessories for the journey.

Elizabeth Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Laubach, 202 St. Charles Street, entered the church on the arm of her father, to exchange vows with the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Greiner of Haag, Austria. Her floor-length gown was of white brocade, fashioned with full skirt, the halter decolletage topped with a fitted jacket. Misting her gown to the hemline was a delicate veil flowing from a pearl-encrusted headdress. She carried an arm bouquet of white orchids and freesias.

Canon George Biddle was officiating clergyman and organ music was played by Frederick Chubb. Beautiful arrangements of white spring flowers decorated the church.

Attending her sister was Miss Margaret Laubach. She wore a lovely full-skirted gown of silver-grey brocade patterned in a silver and yellow design, the bodice featuring a square neckline in front, descending into a deep V at the back. Her arm bouquet was of yellow and white carnations and freesias. Little Joan Parry, as flower girl, wore a soft green taffeta frock with net overskirt and carried a basket of yellow and white flowers to match the circlet she wore in her hair. William Weis was best man and ushers were William Laubach, brother of the bride, and Adi Kuhnel.

A reception was held at the Blue Room where the bride's table was centred with a three-tier cake, flanked with spring flowers. A. C. Hope proposed the toast to the bride.

Guests at the wedding from out-of-town points were Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Andrews and Miss M. Andrews, of Vancouver; Mr. Mrs. Hope, Fort Langley, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Clarke, Comox.

Scottish Pipe Band Forms Guard For Bride and Groom at St. John's

A guard of honor formed by members of the Canadian Scottish (Princess Mary's) Regimental Pipe Band, to which the groom belongs, made a colorful note as Mr. and Mrs. Karl Alan Griffiths left St. John's Church following their wedding, Friday evening.

Canon George Biddle performed the ceremony for Rosemary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Keiser, 333 Stewart Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. K. R. Griffiths, Duncan. Tall baskets of pastel shaded spring flowers were placed at the altar, and clusters of mauve heather marked guest pews. Miss Lois Burns sang "O Perfect Love" during signing of the register.

A gown of ivory satin and lace was worn by the bride, who was given in marriage by her father. Lace, scattered with seed pearls in a delicate embroidered, formed yoke, graceful stand-up collar and centre panel descending to the floor, over which the full satin skirt split in scalloped lines. Narrow sleeves terminated in lily points over the wrists. The matching lace finger-tip veil flared from a coronet of nylon net and satin set with rhinestones. A strand of pearls, gift of the groom, and a colonial bouquet of pink rosebuds and lily of the valley, completed her ensemble.

Miss Marjorie Smyth as maid of honor, in mauve; Mrs. Peter Deval, in turquoise, and Miss Sandra Cameron in pink, attended the bride. All dresses were similarily styled, of net over taffeta. They wore bandeaux of matching net and flowers and carried colonial bouquets en tone. The bride's brother, Alec acted as best man and ushers were Dave McGregor and Gordon Cameron.

A reception was held at the Business and Professional Women's club room. Assisting in receiving guests were Mrs. Keiser, wearing a dress of pale turquoise with black accessories and pink rosebud corsage, and Mrs. Isaac Smith, wearing blue with yellow rosebud corsage.

Mrs. Smith, aunt of the groom, stood proxy for Mrs. Griffiths, and Mrs. Deval took Miss Allene Griffith's place in the bridal retinue, due to illness of the groom's mother and sister.

A table covered with a lace cloth held the three-tier wedding cake which was topped with doves and wedding bells. Tall white candles in silver holders with pink rosebuds in crystal vases flanked the cake. Gordon McKay proposed a toast to the bride.

For a motoring trip in Washington, Mrs. Griffiths donned a tailored two-piece linen dress of tan, brown and white fleck. Over it she wore a shortie coat of tweed in matching colors, styled with bell sleeves and full back. Her accessories were light brown and she wore a corsage of green orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Griffiths will make their home at 3247 Irma Street, Victoria.

Canada is still acutely short of hospital accommodation but this condition would be even more serious were it not for t ehhome nursing care provided by the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Gail Nivens Wed Friday

First United Church was scene of a double-ring ceremony Friday night when Arlene Gail, daughter of Mrs. Honor V. Nivens, 1001 North Park Street, and O. M. Nivens, Vancouver, exchanged nuptial vows with Earl Bryant Tannock, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Tannock, 2008 Fernwood Road.

Daffodils, tulips and pink blossom, filled the church with a fragrance of spring as Rev. Moir A. M. Waters performed the service. Organ music was played by Mrs. J. Roberto Wood and during signing of the register, Miss Deanna Johnson sang "I'll Walk Beside You."

The bride walked up the aisle on the arm of H. G. Young and was given in marriage by her mother. She wore a floor length gown of white satin with full skirt, scalloped lace yoke featuring a round neck and lace lily-point sleeves. Her finger-tip veil of illusion net bordered with lace, filmed from a headdress of orange blossom. For something old she wore a small gold locket and her earrings were tiny gold crosses. She carried a white Bible showered with streamers, red rosebuds and hyacinth.

TWO ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Elward Beines, sister of the groom, was matron of honor, wearing a ballerina length gown in pale yellow taffeta and net with headdress of yellow flowers. Bridesmaid was Miss Heather Nivens. Her pale mauve gown was of taffeta with net and lace and she wore a headdress of mauve flowers.

Ronald G. Walker was best man and Donald De Man and Ronald Beines ushered guests to pews marked with tulle bows.

The young couple received guests at a reception at Orange Hall, where they were assisted by Mrs. Nivens, who had chosen a pink rosebud printed navy blue two-piece dress, pink accessories and pink rose corsage, and the groom's mother, wearing a pale pink dress with lace inserts, black accessories and corsage of gardenias and pink rosebuds.

Daffodils and tulips with white candles in silver candelabra decorated the bride's table, which was centred with a three-tier cake adorned with pink rosebuds and white doves. H. G. Young proposed a toast to the bride.

Leaving for a honeymoon on the United States mainland, Mrs. Tannock wore a light yellow suit, biege accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The couple will make their future home at 2630 Quadra Street.

Life Member

Miss Helen May Williams received a diocesan life membership, "in appreciation and recognition of faithful service of many years," at meeting of the Afternoon Branch of Woman's Auxiliary of St. Andrew's and Holy Trinity Church, Sidney, B.C. Mrs. R. O. Taylor, president of the diocesan board and a Dominion life member, conducted the service and presented the framed certificate. Mrs. Harold Payne, a former president of the branch, handed the gold Winchester cross badge to Mrs. Hazlehurst, who pinned it on Miss Williams. Mrs. G. Elmer John then presented her with a bouquet of carnations and daffodils on behalf of the branch.

Annual Tea

RIDDEN BY WANDERLUST

Adventurous 17-Year-Old Girl Skins Bear, Wrangles Horses in Northern B.C.

By TERRY FRENCH

The fact that she may have been one of the first white women to ascend the Nation River in northern British Columbia doesn't seem to ruffle one hair of 17-year-old Janet Chapman's head.

She doesn't blink an eyelash when she tells you that she rode in Fort St. John's first stampede. Nor when she adds that she hired out as a horse wrangler and assistant cook on a bear and moose hunting expedition. And that she actually cleaned the hide of one of the bears.

Even when she was attending Ottawa's exclusive Elmwood School for Girls, she wanted to "go west." When she graduated, that's just what she did, with the aid of Mrs. George Murray, owner-editor of Fort St. John's Alaska Highway News who said, after she heard of Janet through a mutual friend, "Send her along."

Within days, Janet was in Fort St. John working on the newspaper. Ten days later, she was invited to go on a geological expedition up the Peace River in a 42-foot inboard. The project was organized by Peter Antenenko and King Gething of Pacific Petroleum Company. There were seven people—three of them women.

"On this trip, our outfits were far from glamorous," Janet says. "To protect ourselves from oversize mosquitos and extreme cold, we wore bush boots with socks pulled up over the bottoms of our jeans, ski jackets with attached hoods pulled as far over our faces as possible. Even then the mosquitos found 'hunting places.'"

The party travelled up the Peace to the Parsnip and then up the Nation River, until they reached impassible falls. Although the Nation River was a main route for the Indians in that part of the country, it had never before been approached by inboard and by few white women—if any.

During this expedition—fishing, hunting fossils and gold panning—Janet got to be a real "outdoor girl." She cleaned fish, chopped wood for her own fire and slept outside in a sleeping bag.

When the party returned to Fort St. John, she found herself smack in the middle of that town's first full scale stampede. She rode in the stampede parade, herded cattle in chutes for the events and was a general helper around the corrals.

The inboard that transported Janet and six other adventurers up the Nation River. Janet (inset), is the daughter of Mr. C. Chapman, new manager of the Empress Hotel, and Mrs. Chapman.

Following the two days excitement, Janet was hired as helper at the R. C. Symon's ranch, 40 miles from Fort St. John. "Then I really started to work," she sighs.

It was haying season. One of her jobs was to tear about the fields flipping over 1,200 bales of hay every time it rained.

Ranchers and families in the district soon came to know the young lass who rode from house to house on her free days "just getting to know people and places." It wasn't long until Mr. and Mrs. Bud Southwick of a neighbouring ranch, invited her to "come along" on a hunting trip. Mrs. Southwick was to be cook. So, Janet left the Symon's ranch with $25 pay (the total of her summer's work), and set out with the guides to wrangle 11 horses, 60 miles to rendezvous with the hunting party.

One day during the hunt, Janet found herself with a job of cleaning the hide of a bear, because the hunter only wanted the skin. "I reeked of bear for a week," she said.

Once the hunting trip was over, the horses had to be returned to their original ranch, another 60 mile trip and Janet—all by herself—was picked to nurse them along.

Next move for this girl with a small case of wanderlust, was back to the Southwick's ranch for two weeks then to a teacherage in Cache Creek district.

When a TB unit came into the district to innoculate the cattle, she found herself "interviewing cows," and acting as bookkeeper-helper for the travelling veterinarian. Riding bareback with only a bridle, she rounded up cattle to be innoculated on the various ranches.

End of the summer saw her heading back to Ottawa, where she finally arrived in October. Now, she is in Victoria with her family, and taking a business course at Sprott-Shaw in preparation for college, where she plans to study journalism.

And if it's journalism she wants, that's what she'll get, for all who've met her agree that whether it's hunting bear, travelling on geological expeditions, herding cattle, writing stories—or even poetry (for which, her father whispers proudly, she has already won prizes) she'll accomplish what she sets out to do.

Mr. and Mrs. David Ferne Married This Afternoon in Oak Bay Church

Oak Bay United Church was scene of an attractive wedding this afternoon, when Margaret Emily Joy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Cryer, 2326 Oak Bay Avenue, became the bride of David Mortimer Ferne, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Ferne, 380 King George Terrace.

Cherry blossom, stock and daffodils filled the church with a spring fragrance as vows were exchanged before Rev. W. W. McPherson. Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. V. Barclay and guest pews were marked with spring flowers.

Wearing a gown of heavy ecru brocade, the bride entered the church on her father's arm. The slightly gathered bodice had a scalloped front-and-back-dipping neckline and three-quarter sleeves, and a fitted Empire waist accented the fullness of the seven-gore skirt. She carried a cascade bouquet of Talisman roses.

Miss Josephine Ellis was bridesmaid, wearing a full-skirted gown of orchid-mauve taffeta, the neckline emphasized with a taffeta ribbon in American Beauty which formed a large bow in the middle of the back. Her flowers were carnations in shades to tone with her frock. Best man was Neil Neufeld and James Cryer ushered.

A reception was held at Oak Bay Beach Hotel, where the young couple were assisted in receiving guests by Mrs. Cryer, wearing a powder blue suit with honey-biege hat and accessories and pink rose corsage, and Mrs. Ferne in lime green ensemble with matching accessories and pink corsage. Toast to the bride was proposed by Lionel Hartshorne.

For a honeymoon trip to Portland, Ore., Mrs. Ferne donned a light blue suit with navy hat and accessories and wore a pink corsage. Upon return Mr. and Mrs. Ferne will make their home at 1177 Esquimalt Road.

Record SC Budget Aids Alberta Schools

$12 Million Subsidy Boosts Education To 28% Share in $222 Million Outlay

EDMONTON (CP)—The cost of education will eat up almost one-third of the total record expenditures in Alberta's 1955-56 budget.

The golden jubilee budget, introduced in the legislature Friday by Treasurer C. E. Gerhart, who took over the portfolio two months ago, estimated expenditures at $222,963,072—$18,000,000 more than the 1954-55 budget, which itself was a record.

When Alberta became a province 50 years ago its total budget was $1,968,425, not much more than the amount now collected each year in amusement tax.

Revenues were estimated at a record $177,441,515. This is $20,000,000 more than in the budget brought down last March by Premier Manning, who had held the treasurer's post since 1945.

Mr. Gerhart budgeted for a deficit of $2,521,557, but statutory payments of $43,000,000 included in total expenditures, will mean the government will have to dip into accumulated surpluses to the tune of $45,521,557.

DEFICIT FORECAST

An overall deficit of $47,634,247 was forecast in last year's address but Mr. Gerhart said the deficit will probably be $18,000,000 when the fiscal year ends this month. The reason—a $24,000,000 increase in original estimates of oil revenues.

Slightly more than 42 per cent of estimated revenue will come from Alberta's rich natural resources but education will take 28 per cent, or $34,411,365, of the total expenditures.

Education appropriations represent an increase of $12,000,000 over the 1954-55 year, half the amount being taken to provide an education tax reduction subsidy.

The government hopes the subsidy would lighten the tax load on municipal ratepayers and make possible a more uniform school taxation rate throughout the province.

The grant will also stop rising education costs because requisitions this year must be less than in 1954 to qualify. The government will pay the difference between 25 mills and the 1954 requisition rate.

Another budget feature was the government's proposal to offer a new voluntary prepaid hospital services insurance plan to Alberta residents.

The government will pay one-third of the cost—$1,200,000 of the $23,111,900 health estimates.

The total public debt at Dec. 31, 1954, stood at $91,185,211, a reduction of $3,164,526 during the year and reflecting "the continued orderly reduction by the retirement of maturing debentures."

There were no tax changes in the budget. The treasurer said the increased revenue would be derived from the "orderly expansion of the economy" of the province.

'McTAVISH? LOSH, MON IT'S EXTINCT'

EDINBURGH (Reuters)—The Scots Ancestry Research Society said Friday it had totalled up the surnames of the highlanders and lowlanders—and found that Smiths lead all the rest.

Of the total 14,666 different surnames, the Smiths top the list with 80,000 persons bearing that name.

Macdonald and Brown are the next most common names. The Campbells and the Stewarts are seventh and eighth. The MacTavishes are way down the list.

The society said 80 years ago there were only 6,823 different surnames.

ON CABINET EXPENSES

CCF Leader Claims Members Obstructed

Opposition Leader Arnold Webster Friday charged public accounts committee chairman Herb Bruch (SC—Esquimalt) with obstructing committee members in their demands for information on government spending.

Mr. Webster told the legislature "there is a very strong impression the chairman is placing obstacles in the way of members, on information to which they are entitled."

The CCF leader's remarks followed a stormy Friday morning committee meeting, during which opposition members were thwarted in attempts to have tabled vouchers on the expense accounts of cabinet members.

"It is the committee's purpose to scrutinize the spending of money," said Mr. Webster. "I hope the chairman will give the fullest scope to members in future."

Mr. Bruch denied the charges.

"It seems to be the inference that the chairman tried to stifle information," he said. "That was not the case."

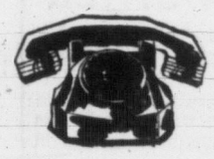
YOUR TELEPHONE COMPANY REPORTS—

More Done in '54 Than Ever Before!



MORE PHONES IN SERVICE

In 1954, the British Columbia Telephone Company broke all its previous telephone growth records by adding a total of 23,833 phones throughout its system. The company's next best year from the standpoint of telephone gain was 1953, when 21,555 phones were added.

MORE DOLLARS FOR EXPANSION

Expenditures on additions and improvements to facilities reached an all-time high of nearly $19,000,000 in 1954, as the company's big expansion program continued. These expenditures exceeded those of any previous year by approximately $3,500,000.

MORE CALLS HANDLED

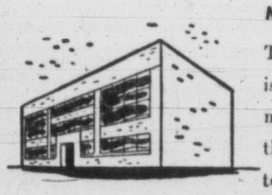
Your telephone company handled an average of almost 1,800,000 local telephone calls and more than 30,000 long distance calls during each business day in the year. These figures top 1953's records by more than 200,000 per day in the case of local calls, and more than 5,000 calls per day for long distance.

MORE PAYROLL DOLLARS

As one of B.C.'s major employers, with close to 6,000 employees, the telephone company paid out a record $16,261,907 in wages and salaries last year—a material contribution to the economy of communities throughout the province.

MORE MILES OF TELEPHONE WIRE

Enough telephone wire to go more than twice around the world! This is the record amount the B.C. Telephone Company added to its system last year in the form of aerial, underground and submarine cable, and open wire.



MORE PROJECTS AHEAD

The British Columbia Telephone Company is continuing its system-wide development program. At the present time, the company has underway projects totalling approximately $30,000,000.

AND WE'RE IN HIGH GEAR FOR THIS YEAR, TOO!

Market Climb Subject of Probe

Recent rises in the stock market are under study by the U.S. Senate banking committee, headed by Senator James Fulbright. This chart shows graphically, however, that market has enjoyed almost continuous climb since its 1942 low. Stock price index is based on monthly common stock averages of 480 different companies. Current situation is quite unlike that of 1929; volume of transactions is much smaller in relation to shares listed and there has been a shift from the individual toward the institutional investor, although lately there has been what some observers claim to be an alarming growth of speculative buying.

WEEK-END REVIEW

N.Y., Toronto Move to New Highs After Two Months of Uncertainty

By GEORGE LINTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Stock markets, after two months of uncertain movements, this week scored their greatest climbs of 1955.

The New York and Toronto markets started up from Monday's opening and recorded steady advances through the week. Price levels on both markets reached record highs.

The Toronto industrial index climbed almost five points to end the week on a record 386.61. At New York, the Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained $3.70 to a record $162.60. The average touched successive highs Tuesday through Friday.

Toronto brokers said local prices followed New York, where investors gained confidence from a statement of G. Keith Funston, New York Stock Exchange president, that the current record-level markets are sound.

Most-talked-about issue at Toronto was Brazilian Traction, trading a thumping 127,000 shares for a $1.12½ climb to $9.25. Most buying came from New York, brokers said.

Officials at the company's Toronto head office said they knew of no explanation for the activity and strength, but brokers advanced theories.

Some credited belief that Brazil may negotiate a new loan to offset exchange troubles, others rumor the country may encourage exploration by foreign oil companies.

VOLUME HEAVY

Lower-priced mines were active, pushing the week's volume to the heaviest in a month. Uraniums featured Algom ahead $2.75 to $21.50.

Noranda climbed $2.50 to $87.50 and other strong base metals were Hudson Bay, Steep Rock and East Sullivan.

Index gains: industrials 4.93 to a record 386.61, golds 1.05 to 84.99, base metals 4.34 to 169.50, and golds 1.83 to 107.76.

Montreal averages climbed, too. Papers jumped 22.07 to 1,200.56, utilities 2.2 to 122.5, and industrials 2.4 to 253.2, but banks dropped .23 to 48.68 and golds .01 to 70.37.

More Lumber Sold

VANCOUVER (CP) — Total of 62,812,000 board feet of B.C. lumber cleared this port for the U.K. during January.

This was a noticeable rise over previous monthly totals and was attributed to the availability of more freighters.

Total shipments from B.C. to all points during the month reached 140,894,000.

House Building Outpaces U.S. Family Growth

New York Bank Reports News Homes Outnumber New Families 3 to 2

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—Things were definitely on the upbeat this week in the United States' key areas of business.

Here's where you could spot the most impressive gains:

Consumer spending at retail, four to six per cent higher than a year ago.

Automobile production, significantly higher than the week before and just below the all-time peak.

Contracts awarded for heavy construction jobs, 58 per cent ahead of the year-ago rate.

Production and refining of crude oil — highest ever recorded.

Brisk demand for unfinished steel indicated a renewal of inventory building by major steel consumers. Output of the nation's steel mills hit 90 per cent of capacity for the second week in a row. Prices of iron ore moved up.

With practically all of the important business indicators pointing higher, the big question was: How long would it last?

Attention focussed on two main props—auto output and home building.

It was obvious that auto production—roaring along at nearly 9,000,000 cars a year—would eventually slacken. Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors, predicted the industry would build and sell 7,500,000 cars in the U.S. this year. Some called his figure optimistic.

The home building boom, with its huge payroll and its tremendous consumption of materials, came in for close scrutiny in the March letter of the National City Bank of New York.

The bank pointed out that new homes built in the three years ending last April—roughly 3,300,000—outnumbered new families formed in that period by about three-to-two. It also warned that funds available for investment in mortgages are no longer as plentiful as they were a few months back.

The stock market punched to all-time highs this week. And there was welcome news for stockholders from another quarter: government economists said cash dividends paid by publicly reporting corporations in January totalled $721,000,000—a gain of $32,000,000, or 4½ per cent, over the same month last year.

Vancouver Man Fined $75 for Issuing 'Money'

CLOVERDALE (CP)—A Vancouver man was fined $75 here Friday when he pleaded guilty to 15 counts laid under a section of the Criminal Code dealing with trading stamps.

Evidence showed that Mickey Carleton had conducted an advertising campaign Surrey area stores whereby buyers were given $2 in "funny money" for every $1 worth of goods purchased.

Later, other goods purchased by Carleton were auctioned for the "funny money."

Carleton, who was fined $5 on each of the 15 counts, said he was unaware that the scheme was illegal.

Senate Group May Call Walter Winchell

Fulbright Concerned About People Who Lost Money as a Result of Commentator's Hot Tip

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate investigators are studying about 20 "tip and rumor" cases where insiders apparently profited on the stock market at the expense of suckers, it was disclosed today.

Two of the cases, involving Pantepec Oil and Amurex Oil, were aired some Friday in the Senate banking committee's investigation of the sharp rise in stock prices in the past 18 months. Chairman William Fulbright (D-Ark.) said other cases are under study.

Fulbright said it has not been decided whether to call as a witness columist Walter Winchell who plugged the two oil company stocks in television broadcasts.

Following Winchell's Sunday night broadcast, brokers on the American Stock Exchange, New York, were deluged with orders from throughout the country to buy the stocks at the market opening Monday. As a result, prices of the two stocks shot up on the opening—Pantepec last month and Amurex in April, 1953.

But they soon went down and persons buying at the opening prices suffered losses — about $2,000,000 on Amurex stocks went down that much in 90 minutes after the company denied Winchell's report on its activities, Fulbright said.

The committee staff now is concentrating on the Pantepec case. Edward T. McCormick, president of the American Exchange, already has given the committee the names of some persons, and their brokers, dealing in the stock on the Monday following Winchell's telecast.

Russians To Build India Steel Plant

Soviet to Provide Plant and Key Personnel; India to Pay Off Debt Over 12-Year Period

BOMBAY (Reuters)—India hopes to be producing 6,000,000 tons of steel a year in 1962. Her present steel production is 1,300,000 tons.

India proposes to achieve this target by increasing the production of the existing three plants and by building three more. Two of these will be state-owned. Ownership of the third is yet to be determined.

One of the new plants is to be established at Rourkela, in the state of Orissa, by the German combine of Krupp & Demag. It is expected to be completed by 1958 and will have an initial production capacity of 500,000 tons, which will be stepped up to 1,000,000 tons.

The second plant will be in the Bhilai region of Madhya Pradesh, in central India. Russia has promised to supply the plant and technical assistance and an agreement to this effect was signed in New Delhi between the two countries in the first week of February. The entire plant is to be in operation by the end of 1959 but some of the main departments will be ready a year earlier.

BIGGEST TRADE DEAL

The agreement is the first of its kind between India and the Soviet Union and the biggest trade deal negotiated so far between the two countries. It is also the first major technical and economic aid for industrialization that the Soviet Union has extended to a non-Communist country.

This plant will have an initial capacity of 1,000,000 tons of ingots to be rolled into about 750,000 tons of rolled products. It may eventually be expanded to 1,000,000 tons of rolled products.

The plant and equipment to be supplied by the Soviet Union are to be paid for in 12 annual instalments, the rate of interest on the amount, outstanding each year being calculated at 2½ per cent.

Provision is made for the training of a sufficient number of Indian technicians, both in India and the Soviet Union, so that Indian personnel may man the plant to the maximum possible extent from the beginning.

The third plant will be constructed with British help. The government of India has accepted in principle an offer of assistance by the British Metallurgical Equipment Export Corporation and has asked the firm to send out a team of experts.

Simpsons Has Profit; Simpsons-Sears, Loss

TORONTO (CP) — Simpson, Ltd. and consolidated subsidiary companies had net profit for the year ended January 5, of $2,537,162, compared with $2,831,508 in the preceding year.

After addition of profit of $320,531 from sales of shares held in the employees' stock purchase plan, total profit was $2,857,693, or 95 cents a share on the common shares of which 50 cents a share was paid in dividends.

The consolidated statement of Simpsons-Sears, Ltd., and its subsidiary, Robert Simpson Pacific Ltd., shows loss for the year of $1,055,904, and, after decreast of $520,000 in the previous year's provision for income taxes, a net loss of $535,904. Net profit in the preceding year was $1,336,176.

The year's net loss was accompaning the annual report expenses incurred in new development, including store preopening costs.

Medicine Hat Plant to Cost $22 Million

MEDICINE HAT (CP) — Mayor Harry Veiner confirmed Friday that a $22,000,000 chemical plant will be built here.

Mayor Veiner said city council at a special closed meeting a week ago heard full details of the plan involving the city of Medicine Hat in a deal with New British Dominion Oil Co. for a future supply of natural gas.

The oil company will supply natural gas to the chemical plant.

New British Dominion will hold a 20-per-cent stock interest in Northwest Nitro-Chemicals Ltd. which will operate the plant, manufacturing and marketing high-analysis nitrogen and phosphate chemical fertilizers.

Cost of the plant is estimated at $16,000,000 with the other $6,000,000 representing cost of other capital needs such as the pipeline, water and power lines, land and sewage.

Gore Mutual Reports Record High Assets

Gore District Mutual Fire Insurance Company, one of Canada's oldest financial institutions, added $600,000 to its recorded assets during 1954 to set a new all-time high.

Assets at the year's end amounted to $6,985,274.

The company was chartered by the government of Upper Canada in 1837. The firm gets its name from Sir Francis Gore, who was governor-general at the time.

5 CARDS OF THANKS

Many thanks to those who have sent me letters and cards of sympathy, and others whom I know have expressions of thought and regret at the passing of one whose whole life (in spite of many handicaps) has been one of joy and happiness in doing all she could (where needed) for the welfare of others. May her soul rest in peace as a reward for a life's work well done. Many thanks to Canon Biddle, Archdeacon Cornish, Canon Downer and St. John's Choir, for the lovely service. — From her devoted husband, R. H. Hancox.

Mr Olaf Magnussen and the Donnett family wish to thank our many friends and relations for their kind expressions of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings, also thanks to Dr. F. N. Elliott and Sisters of St. Joseph's Hospital, Canon O. L Jull and Chaplin's Funeral Directors, during our late bereavement.

6 IN MEMORIAM

JOHNSON—In ever loving memory of a dear husband and father, William W. D. Johnson, who passed away March 5, 1954.

Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear.
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.

—Sadly missed by his loving wife, Edith, and children and grandchildren.

JOHNSON—In loving memory of Dad, William D. Johnson, who passed away March 5, 1954.

In our home he is fondly remembered,
Sweet memories cling to his name,
Those who loved him in life sincerely
Still love him in death just the same.

—Lovingly remembered by daughter Edith, son-in-law Bill and grandchildren, Janet, Edna, Edith and David Orr, Halifax, N.S.

PAINTER—In loving memory of our dear Mother and Nana, Lydia Florence Painter, who passed away March 5, 1950.

Her thoughts were all so full of us,
She never could forget,
And so we think that where she is
She must be watching yet.
As angels keep their watch up there,
Please, God, just let her know
That we down here do not forget.

—Always remembered by her loving daughter Lillian, granddaughter Carol Ann, and son-in-law Jack.

6 IN MEMORIAM

JOHNSON—In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Lieut. Cmdr. William D. Johnson (Ret.), who passed away March 5, 1954.

No one knows, dear father,
And words can never tell
How deep our grief and sorrow
For one we loved so well.

Your are not forgotten, father,
Nor ever will you be,
As long as life and memory lasts,
We will remember thee.

—Lovingly remembered by daughter Gladys, son-in-law David, and granddaughters, Dianna and Joanna, Cornwallis, N.S.

PAINTER—In loving memory of Lydia J. Painter, who passed away March 5, 1950.

—Always remembered by her husband Alex and sister Ethel.

Times Crossword Contest
$400

NO WINNER LAST WEEK

THE RULES

Solve the clues as you would any crossword puzzle. Clip out the dotted form and mail it to The Times Crosswords, c/o The Victoria Daily Times.

You can send in as many entries as you like in one envelope, but they must be on the form printed in the paper. Facsimiles will NOT be permitted. The puzzle will be printed on Fridays, Saturdays and Mondays.

Be sure to clip on the dotted line. This is for the convenience of tallying entries.

EARLY MAILING WILL BE APPRECIATED

The answer will be printed in Friday's paper each week. It will be a good idea to keep a record of your solution and compare it with the answer.

PRIZES

Anyone may enter with the exception of employees of Victoria Press Ltd and their families.

A prize of $25 will be paid for solving the puzzle. If there is more than one winner the prize will be divided.

BONUS

If the winner is a regular daily subscriber to The Times by carrier or mail a special bonus will be paid in addition to the regular prize of $25. When there is no winner this bonus will increase at the rate of $25 per week until a winner is found. When there is more than one winner the current bonus will be divided.

This week's prize is $25, plus a $375 bonus.

Study the clues carefully before you write down your answers. There is always one answer which is best. The decision of the judges in the contest will be final and all contestants taking part agree to abide by their decisions.

T.V. with Lee

Ed Sullivan Hosts Lillian Roth at 8 on Sunday

Previously this column on week-ends has been concentrated on the Saturday evening entertainment. This week, however, we will sketch in Saturday highlights and devote the balance of our space to Sabbath programs. If you prefer it the other way about don't hesitate to call or write in. This is your column.

First of all, however, we'll list the programs for the young fry and sports fans as usual.

Kiddies' Korner

4.30: Mickey Rooney, Channel 2.

5.00: Wild Bill Hickock, Channel 2; Super Circus, 5.

5.30: Disneyland, Channel 2.

6.00: Western movie, "Trailing North," Channel 12; Superman, 13.

(SUNDAY)

12.30: Contest Carnival, Channel 11.

3.30: Sleepy Joe, Channel 13.

4.00: Juvenile Jury, Channel 4.

5.00: Sherlock Holmes, Channel 5.

5.30: Capt. Gallant, Channel 4; Ramar, 11.

5.45: Bible Puppets, Channel 13.

6.30: Roy Rogers, Channel 4; Lassie, 11.

Sport

6.00: Boxing, Channel 5.

6.15: Sport, Channel 13.

8.30: Chicago Wrestling, Channel 12.

9.30: N.Y. Sport Film, Channel 2.

(SUNDAY)

1.30: Penticton V's in pre-world games action; Channel 2.

THE BEST OF SATURDAY: Whether you like him or not he has a habit of growing on you. Who? Jackie Gleason, of course. You'll find him on Channel 11 at 8 with a new episode. The older show is on 2.

Some more old Saturday night favorites can be seen at 9.00. Imogene Coca is on Channel 4 and Two for the Money on 11. A half hour later Donald O'Connor dances on 4. By now it will be 10 and what's better than a gander at funnyman George Gobel on Channel 4. By the time you are through with him (or vice versa) it's time to see this week's edition of The Hit Parade on 4. After that you are on your own with the late movie of your choice.

Headliners

News, previews and religion highlight Sunday morning programs. All are on Channel 11 and start at 9.45 with the news.

Of course the most interesting program for us here in the early afternoon is watching the Penticton V's in action in pre-world hockey films. (They'll probably be champions of the world by the time you watch them!) You can see them on Channel 2 at 1.30.

At 2, on Channel 2, well-known Canadian and B.C. critic Clyde Gilmour discusses mental diseases with Dr. Heinz Lehmans, director of the Verdun Protestant Hospital, Montreal, on the Window on Canada program. Also at 2, but on Channel 11, we can witness Alistair Cooke's Omnibus which will hail the reappearance of baseball with the operatic paen of "The Mighty Casey."

At 2.30 on Channel 2, Ray Bolger delights with his gay dancing. At 2.45 on Channel 5, lovers of the classics can "Look At Music" with Chapple. You Are There can be found on 2 at 3.

At 3.30 old film and TV favorites, Burns and Allen, cavort. In this episode George readies some old baby pictures for the publisher of his book.

What ever you do don't miss Juvenile Jury, an amusing program that has a panel of youngsters answering the problems of other youngsters. It's on Channel 4 at 4.

At 4.30 bookworms may enjoy the Challenge of Books on 5. The discussion will be led by Dr. Williston for the edification of his panel.

All old grads and parents of students of UBC will want to witness UBC Open House Day on Channel 2 at 5.

At the same hour mystery and excitment can be found on Channel 4's Hall of Fame where the Black Dragon Society tries to gum up the Perry expedition, and on Channel 5's Sherlock Holmes' mystery.

At 6 Dr. O'Grady, of Ottawa, evaluates literature over Channel 2 under the heading "Highbrow or Lowbrow?" Also at 6 You Are There depicts the liberation of Paris in 1944. It's on Channel 11.

Highlight of the hour of 7 surely must be Jack Benny on Channel 11. This week Jack is hard put to it to keep up with the boys of the Beaver Patrol. He's also on 12. Or, if you prefer it, you can see Our Miss Brooks on 2, People Are Funny on 4 or You Asked For It on 5.

At 8 on Channel 11, Toast of the Town's Ed Sullivan hosts Lillian Roth, author of the book on alcoholism called "I'll Cry Tomorrow." Ed will also have dancers Mata and Hari, some top U.S. basketballers and the singing Fontaine Sisters. If you missed his salute to Gertrude Lawrence you can pick it up on 2. At the same time singer Gordon MacRae looks after a walloping group of talent on Channel 4's Comedy Hour.

Nine o'clock must be the "play hour." Look at them all! David Niven stars as Robert Louis Stevenson on Channel 2. The story about a singer and a comedian called "Hearts and Flowers" is the TV playhouse offering on 4. Gloria Eaton, Gilbert Frye are featured in the adventure play "The Lost Pegleg Mine," on 5. Cornell Wilde and Jean Wallace are seen in the murder story, "The Blonde Dog."

At 9.30, on Channel 11, Stephen McNally stars as a detective in "Tiger at Noon," wherein a carnival fortune-teller predicts dark happenings. December Bride is on Channel 12.

At 10, Channel 2's Scope examines carefully "One Soul in Two Bodies." Don't let the title scare you. It promises to be interesting. However, if it does scare you there's always Loretta Young to lull you on Channel 4. Admirers of Bob Cummings can find his comedy on Channel 4 at 10.30.

SHAN-TONG
This unusual pattern of fir plywood is the latest addition to the famous P.V. brand of decorative plywoods. Shan-Tong has a rich appearance of expensive, woven Oriental fabric—a rich, intriguing pattern that blends with any decorative style — contemporary, traditional, or exotic. The natural two-toned color (dark brown and cream) of Shan-Tong's "woven" texture requires no further treatment other than a transparent, such as white shellac thinned with methyl-hydrate (wood alcohol); a wipe-off paint effect or solid color can also be used. Shan-Tong comes in sizes 4'x8'-¼" trick, each $6.72.

WHEN PROFITS ARE MEASURED IN PENNIES
Is Leukosis a Prowler on your Farm? If Leukosis stealthily undermines your egg profits—don't take half-way preventative measures. GO ALL OUT, start at the beginning by buying the most resistant chicks you can get.
H&N Nick Chick Leghorns you buy from our hatchery have this Leukosis resistant breeding behind them. That's one reason they live so well where others fade away and die. We don't claim they are 100% but we know they have good resistance when compared to other strains. H&N Nick Chick Random Sample Average Unequalled by any other Leghorn or Hy-bred.
5-Year Calif. avrg. profit $6.14, eggs 256
Test avrg. profit $4.84, eggs 220
Extra H&N profit per chick $1.30, eggs 36
H&N Leghorns, also held the highest three-year average profit at both California and New York. We are the only hatchery in Western Canada that can supply you with H&N NICK CHICKS. Why don't YOU try them and see how much more resistant they are, under the conditions which exist on your farm.
WHY GAMBLE
When you buy broiler chicks buy the chicks that will make you the most PROFIT. Our Cornish Cross took the Random Sample Test in California crossed with first generation Nichols New Hamps or Arbor Acrea White Rocks. All our breeding stock is first generation Nichols or Arbor Acreas. We are the only hatchery in B.C. that imports all their breeding stock from these famous American breeders.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

SATURDAY, MARCH 5, 1955

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) — Using this first day of week to get down to fundamental needs in food, diet, clothing, pets, gardens, plants, health, serving others brings added well-being that suits you. Plug away.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Use every spare moment to improve your personal charm at beauty parlor, barber shop or with whatever treatments bring out your magnetism. P.M. have fun. Be happy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—Applying broom, vacuum cleaner, cleansing fluids, etc. vigorously at home, or arranging for others to do this makes your residence more attractive, saves wear and tear on furnishings. Do your job conscientiously.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Get out early, doing errands, all odd jobs as well as conferring with business contacts, kinfolk, neighbors, considering way you want future channeled. Fix car, sign contracts, wind up correspondence. Be very active, busy.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) —This is your day to bring those big policies which appeal to a really workable basis so you have more money, assets, resources. Systematize your budget to provide extra for pleasures.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Now you can look directly at yourself, decide how, when, where you can improve health, appearance, social contacts. P.M. get off with congenial chums and enjoy yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—You like every single item or particular just right, and this is the day to keep busy, together with intimates, at little things that seem unimportant but which give final touch for charm, efficiency, perfection.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Now you have some pretty expert friends who will join with you in making your dreams come true. However, don't indulge in flights of fancy, but be very basic and you find problems dissolve and all's unusually right.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21—Now you can talk over any lack of well-being you feel, sense, have in wordly matters. Your credit can be enhanced, your popularity restored, your job better done by following suggestions given you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—Study newspaper, other data available early to get advice you need for making your goals more easily yours. Making new contacts aids greatly. Be good to long-time admirer by backing his plan, too.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Studying every cent of your income, outlays given you at last right slant where you are headed in material matters. Then you can arrange with co-workers, money wizards, any improvements. P.M. enjoy romance.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—This is day when it's easy to get together with others; they will talk out with you whatever joint arrangements require meeting of minds. This can take place today. Be specific.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN MONDAY . . .

Today's child is one of those interesting youngsters who will have a great deal of activity in all dealings with others. A course in personal relations, psychology, or the social service vocations would be good to bring out this talent for aiding others with their problems which is so strong a part of your offspring's nature. Always teach your child not to be subjective, that a highly personal attitude is likely to repel persons, whereas thinking of them brings out all the sweetness, capabilities in this youngster's make-up.

54 BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

BOWLING ALLEY CHEMAINUS, V.I.

Circumstances beyond the owner's control make it imperative that this very desirable business MUST be sold at once. For the nine-month bowling season this business has shown a gross take of approximately $11,000, expenses approximately $4,000, leaving a net profit of approximately $7,000. The land, buildings, alleys, chattel, etc., are offered for immediate sale at the very low price of only $35,000 with some terms available. No reasonable offer will be refused.

Same Owner Also Offers at Sacrifice

APARTMENT BLOCK CHEMAINUS, V.I.

This building built in 1949 is situated on one of the main business streets, the building which has two stores on the ground level, and four suites plus two offices on the second level should have some alterations made to develop three 2-bedroom self-contained suites which should rent at $75 per month each. Suites and stores should bring a gross revenue of $4,500 annually. Expenses should not exceed $1,500 annually. Projected large industrial development should make Chemainus a very prosperous town.
Asking price only $25,000
No reasonable offer will be refused.
Both of above must be sold quickly.
For more information contact:
J. M. Chesman, 4-8124; eves., 3-4833.

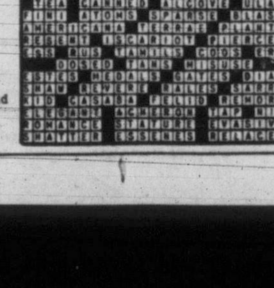
Answer to Last Week's Puzzle



BRIDGE LESSON

By Oswald Jacoby

When East bid four hearts in today's hand it was clear that he considered his suit to be quite powerful. A sensible player doesn't bid for ten tricks in an unsupported suit without considerable length and strength in that suit.

For this reason, West should have regarded a heart opening lead as the safest possible opening. The lead of the king of diamonds from a suit headed by K-Q-J may have looked equally safe, but it turned out to be disastrous.

South won the first trick with the ace of diamonds, drew two rounds of trumps, and led a low diamond. West had to win with the jack, and East showed out, thus revealing the complete diamond situation.

Later on, South could lead the nine of diamonds through West towards dummy's trumps. West had to cover with the queen of diamonds, and dummy could ruff and thus establish the eight of diamonds. If West failed to cover with the queen of diamonds, dummy could discard instead of ruffing.

The point was, of course, that declarer needed to ruff only one diamond in the dummy. This was important, since after two rounds of trumps dummy had only three trumps to take care of declarer's two losing hearts and two losing diamonds. South gave up only one spade and one diamond, thus making his doubled contract.

There would have been a very different story to tell if West had led a heart to begin with. South would have had no favorable diamond situation to help him. He would have three trumps in dummy to ruff two hearts and one diamond.

Hence he would eventually lose two diamond tricks in addition to the inevitable spade loser. Thus South would be down one trick instead of making his contract.

proved of the initial stage. But he promised renewed opposition to the raising of water levels in Buttle Lake.

He said it would "destroy the beauty and value of the lake from a recreational and park standpoint. We are opposed to that."

Mr. Stevens said the league would have no objection "if they stopped at the high water mark on Buttle." He said the main point is "violation of the principle, invasion of a park area."

RECOGNIZE NEED

"We recognize the need that is felt for more power for industrial purposes," he said, "but all other things shouldn't be brushed aside."

Norman Schroeder, Port Alberni, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island, said "in my opinion it is a wonderful thing."

Vancouver Island needs more power, and needs it urgently, he said. Mr. Schroeder said the proposal "will open up a great new playground."

"For many years I was opposed to spoiling of Buttle Lake," he said, "but I went up there last year and found that the way it is now, only a few people are getting in," he said.

He said when the new program is completed, "it will be opened up for everybody in the province. And I don't think it will spoil Buttle as a recreational area."

Douglas Greer, president of Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce, commented "this is what we have been working for for a long time."

He said "we can now go out and encourage secondary industries, and assure them of more power." Mr. Greer said the raising of Buttle Lake in the second stage of the development "might be objectionable to the conservationist, but we feel more power will benefit the whole Island."

It is the main concern of Nanaimo to attract more secondary industries, he said. Mr. Greer said he didn't think raising of Buttle "will cause too much difficulty."

the state of the campus then, Dr. MacKenzie said:

"As a guess from me, I would think UBC will look much the same as now, because I think all the buildings now in use, including huts, will still be here—that is, if some don't burn down in the meantime.

"But there will be added an arts building, residence units of a permanent kind, a medical science building and possibly the biological sciences building will be completed. It still needs a wing and another story."

Students and teachers come first in any plans for further building, he said, pointing out that the present administration building will not be replaced until greater needs are provided for.

NEW PROJECTS

By 1965 the president hopes there will be a new home management house, perhaps teacher training buildings, and it is almost certain there will be a need for more engineering and applied science space.

It is also possible there will be Presbyterian and Roman Catholic residences, with the view to making them colleges. International House is slated to have a new residence soon, having been pledged $150,000 by Vancouver Rotary Club.

Other departments and schools lacking permanent, adequate accommodation are music, fine arts, social work and architecture.

Dr. MacKenzie said, "We already have a great university. Its greatness depends on the traditions of the students and faculty no less than on monies being available."

Victoria May Levy New License Fee On Liquor Outlets

Victoria will survey the liquor license fee arrangements of other cities before setting a charge for local beer, wine and spirits outlets.

The move is the latest step in estimates meetings designed to boost revenues and offset higher municipal costs in 1955.

City council finance committee has authorized city manager C. C. Wyatt to find what license fees are charged by cities of a comparable size. Maximum under the Liquor Act is $750 for six months, but council considers this unreasonable.

There are 22 beer or liquor outlets in Victoria, apart from city clubs.

Albania Offered $850,000 Food By Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has offered food supplies to Albania to ease what he called the "current food shortage" in the Communist country.

He made the offer Friday through the League of Red Cross Societies. The White House said the program would cost approximately $850,000 with an additional expense of about $125,000 for ocean freight.

The shipments would include wheat flour, corn, dry edible beans and vegetable oil.

The offer was made under a law authorizing the United States to send food supplies to needy people without regard to the friendliness of their government.

Race Prejudice Charged in Immigration Law

TORONTO (BUP)—A lawyer who has acted in several deportation cases charged last night that Canada's immigration act, which went into effect in 1953, has racial prejudice written into it.

Andrew Brewin told the opening session of a two-day race relations conference that the act "gives carte blanche to anyone in the immigration department who harbors a racial bias" and that hearings for immigrants facing deportation are a farce.

Knife in Throat Kills Kamloops Rail Worker

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—Joseph Stasa, 51-year-old section worker, died in hospital here Friday of a knife wound in the throat.

Investigating RCMP officers said a bloodstained knife was found near Stasa in a CPR bunkhouse Thursday morning.

RCMP declined to say whether an inquest will be held.

$161 Million Expansion Planned for Toronto Subway

TORONTO (BUP) — Toronto Transit Commission plans for another 14 miles of rapid transit lines costing $161,000,000 have been completed and a report on the 13-year project will be made within 60 days by metropolitan and city planning boards.

The TTC urged prompt action on the program which it outlined Friday.

Canada's only subway now is operating at 70 per cent capacity on downtown Yonge Street, carrying 263,000 persons daily.

The TTC proposed:

1. A $120,000,000 combined subway and expressway along Bloor Street. Construction of the 11-mile line would be spread over an 11-year period.

2. A $26,000,000 subway covering two miles of University Avenue between Queen and Bloor Streets, to absorb the overload an east-west tube would place on the Yonge Street system.

3. A $15,000,000 line along one mile of Queen Street, between McCaul and Sherbourne, to connect with the Yonge and proposed University tubes.

The TTC said the Queen Street vine could operate by 1958. The University project could be opened by 1964, the TTC said, but final staegs of the Bloor line would not be completed before 1968.

Fast Ferry Service

THE REVIEW, SIDNEY

Some months ago members of the aggressive Victoria Chamber of Commerce took note of the crying need for a fast ferry service to connect the B.C. capital with Vancouver via some North Saanich port. They pictured a fast vessel making two or more voyages every day and carrying heavy freight for the well-populated southern part of Vancouver Island.

The chamber, supported by the Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce, politely asked the CPR to establish such a service. The company graciously declined.

Dr. E. T. Fairey, Victoria MP, then asked that the federal department of transport economics bureau make a detailed study of the proposal. This survey was carried out and the findings announced. In a nutshell, the bureau found that such a fast ferry service linking a North Saanich port with the B.C. mainland was uneconomic if it faced the daily competition of the long-established Vancouver-Victoria CPR ferry service. Conversely the Sidney-Vancouver service can be expected to operate at a profit if the unprofitable Vancouver-Victoria service is abandoned.

The decision appears to be one which the good people of Victoria will have to face. Are they willing to agree to a termination of the ferry service there for the good of the majority of the residents of southern Vancouver Island? In turning the problem over in their minds, they should not overlook one important factor. The existing service is branded as unprofitable by the operators. So it seems logical that it will be abandoned sooner or later anyway, for no company can be expected to continue losing money indefinitely.

Future deliberations of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce in this connection will be watched with great interest by thousands residing in the lower Vancouver Island area.

International Roads

THE COWICHAN LEADER

Canadians west of the Rockies are associated more closely with the American way of life than the more thickly populated central provinces north of the Great Lakes.

Latest evidence of this was presented in a small item which came before Duncan Chamber of Commerce last week. The chamber at Hope, southern gateway to the Fraser Canyon, protested against the borrowing of American highway numbers for Canadian roads.

Of interest is the fact that groups in B.C. and Washington State should consider it natural to keep the same numbering on both sides of the border. Newer ideas perhaps flourish more quickly west of the Rockies. Besides B.C. should consider the implications for this province of a growing Alaska, even of possible statehood for Alaska, with the stimulation of interest in travel through B.C. by Americans that that would bring.

Uniformity in road signs for travelers is a desirable objective. B.C. sensibilities should not be affronted by what may prove to be of mutual advantage to both American and Canadian motorists. The U.S. system of having east-west highways designated by even numbers and north-south highways by odd numbers is sound. Our developing northland calls for us to take into account such aids to easier international movement. In this respect, we could well set the pattern for other parts of the country.

Salt Spring Island Farmers Name G. Heinekey President

GANGES: George Heinekey was again chosen chairman of the Islands' Farmers' Institute at its annual meeting Wednesday evening in Mahon Hall, Ganges.

Other directors elected were E. H. Gear, T. J. Butt, W. Shaw and R. Akerman. Wm. Renwick was appointed secretary and Ken Fletcher will act as treasurer. Auditors will be W. Palmer and F. Stevens.

Annual report of the secretary-treasurer, W. Crawford, showed receipts for the past year amounted to $3,450.42 with disbursements of $2,485.40 leaving a balance of $965.02.

Three representatives of the department of agriculture, C. Nelson, soil analyst; G. Calver, land development and D. Crossfield of the Duncan branch, addressed the meeting. Mr. Nelson reported on soil tests taken on Salt Spring Island during the last two years, which show that 16-20 fertilizer will give the biggest response on hay and pasture crop, in this area. He emphasized the importance of using the recommended amount of fertilizer per acre in order to receive the best yield.

LAND CLEARING

Also of much interest to members of the Institute was the talk by Mr. Calver on the land clearing development being carried on by the Farmers' Land Clearance Assistance Act.

The Act applies to all farmers in B.C. and Mr. Calver spoke of the clearing that has already been carried out on Vancouver Island.

He recommended that anyone on Salt Spring Island wishing to have clearing done make application so that it may be determined if there is enough work on the Island to warrant moving required heavy equipment. He estimated the cost at an average of $70 per acre and said that it was necessary that stumping be done beforehand.

Pearkes Wants Seaplane Dock For Pat Bay

Float Will Cost About $3,000

SIDNEY—Seaplane float facilities at Patricia Bay Airport, missing since the dismantling of the RCAF station, still are being sought by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, MP.

He has spoken to the director of civil aviation in Ottawa in the hope of having a float constructed this summer. Cost has been estimated at $3,000, but Gen. Pearkes has called the price small, since it likely would alleviate much of the present congestion at Sea Island Airport in Vancouver.

Floats would help those firms that used seaplanes to travel up and down the coast, and the large number of visitors who arrive by air, according to Gen. Pearkes.

In past years the airport has proved a popular port of entry, especially for light planes during the summer months. Aviation enthusiasts feel that with modern facilities and sufficient accommodation this popularity will increase.

Driver's Life Saved By Tree

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP) — A tree, growing from the bank of a creek, saved Alfred Attfield from drowing when his car left the road near here and plunged 30 feet down a bank and hung up on the tree above the creek. Attfield, alone in the car, kicked out one section of the shattered windshield and crawled back up the bank of the ravine. He suffered only a cut finger.

Dairyman Urges Culling of Herds

DUNCAN (CP)—Severe culling of low-producing cows is advocated by J. A. Mace of Victoria, supervisor of Dairy Herd Improvement Association work in B.C.

"Too many dairymen have been watching quotas instead of checking individual productions," he said here this week.

Lumber Shipments Up

NANAIMO (CP) — Lumber shipments from Nanaimo were up more than 1,000,000 board feet in February over the corresponding period of last year. A total of 5,881,338 board feet left the assembly wharf this year, against 4,692,581 in February, 1954.

New Hospital Scheme Proposed for Duncan

Will Start This Year on Self-Contained Building Suitable for Future Additions

DUNCAN—Given "support of the people and approval of the government," King's Daughters' Hospital should be ready to start a building program at the year's end, G. E. Wellburn, president, said at the annual meeting of Cowichan District Hospital Association.

He referred to a new proposed self-contained unit the association hopes to build on the present hospital site.

He mentioned that the directors' plans had been held in abeyance until they knew what decision was made at Cowichan Lake, as the district would not support a large new 160-bed hospital in Duncan if there were another smaller, but modern, hospital built at Lake Cowichan.

CHANGE PLANS

"By year end we realized that it was intended by the Lake Cowichan District Hospital Association to build, and that approval of the BCHIS was to be sought. We then came to the conclusion that our plans must be changed, and that although a new fireproof hospital must still be erected to replace the outdated building we now have, we must start with a new unit, modern in all respects, which could eventually be built up into any size that the district might subsequently need," Mr. Wellburn said.

Hospital administrator F. Hoey pointed out that while Duncan was getting new schools, a community centre and other advantages, it had everything but a new hospital. He said that the population of this district was increasing every year, especially with children. He cited the inadequacy of the present children's ward by telling the meeting that it was only equipped with 16 beds, but often the children hospitalized averaged 23.

Mr. Hoey felt sure that the money would be raised to build the new unit.

"We really are determined to do something on the King's Daughters' site this year. All we want from the people of this district is enthusiasm," he said.

In his report for the year, Mr. Hoey said that the medical staff at the hospital "has worked under much difficulty at times due to the lack of sufficient beds, and the need of enlarged services in the various departments of the hospital."

SMALL DEFICIT

R. W. Whittome, finance committee chairman, said that operating revenue last year came to $459,274, while operating expense was $465,430. The operating revenue in 1953 was $414,378, and operating expense was $417,703.

The net deficit on the year's operations was $1,542. However, it is anticipated that the deficit may be nullified when an allowance is received from the BCHIS with regard to the operation during the last three months of the 12-bed ward. Mr. Whittome said "an inspection of the balance sheet of the hospital indicates the hospital enjoys a healthy financial condition, having a working capital of $58,276."

Mr. Wellburn was re-elected as president of the board with the following also being re-elected: H. C. Stone, Ken Clark and Miss J. MacFarlane. Sir Philip Livingstone and R. Haskins were elected as directors.

Labor Groups Pledge Aid to Striking ITU

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — Labor groups have again pledged support to the International Typographical Union in its dispute with the West Coast Advoeate, weekly newspaper published here.

Publisher Irving Wilson signed with ITU Tuesday after pickets had been out for six weeks. The picket line was re-established Thursday morning after ITU member Jim Greenwood said he had been laid off.

The only other union printer in the shop at the beginning of the dispute has left town. Greenwood said, leaving no ITU men on the payroll.

The ITU, through its local headquarters in Nanaimo, claims that publisher Wilson has broken the contract signed Tuesday, which called for an 8 per cent wage increase.

V's, Russians Both Confident

Teams Resting Today in Preparation For Sunday's World Hockey Final

KREFELD, Germany (UP)—George Rogulsky, Soviet all-union sports committee vice-president, said today the Russian team was fit and confident of victory in the deciding game with Canada Sunday for the World Amateur Hockey Championship.

By SID GODBER, Editor, Penticton Herald

DUESSELDORF (UP)—In the early hours of this morning playing coach Grant Warwick of the Penticton V's gave me a slow, deliberate wink.

That wink is significant—I've seen it before, always when the chips were down, often when the odds against the Penticton V's seemed overwhelming.

That wink tells me that Warwick is confident that the V's will win the world hockey crown with goals to spare.

If the Canadians don't win it then about 75 per cent of the world's sports news and radio men are out on the limb.

After Friday night's game with Sweden the press gallery boomed confidence in the V's, although the foreign press is still somewhat bewildered. The "rough, dirty Canadians" have crossed them up. In two games the V's have won decisively while wearing halos.

"You know as well as I know that this deal isn't for Penticton alone, it's for Canada," Grant said. "It's for those people in Berlin and those people behind the Iron Curtain who want to see the Russian myth of we can beat the world at anything exploded.

"This is a big deal, bigger than I thought it was before I got over here."

The dynamic little playing coach chewed thoughtfully on a fig. "I guess I'm the one in the hot seat."

"Seems a guy can't win." Then Warwick grinned, looked me straight in the eye and winked. Slowly and deliberately he winked.

I left him then, knowing that all's well for everybody but the Russians.

Vancouver Boxer Dies After Brawl

WILLIAMS LAKE, B.C. (CP)—Two boys are dead and another is in custody here following a double shooting near Ochiltree, 22 miles east of here, and a snowshoe chase through the bush by RCMP.

Police said one of the dead was the brother of the boy in custody. No charges have been laid.

First reports said four boys were playing with a rifle Friday on a farm two miles in the bush from Ochiltree.

The dead boys were aged 13 and 12. Age of the fourth was not divulged.

HORSEBACK CHASE

After the shooting, police said, one boy fled the scene on snowshoes while the other ran to Ochiltree where a call was placed to the RCMP.

Constable J. Groves motored to Ochiltree from Williams Lake and then went after the boy on horseback, catching up with him two miles from the shooting scene.

It was believed that one boy lived on the farm and the other three were staying overnight with him. The farmer and his wife were in Williams Lake shopping when the shooting occurred.

Williams Lake is in the Cariboo, 300 miles from Vancouver.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 20-year-old former Canadian amateur boxing champion, never knocked out in the ring, died today following a street brawl.

Police are investigating the death of Robert Wilson (Buddy) Pearson, who died in a car following a fracas between six youths outside a dance hall.

Pearson, apparently unharmed after the fight, walked back to his companions but collapsed later in the back seat of their car. Six persons were questioned by police but no arrests have been made. Actual cause of death has not been determined.

Wolves Win To Bolster Soccer Lead

LONDON (Reuters)—Wolverhampton Wanderers, favorites to win the Football Association Cup, today, trounced lowly Leicester, 5-0, to improve their position at the head of Division I of the English Soccer League.

The victory on a muddy field lifted Wolverhampton's points tally to 40 from 31 games, two more than its nearest rival, Sunderland—held to a 1-1 draw at home by Cardiff.

Third-place Chelsea lost ground at Aston Villa where it was beaten, 3-2, and Portsmouth, with a 3-1 home win over Newcastle United, moved up to tie two points behind Sunderland. (See results page 3.)

Big Three Parley To Follow French Arms Ratification

PARIS (UP)—French official sources said today a meeting of the western Big Three foreign ministers appears certain after final ratification by France of the German rearmament treaties.

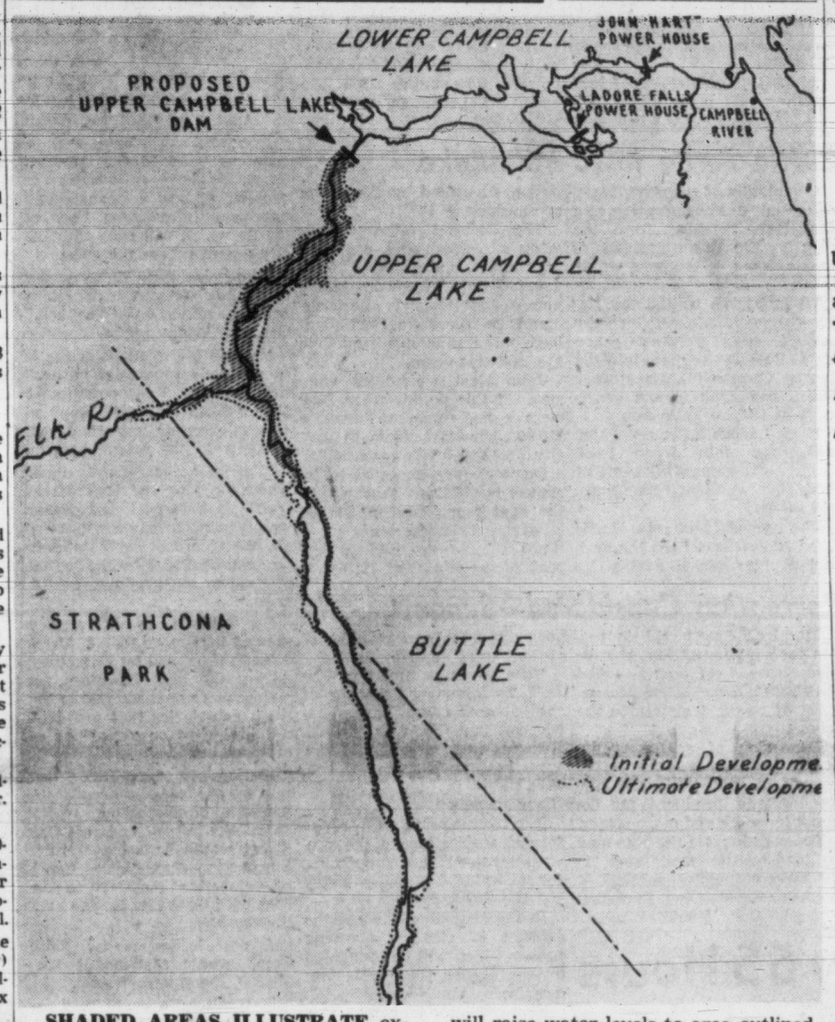
French sources said the meeting had not been set definitely but that it was under discussion.

The Conservative morning newspaper Figaro added weight to the information in a Washington dispatch that the Big Three probably would meet there in April.

'TOO MANY BABIES' SAYS BROCK CHISHOLM

If you as a Canadian want a large family, don't try to produce all the children youreslves, but adopt some from the over-populated countries.

This is the formula which Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director of the World Health Organization, who now lives at Otter Point, proposes as a solution to the problem created by fast-growing population of the world. Turn to Weekend Magazine for his article on "Too Many Babies."



SHADED AREAS ILLUSTRATE extent of flooding to be caused by new B.C. Power Commission dam on Upper Campbell Lake, in first stage of $19,000,000 development. Second stage will raise water levels to area outlined by dotted lines, raising level of Buttle Lake 15 feet above high water. Also marked are BCPC dams at Ladore Falls and John Hart.

CONSERVATIONISTS COMMENT

Upper Campbell Hydro Plan Given Modified Approval

The B.C. Power Commission's decision to dam Upper Campbell Lake for hydro purposes instead of Buttle Lake drew modified approval today from conservationists on Vancouver Island, but they expressed hopes the final stage of the $19,000,000 scheme that will raise Buttle Lake waters by 15 feet might prove unnecessary.

The big hydro plan to meet the Island's growing power need was announced Friday afternoon by Premier W. A. C. Bennett. (See story on page 2.)

Conservationists, spear-headed by California oil man Will Reid, who owns a home on Buttle, and Roderick Haig-Brown, Campbell River magistrate and noted author, have conducted a four-year campaign against the damming of Buttle Lake, which they claim would ruin a wonderful natural asset.

Mr. Haig-Brown said: "The first stage is fine, and we have no quarrel with that at all. It is the second stage that will do most of the damage (to Buttle Lake) that we are trying to get away from."

Buttle Lake lies two-thirds within the borders of Strathcona Park, and Mr. Haig-Brown said "we are still against the principle of violating the sanctity of a park—that is a very dangerous principle."

He said the new plan "is a big advance. It might well be that by the time work is to start on the second stage, the situation might be reassessed. Someone in the government might have the guts to put a real value on park land, and balance one against the other."

CLOSE WORK

Mr. Haig-Brown said that if the second stage is carried out on schedule, close co-operation will be required between commission engineers and parks and recreation branch officials.

He said the proposal will give more time for planning of the recreational aspects.

"If it is properly handled, it will be a tremendous recreational asset," he said.

Times Will Sponsor Heart Disease Forum

A public medical forum on the all-important question of heart disease will be held at the Central Junior High School auditorium, on April 14, it was announced today.

The forum is jointly sponsored by the Victoria Times and the Victoria Medical Society, a branch of the B.C. Division, Canadian Medical Association.

Five Victoria doctors, all expert on heart ailments, will compose the panel to discuss the various phases of the disease.

Heading it will be Dr. T. F. Rose as moderator. The other panellists are Doctors P. A. C. Cousland, R. A. Hunter, Stuart G. Kenning and Peter Banks.

Admission will be free to the general public by tickets which will be issued later. Arrangements for obtaining tickets will be announced next week.

Plans are also being made to invite questions from the public, to be answered by the panel. Further announcements will be made on how the questions are to be submitted.

Situation 'Critical' After New Clashes

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)—Jordanian military sources charged today that five Arabs were killed by Israeli troops after a raid across the Jordan border. They said that 20 Israeli soldiers kidnapped the Jordanians and killed them after carrying them into Israeli territory.

GAZA, Egypt (AP)—Sixteen wives and children of United Nations truce observers were evacuated today from Gaza as tension mounted in the refugee-filled Arab area, scene of fighting last Monday by Israeli and Arab troops.

Firing getween Egyptian and Israeli outposts for 10 minutes was reported Friday night at the border area of Dier el Ballah. The evacuation of six women and 10 children to Jerusalem was ordered by the UN commander, who said "The situation is becoming very difficult because of the agitation of thousands of refugees in Gaza."

PROTECTIVE GUARD

About 20 other wives and children of UN Workers and Relief Agency (UNWRA) officials still remain in Gaza under a protective guard of the Egyptian army.

Maj.-Gen. Abdullah Rifaat, governor of Gaza, said today that Israelis opened fire on the Egyptian post of Dier el Ballah Friday night. He said no Egyptians were wounded.

In Cairo, a military spokesman said Egyptian forces are "ready for anything" but denied a report that troops have been moved up to the border.

Egyptian Premier Gamel Abdel Nasser, in a speech Thursday, threatened "retaliation by force" in case of further Israeli attacks.

JERUSALEM (AP) — Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canadian chief of the United Nations truce supervision organization in Palestine, may leave Jerusalem for New York early next week to report to the Security Council of the Gaza incident, a UN spokesman said today.

The Egypt-Israel mixed armistice commission holds an emergency session Sunday into the Gaza fighting.

NANAIMO MAN ACQUITTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

NANAIMO (CP)—An assize court jury Friday acquitted Arthur Stewart Royale of Nanaimo, on a charge of manslaughter arising from the Nov. 10 traffic death of Mrs. Mary MacMillan.

Evidence showed Mrs. MacMillan was walking on the wrong side of the road at night and that blinding headlights from an approaching car made it impossible for Royale to see her.

Warmer Wave 8 Hours Late —But Welcome

A warm cloud blanket — eight hours late but nonetheless welcome—today covered Victoria and raised its temperature to 34 degrees for the first time in a week.

The cloud will continue to thicken, according to weatherman William Mackie, and although the temperature will drop to about 28 degrees tonight, it will reach from 38 to 40 degrees Sunday.

He expects some light rain Sunday, and snow at upper levels.

Overnight temperature dropped to a low of 22 degrees at Gonzales Observatory, but residents in sheltered areas reported temperatures down to 17 degrees overnight.

RECORD LOW

The unusual aspect of the past cold spell is well illustrated in temperature figures for Friday. Maximum temperature for the day was 28.8 degrees, and the all-time record low for March 4 in all previous years was 29.4 degrees.

Most of British Columbia enjoyed higher temperatures today. Coldest spot overnight was Kimberley, where the mercury dipped to 17 below, but Capt St. James on the Queen Charlotte Islands recorded 33 above for an overnight maximum.

Sailors Must Leave Canada

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three Yugoslav sailors who jumped ship here last October will be deported from Canada but will not be forced to return to Yugoslavia or another Communist country.

All had asked for asylum in Canada but lawyer John J. Volrich said here today the appeal against deportation orders had been dismissed.

Mr. Volrich said he now is considering an appeal to Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Vast Educational Facilities At UBC on View at Open House

By AB KENT, Times Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER—The biggest display of educational facilities in the province opened today at University of British Columbia at a cost of only $5,000.

Every one of the university's 145 buildings is open to public inspection, most with some kind of display prepared specially for the triennial Open House.

Student organizations, the administration and student government are putting on their greatest co-operative program and are donating a large measure of time and services, accounting for the small cost.

The project—so vast it can only be attempted every three years—is designed to "illustrate to and familiarize the public with the range of higher educational opportunities as provided by the university for the development of the province and the country," said the president's deputy, Dean Geoffrey C. Andrew.

He said Open House is also a gesture of appreciation to the public for the support given UBC.

Present for the occasion are members of the Legislature and Premier W. A. C. Bennett. Minister of Education Ray Williston opened proceedings at 11 a.m. in the campus field house where visitors are seeing continuous exhibitions of organized student activities.

Citizens are being shown everything from a model 20th century stock exchange to a mock-up 18th century apotecary shop.

Students demonstrate the uses of a lie detector, used in the psychology department; a helium liquifier which produces temperatures of 450 degrees below zero for the physics department; a device dreamed up by metalurgists to melt metal in mid-air; the university library book bindery and microfilming department; agricultural stock; home economics; the 26-bed infirmary; legislative systems and court procedure.

Visitors see how the university is administered, how its heat and power are supplied, where students live, study and eat and a myriad other things.

University authorities hope the public will see how vital a university is to British Columbia, and how urgently UBC needs funds to provide for a wider educational field than it now has, and new buildings in which to put lecturers, laboratories and students.

President Norman A. MacKenzie believes UBC has before it "one of the most exciting, interesting and promising features in the world."

UN Wives Flee Jew-Arab Area

Arabs Killed in New Clashes In War Tense 'Truce Strip'

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)—Jordanian military sources charged today that five Arabs were killed by Israeli troops after a raid across the Jordan border. They said that 20 Israeli soldiers kidnapped the Jordanians and killed them after carrying them into Israeli territory.

GAZA, Egypt (AP)—Sixteen wives and children of United Nations truce observers were evacuated today from Gaza as tension mounted in the refugee-filled Arab area, scene of fighting last Monday by Israeli and Arab troops.

Firing getween Egyptian and Israeli outposts for 10 minutes was reported Friday night at the border area of Dier el Ballah. The evacuation of six women and 10 children to Jerusalem was ordered by the UN commander, who said "The situation is becoming very difficult because of the agitation of thousands of refugees in Gaza."

PROTECTIVE GUARD

About 20 other wives and children of UN Workers and Relief Agency (UNWRA) officials still remain in Gaza under a protective guard of the Egyptian army.

Maj.-Gen. Abdullah Rifaat, governor of Gaza, said today that Israelis opened fire on the Egyptian post of Dier el Ballah Friday night. He said no Egyptians were wounded.

In Cairo, a military spokesman said Egyptian forces are "ready for anything" but denied a report that troops have been moved up to the border.

Egyptian Premier Gamel Abdel Nasser, in a speech Thursday, threatened "retaliation by force" in case of further Israeli attacks.

JERUSALEM (AP) — Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canadian chief of the United Nations truce supervision organization in Palestine, may leave Jerusalem for New York early next week to report to the Security Council of the Gaza incident, a UN spokesman said today.

The Egypt-Israel mixed armistice commission holds an emergency session Sunday into the Gaza fighting.

Gunplay Kills 2 Lads

WILLIAMS LAKE (CP)—A teen-age boy was held by RCMP here today in connection with the fatal shooting of two other boys on a lonely ranch at Ochiltree, 24 miles from this Cariboo district town.

The victims were identified as Stanley Sharp, 13, and Wesley Hutch, 15, killed with a .22 rifle while with two other boys late Friday.

The teen-ager held in custody was captured after a two-mile chase on horseback through snow-covered bushland.

The shooting took place on the ranch of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Sharp, parents of one of the victims.

After the shooting, police said, one boy fled the scene on snowshoes while the other ran to Ochiltree where a call was placed to the RCMP.

It was believed that one boy lived on the farm and the other three were staying overnight with him. The farmer and his wife were in Williams Lake shopping when the shooting occurred.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 20-year-old former Canadian amateur boxing champion, never knocked out in the ring, died today following a street brawl.

Police are investigating the death of Robert Wilson (Buddy) Pearson, who died in a car following a fracas between six youths outside a dance hall.

Bar Finn Tanker

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain will refuse fuelling facilities at her Far Eastern ports to the Finnish tanker Aruba, now understood to be bound for Communist China with a cargo of kerosene, a foreign office spokesman said Friday.

Times Will Sponsor Heart Disease Forum

A public medical forum on the all-important question of heart disease will be held at the Central Junior High School auditorium, on April 14, it was announced today.

The forum is jointly sponsored by the Victoria Times and the Victoria Medical Society, a branch of the B.C. Division, Canadian Medical Association.

Five Victoria doctors, all expert on heart ailments, will compose the panel to discuss the various phases of the disease.

Heading it will be Dr. T. F. Rose as moderator. The other panelists are Doctors P. A. C. Cousland, R. A. Hunter, Stuart G. Kenning and Peter Banks.

Admission will be free to the general public by tickets which will be issued later. Arrangements for obtaining tickets will be announced next week.

Plans are also being made to invite questions from the public, to be answered by the panel. Further announcements will be made on how the questions are to be submitted.

Calgary Girl Wins Both Shuttle Titles

MONTREAL (BUP) — Jean Waring, 17-year-old Calgary schoolgirl, won the national girls' badminton championship today and then conquered defending women's champion Marj Shedd of Toronto.

It was the first time in the tournament's history that one player had won both junior and senior titles the same year.

Miss Waring won 11-6, 11-3 from 27-year-old, left-handed Miss Shedd, who was gunning for her third straight championship.

Miss Waring earlier won the junior championship by defeating Audrey Rhodes of Stratford, Ont., 11-0, 11-7.

Don Smythe, 31-year-old Toronto paint salesman, defeated his fellow townsman Bev Westcott, 15-11, 15-9, to become the first Canadian to win the national men's singles championship four years in a row.

DUESSELDORF, Germany (UP)—Clem Bird, president of Canada's Penticton V's, today expressed confidence that his team will win the world amateur hockey title back from Russia "by more goals than some people think."

Ticket scalpers were reported getting 50 marks ($11.90) for tickets to the game, and the price will probably hit 100 marks ($23.81) tomorrow morning.

Bird's confidence was typical of the V's attitude as they lounged about today. "The team hasn't really shown what it can do yet," he said. "When they get going, they're not going to be stopped."

Meanwhile, at Krefeld, Georgi Rogulsky, Soviet all-union sports committee vice-president, was equally confident of a Russian victory.

Rogulsky said the Soviet team was fit and would play its best against Canada.

DUESSELDORF (UP)—In the early hours of this morning playing coach Grant Warwick of the Penticton V's gave me a slow, deliberate wink.

That wink is significant—I've seen it before, always when the chips were down, often when the odds against the Penticton V's seemed overwhelming.

That wink tells me that Warwick is confident that the V's will win the world hockey crown with goals to spare.

If the Canadians don't win it then about 75 per cent of the world's sports news and radio men are out on the limb.

After Friday night's game with Sweden the press gallery boomed confidence in the V's, although the foreign press is still somewhat bewildered. The "rough, dirty Canadians" have crossed them up. In two games the V's have won decisively while wearing halos.

"You know as well as I know that this deal isn't for Penticton alone, it's for Canada," Grant said. "It's for those people in Berlin and those people behind the Iron Curtain who want to see the Russian myth of we can beat the world at anything exploded.

"This is a big deal, bigger than I thought it was before I got over here."

The dynamic little playing coach chewed thoughtfully on a fig. "I guess I'm the one in the hot seat."

"Seems a guy can't win." Then Warwick grinned, looked me straight in the eye and winked. Slowly and deliberately he winked.

I left him then, knowing that all's well for everybody but the Russians.

Warmer Wave 8 Hours Late —But Welcome

A warm cloud blanket — eight hours late but nonetheless welcome—today covered Victoria and raised its temperature to 34 degrees for the first time in a week.

The cloud will continue to thicken, according to weatherman William Mackie, and although the temperature will drop to about 28 degrees tonight, it will reach from 38 to 40 degrees Sunday.

He expects some light rain Sunday, and snow at upper levels.

Overnight temperature dropped to a low of 22 degrees at Gonzales Observatory, but residents in sheltered areas reported temperatures down to 17 degrees overnight.

The unusual aspect of the past cold spell is well illustrated in temperature figures for Friday. Maximum temperature for the day was 28.8 degrees, and the all-time record low for March 4 in all previous years was 29.4 degrees.

Most of British Columbia enjoyed higher temperatures today. Coldest spot overnight was Kimberley, where the mercury dipped to 17 below.

Vast Educational Facilities At UBC on View at Open House

By AB KENT, Times Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER—The biggest display of educational facilities in the province opened today at University of British Columbia at a cost of only $5,000.

Every one of the university's 145 buildings is open to public inspection, most with some kind of display prepared specially for the triennial Open House.

Student organizations, the administration and student government are putting on their greatest co-operative program and are donating a large measure of time and services, accounting for the small cost.

The project—so vast it can only be attempted every three years—is designed to "illustrate to and familiarize the public with the range of higher educational opportunities as provided by the university for the development of the province and the country," said the president's deputy, Dean Geoffrey C. Andrew.

He said Open House is also a gesture of appreciation to the public for the support given UBC.

Present for the occasion are members of the Legislature and Premier W. A. C. Bennett. Minister of Education Ray Williston opened proceedings at 11 a.m. in the campus field house where visitors are seeing continuous exhibitions of organized student activities.

Citizens are being shown everything from a model 20th century stock exchange to a mock-up 18th century apothecary shop.

Students demonstrate the uses of a lie detector, used in the psychology department; a helium liquifier which produces temperatures of 450 degrees below zero for the physics department; a device dreamed up by metalurgists to melt metal in mid-air; the university library book bindery and microfilming department; agricultural stock; home economics; the 26-bed infirmary; legislative systems and court procedure.

Visitors see how the university is administered, how its heat and power are supplied, where students live, study and eat, and a myriad other things.

University authorities hope the public will see how vital a university is to British Columbia, and how urgently UBC needs funds to provide for a wider educational field than it now has, and new buildings in which to put lecturers, laboratories and students.

President Norman A. MacKenzie believes UBC has before it "one of the most exciting, interesting and promising futures in the world."
